Only Slight Relief From Heat Due

The worst smog in Marin history, combined with heat that sent thermometer readings soaring to as high as 110 degrees made yesterday a day which county residents would like to, but won't, soon forget.

Today's weather forecast indicated that Marin will get some small measure of relief from the oppressive heat over the weekend with some "cooling" in the afternoons predicted. But the prospects were for continued high temperatures, polluted air and low humidity through tomorrow.

The 110-degree readings yesterday were recorded at the Marin County Fire Department's central station at Woodacre and at the San Anselmo Firehouse.

At the Novato fire station the high was 109. In San Rafael it was 105. And at Mill Valley the unofficial high was 99.

The thermometer at the Marin County Savings and Loan Assn. office in downtown San Rafael showed 109 degrees at 4:30 p.m. and 103 degrees at 7:30 p.m.

Yesterday's official high in San Rafael was 105. At noon today the reading atop the San Rafael City Hall was 83; the savings and loan thermometer recorded 87.

The county's Woodacre fire station said that the relative humidity reading dropped to 6 per cent yesterday, and the humidity was falling rapidly again today.

Long-time residents said yesterday's eye-watering smog was by far the worst they could remember. In San Francisco, where the mercury reached 92 degrees in the downtown area, the smog count—.49 oxidants per million parts of air—was the worst on record for the city.

Marin's air pollution apparently came from two sources—the same as that responsible for San Francisco's smog, and from the smoke of fires burning to the north of the county.

County firemen at one time yesterday were called to the Pt. Reyes Peninsula for what was first thought to be a fire. It turned out, instead, to be the collected smoke of those fires to the north.

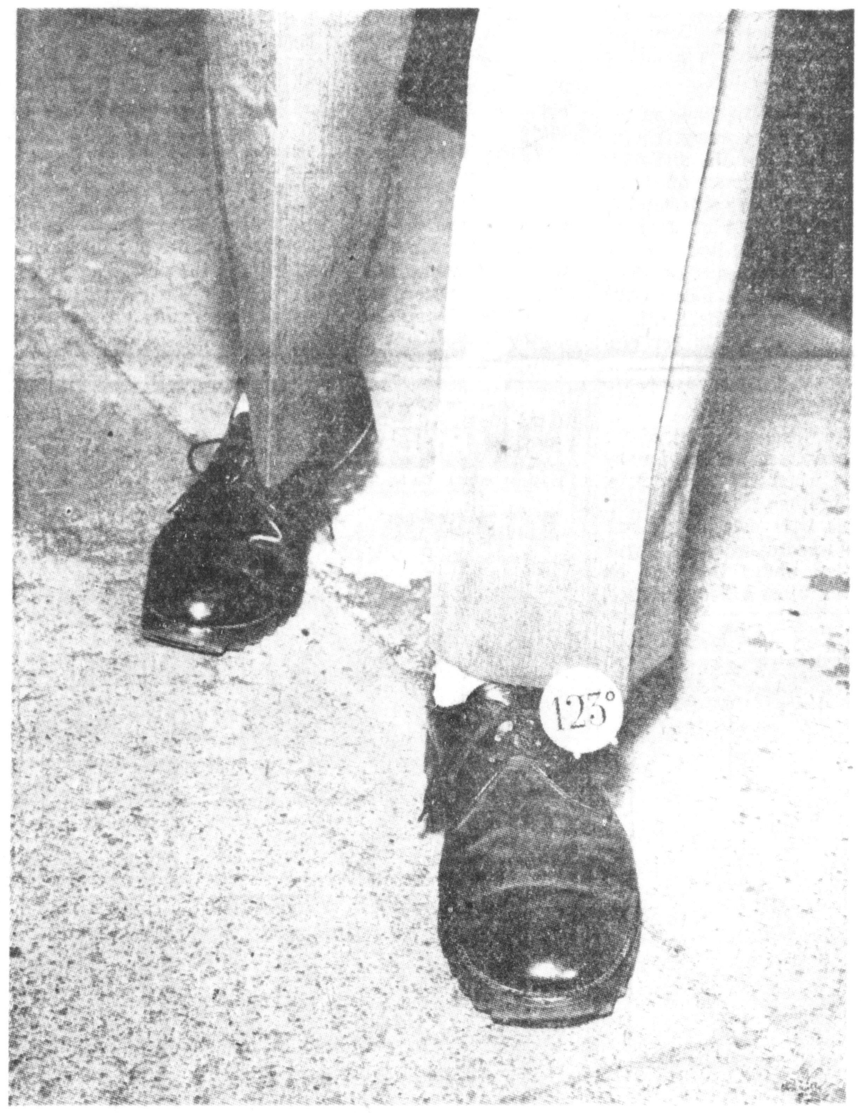
COOLER UP HERE, BUT . . . — To Emil Englke, elongated San Rafael postman, the reading on the official thermometer in the shade at City Hall doesn't mean a thing. It's much hotter out on the Fifth avenue sidewalk as he delivers the mail. A thermometer check as he made his rounds yesterday showed 120 degrees at Bill's cap, 6 feet 3 inches above the pavement. But that isn't what bothers Englke.



. . . OH MAN! THOSE HOT DOGS! — It's the temperature down on the sidewalk that really gets the postman as he tramps on his rounds. It's three degrees hotter down there than up atop Englke, the termometer showed — a sizzling 123 degrees. (Independent—Journal photos by Dick Steinheimer)

Sizzling Weather Plagues Firemen At Marin Blazes

School, House, Grass Blazes Keep 3 Departments Busy

Sausalito and Novato firemen, working in blistering temperatures, fought fires which gutted locker rooms in a school building, caused extensive damage to a two-story dwelling and charred 25 acres of grassland yesterday.

The Sausalito fire-fighters were aided by county firemen from the Marin City substation in battling a blaze which broke out about 6:40 p.m. in the music room of the Richardson Bay School annex building.

The flames spread into and gutted adjoining locker rooms Some equipment also was lost. But the school buses, which are kept in the building, were driven to safety.

Firemen said cause of the fire has not been determined, nor has dollar amount of damages.

Firemen were on the scene for more than two hours, and described the blaze as "a hot one with a lot of flame."

At 4:25 p.m. yesterday, a Sausalito woman, Mrs. Rosalind Wall of 127 Glen drive, discovered her two-story home was on fire, called the fire department and then rushed from the blazing house with her two children, Chris, 7, and Miranda, 6.

SPREADS TO HOUSE

Firemen said the blaze started as a grass fire and spread to the frame house. Damage was confined to the upstairs and to the roof and sides, although there was some water damage downstairs. There was no immediate monetary estimate of damage.

A Sausalito fireman, H. R. Cardwell, had just lit his backyard barbecue at his home at 22 Caznear avenue at the time the alarm was received. Cardwell departed hastily for the fire — and left behind near the burning barbecue pit a can of barbecue lighter fuel.

The fluid exploded resulting in a call for the fire department at 4:45 p.m. The fire damaged the barbecue pit, a nearby barbecue cabinet, and a fence.

At 4:05 p.m. a grass fire broke out on the Silveira brothers property four miles north of Novato along the east side of Highway 101. Novato fire-

Marin Basic Tax Rate Will Drop

Supervisors Wind Up Work On Budget

By DIANA BRUCE

Marin's general county government tax rate will be reduced for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

It will be the fifth straight year without a county tax increase.

The drop from last year's tax rate of $2.30 per $100 assessed valuation was predicted this noon by Deputy Auditor Michael Mitchell as the county board of supervisors wound up its public hearing on the 1959-60 budget.

The budget of approximately 12 million dollars will be in the hands of the auditor's office next week so that changes authorized by the supervisors may be totaled. Official adoption of the budget is expected next Friday.

"You can quote me on the tax rate," Mitchell said. "It will be less."

Exactly how much less will depend on the outcome of the equalization hearings which continue at 9 a.m. Monday and the state utility roll. The supervisors will set the 1959-60 tax rate about Aug. 20.

In addition to the general fund tax rate, the areas of Marin County served by the county library will pay 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation. During the supervisors' budget sessions, about eight cents was dropped from the total estimated 1959-60 tax rate.

MARIN ARCHER CLAIMS FIRST KILL OF SEASON

A 25-year-old sporting goods salesman from Mill Valley claims what is believed to be the first deer killed in Marin County in the special 10-day archery season which opened this morning.

He is Bud Johnson, who felled his prize 100-pound, three-point buck with one shot from 50 yards at 7 a.m. today on the Matthews ranch, Inverness. Johnson said it is the first deer he has killed with an arrow.

Marin Boy Drowns In Neighbor's Pool

A Novato housewife stepped into her backyard yesterday afternoon to hang up the family washing and found a 3-year-old neighbor child lying dead, face down, in the bottom of the swimming pool.

Victim of Marin's first drowning of the summer was Ricci Joe Guenther, son of Sgt. 1/c and Mrs. Thomas J. Guenther of 422 Via Herbosa.

The grim discovery was made about 2:10 p.m. by Mrs. Irma Richter, who resides at 430 Via Herbosa.

She called her 15-year-old son, Gary, and the drowned boy's mother to the scene.

Young Richter succeeded in recovering the shorts-clad body of Ricci from the pool and the two women administered artificial respiration without success.

He was then taken to the Hamilton Air Force Base hospital where a doctor pronounced him dead after further futile attempts to revive the boy.

Sheriff's deputies said the body had apparently been in the water between a half hour and an hour before being found.

Deputies were told that the tot had been warned to stay out of the Richter yard and away from the pool. But, they added, he apparently climbed a six-foot redwood fence to get into the yard.

The boy is survived by his parents and two brothers, Alan, 5, and Jamie, 4 months. He also leaves his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Florence of Pittsville, Wis., and Louis Guenther of Milwaukee.

No Hope Seen Of Averting Steel Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) —Wage negotiations in the steel industry reached an apparent stalemate today. An industry spokesman saw no possibility of averting a strike at midnight Tuesday.

But company and union negotiators scheduled another meeting tomorrow in an attempt to break the impasse before the strike deadline.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, said "The hour is late but still not too late for a fair settlement if the steel industry will reconsider its position."

The Steelworkers turned down an industry proposal to extend the contract expiration beyond July 15.

In Pittsburgh, U. S. Steel said if there were no developments from the negotiations, it will start banking furnaces at midnight tomorrow in preparation for closing the mills.

MMWD Repeats Plea: 'Don't Waste Water'

Crews of the Marin Municipal Water District are working around the clock in an effort to prevent waste of water, and to keep pumps going in the southern area of the county, it was announced today by William Seeger, district general manager.

He said loudspeaker trucks are touring Mill Valley, Sausalito, Alto, Strawberry, Tiburon and Belvedere today, and will tour the areas tomorrow, to broadcast warning to water users.

Seeger said there is no water shortage, but that because of the heat wave more water than normal is being used, and water pumps are being taxed beyond their capacities.

He urged water users throughout the county not to water lawns, refill swimming pools, wash cars or allow water to run into gutters.

He said patrol trucks would be sent around to make checks on needless use of water, and that warnings would be issued.

Seeger said the district has the power to take legal action, but that he doesn't want to make any arrest "unless absolutely necessary."

In Mill Valley, he said, crews will be on 24-hour duty to man gasoline-operated emergency pumps.

"These are noisy but necessary," he said, "if we are to maintain service."

"Usually we can handle a situation like this," Seeger said, "but during prolonged heat when water consumption goes up our pumps can't handle the demand." He said this was particularly true in hilly areas.

Night Boat Ride Lands 3 In Jail

A night boat ride with two teen-age girls landed three young men in the Marin County Jail early today.

Picked up at 3 a.m. at Santa Venetia by sheriff's deputies at the conclusion of their boat ride were Charles Richard Harper, 22, of 17 Alta Vista way, San Rafael; Tommy Russell Neal, 20, of 334 C street, San Rafael, and Frank Edward Gass, 19, of 18 Meadow drive, Santa Venetia.

They were booked for condoning the violation of the county curfew ordinance by minors.

Their two girl companions, both 16, were instructed to appear with their parents before the county probation officer next Thursday.

Deputies said they picked up the five young people after they were called to the Santa Venetia waterfront by a report that some youths were running a boat without lights.

Belveron Gardens Guild Is At Work

The Belveron Gardens Guild of Sunny Hills met recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Beckley, booth chairman, to stuff hobby horses to be sold at their "Nightwear and Nightmare" booth at the 60th annual Sunny Hills Grape Festival on Saturday, Oct. 3. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clark Holmes, co-hostess. At least two or more meetings will be required to properly stuff and mount the 160 horses' heads being offered for sales this year.

The guild was organized in 1952 and started the famous ponies the following year. There are now two styles, both made from scraps of corduroys, denims and gay prints. The larger of the two horses, known as the "glamour horse, is decorated with fancy button eyes and sequins.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Lunches Dominate Summer Season

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Luncheons are dominating the social scene right now. Golfing friends, about 40 of them, have been invited by Mrs. Lloyd Grandi and Mrs. Edward Campion to the luncheon they are giving on Wednesday at the Meadow Club. The Meadow Club will also be the locale for the luncheon at which Mrs. Elie E. Dalmon will be hostess on July 29.

The following day Mrs. Charles Marcus will entertain at a brunch at Bob's of Marin in Corte Madera. Her guest list includes Mesdames Dalmon, Harold Elliott, Herbert Christ, Herbert K. Walton, Harry W. Johnson, Hoeter C. Nelson, C. W. Welcome, J. J. Fischer, Thomas Shine, William Vaning, Charles Howell, William Schulz, Leslie Sorensen, Peter Schubert, Harry Kolb, James Goodale, Ray Nolan, Phillip Weinmann, William Lanigan, W. C. Emerson, Frank Boileau, J. B. Rice, Brown Woodbury, Fred Young, Phillip Wooster, Walter Stadtfeld, Al McNamara, E. N. Benson, John Breach, Homer Hood, Miss Madeleine Williams and Miss Anita Junk.

A Guatamalan theme was carried out at the luncheon Mrs. Harold Schutte gave Thursday at her Ross home to benefit the building fund of the Northgate Group of the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Also on Thursday in Ross was the luncheon and play day given by the San Francisco Junior League for members of the press at the Ross house the Peter McChesneys have taken for the summer. The Fourth Estaters also had an opportunity of meeting the league's delightful new executive secretary, Mrs. Donald MacMillan. She was introduced by Mrs. Carl Livingston Jr., the league president. Greeting guests were Mrs. Richard Hartshorne Jr., chairman of Marin Unit, and Mrs. Dohrmann Pischel Jr., publicity chairman.

The summer series of luncheons given by the Northgate Group at Marin Art and Garden Center starts on July 22 with a "Salute to Hawaii." Instead of a fashion show Hawaiian entertainment will be featured.

The weekly Tuesday fashion luncheons at Rickey's Rancho Rafael with Marion Bellamy as director and commentator continues to "pack 'em in" as has been the situation throughout the entire year.

HONORING Mrs. Theresa Wyatt of San Rafael who is leaving on Wednesday for eight weeks of European travel. Mrs. Robert O'Mara entertained at a dinner party Thursday night. Among the guests were Dorothy, Nancy and Dennis McFadden who left their home in Pennsylvania for a transcontinental tour. Dorothy and Mrs. O'Mara's daughter, Elaine Freitas, were both graduated in June from St. Mary's College at Notre Dame. Elaine's sister, Judy, who attends Gonzaga University at Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. O'Mara went east for Elaine's graduation and then vacationed in New York.

Also visiting Elaine recently was her former roommate at St. Mary's, Della McLachlin of Hong Kong and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gould (Donna Young). The Goulds recently returned from two years in Europe where he was a lieutenant in the Navy. Donna was an Alpha Phi sorority sister of Elaine at U.C.

In addition to Mrs. Wyatt and the McFadden trio, guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Gus Niederholzer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Krohn, Mrs. Benedict Giusto, Mrs. Angelica Dunham and Miss Mary Jane Baird.

UNEXPECTED were many of the meetings in Europe with friends, reported by the Herbert Christs of Greenbrae who have just returned from six weeks' travel in Europe. For instance, they were walking down Regent street in London when they came face to face with the Edmund T. Leiberts, with their daughter, Jan, and son, Toby, Frank George and George Baker who were in a travel group from Marin. In front of Buckingham Palace during the changing of the guard they saw Susan Smith, daughter of the Leon Smiths of Ross, who is spending the summer in Europe.

The Christs actually bumped into the Abe Blumenfelds of San Rafael when they turned the corner of a street in Florence, Italy. The Blumenfelds, who are traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Nat Schmulowitz of San Francisco left for Europe May 20 and will fly home from Shannon airport in Ireland on Aug. 5. The Christs met the A. Leonard Jacobis of Belvedere at a sidewalk cafe in Rome. In Vienna Herb spotted another wearer of a Rotary pin as he was on his way to a Rotary meeting. The other member was William Duffy of Woodland, who with his wife, the former Mrs. George Thornton of El Cerrito, has been traveling in Europe since their marriage in April. Mr. Duffy is a member of a pioneer Marin County family. Clinton Duffy, former warden at San Quentin, is one of his brothers.

The Christs went by jet to Europe landing in Paris where they spent five days. Then they went to Switzerland where they spent another five days with the Herbert Crockers at their chalet in Lausanne. The Crockers who, with their three children have lived in Europe several years, are returning to their San Rafael home in August. The Christs went to Lucerne and Nice, flew to Rome, went to Vienna, Salzburg, Heidelberg. A steamer trip on the Rhine to Cologne was a delightful experience then the Christs flew to Copenhagen for several days and then went to London to end their tour.

HOME after a year in Europe are Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edward A. Peters of San Rafael and their daughter, Carol They went to the continent soon after her graduation from San Rafael High School and in Olso, Norway they visited her former classmate, Bibbie Lie, an exchange student who made her home with the Walter Taits while attending San Rafael High.

The Peters' who flew the polar route, landed in London and bought a Borgward station wagon for a tour of the British Isles and the continent. They wintered at Costa del Sol and saw much of the William Dawsons of San Rafael. Incidentally I had a long letter from Augusta Dawson written in Paris. She told of meeting Jack Saunders of San Rafael in London and of two wonderful days with the Robert Carsons, formerly of Marin, at their beautiful home in Nottingham. The following week Eileen and Bob came up to London to join them and they had a gay time going to the shows and dinner dancing. The Dawsons will be in Klosters, Switzerland for the winter holidays and the Carsons plan to join them there on New Year's. On January 30, the Dawsons are sailing from Genoa for Egypt and the Orient.

The Peters' met Eugenia's brother, William Duffy, and his bride in Paris and then toured France, Holland and Belgium. They sailed for New York aboard the "Bremerhaven" and made the transcontinental trip to California in the Borgward.

INTERESTING VISITORS in Mill Valley soon will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scott Mowier of Chocorua, Wyo., who are arriving on July 25 to visit her son, John Hemingway, and his wife. The day after the Mowiers' arrival the Hemingways are hosting a cocktail party for them. Mr. Mowier who was formerly editor-in-chief of the Chicago Daily News and was also a foreign news correspondent, is a three time Pulitzer prize winner. Now he is a poet of note and in Mill Valley he will confer with his publisher, Stanton Coblentz.

LEAVING ON Tuesday for a trip East are Comdr. and Mrs. Artyn L. Main of Mill Valley. They are flying to New York and then will go to West Hartford, Conn. to visit their son, George Main, his wife and family. This includes a four-year-old son, Bille, and a baby, David born in March.

GUESTS of Col. and Mrs. George L. Wells at their home in Marinwood have been her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick V. Johnson of Newfield, N. J. which is near Vineland. The Johnsons are also enjoying seeing the three Wells' youngsters, Wanda, Karen and Douglas. Recently all of them were at Yosemite for several days. The Johnsons motored west, going first to Florida. They saw many scenic wonders including the Grand Canyon.

SO THEY WILL have an opportunity to see many friends in the Bay Area Mr. and Mrs. Thoronton Seligman of Albuquerque, N. M. are entertaining at a dinner party on July 24 at the San Rafael home of her mother, Mrs. Alfred S. Lee. The Seligmans arrived today after driving up from the south to visit her mother, and her brother, Robert Lee, and his wife. A number of parties are being planned for the visitors.

There was a gathering of the clan recently as well as of many friends when the senior Mrs. Lee's brother, Sidney Herzog, and his wife celebrated their golden wedding at a champagne reception under the oaks on their beautiful Atherton estate.

Beauty Tips from ME to YOU

No woman should ever settle for less than a graceful, poised carriage to be truly attractive . . . How well you stand affects how well you walk. Many figure flaws come from posture flaws . . . Even though your proportions may be satisfactory poor posture may ruin the overall effect. . .

More on posture . . . Test your alignment, now . . . weight one end of a tape measure with a large spool of thread—stand before a long mirror so that you can see the profile of your right side—hold the unweighted end of the tape in your left hand to the tip of your ear—arrange the tape to rest lightly on your shoulder and let rest fall to the floor—relax your shoulders and stand tall—don't rearrange tape but check these points. Tape should rest on these spots middle of shoulder joint—on thigh joint—back of knee and middle of foot—

PLAINVILLE, Conn. (UPI) — Penny Perry, 11, climbed a tree to rescue her pet kitten, but firemen had to be called anyway. Penny couldn't get down.

64-Year-Old Larkspur Hotel Gets Third Story

The Blue Rock Hotel, a Larkspur landmark since 1895, is in the process of acquiring a new third story.

The venerable structure, which dates back to the days when Larkspur was a gay summer resort town, has undergone one previous face-lifting. That was in 1910 when blue basalt rock from a Larkspur quarry was added to its facade and the hotel's name was changed from Larkspur Hotel to Blue Rock Hotel.

Owner Hugh C. Wood has removed the hotel's roof and is building a third story of four small apartments and three hotel rooms with baths. Wood expects the $15,000 addition will be completed within 30 days.

Removing the old roof uncovered several interesting items, including a sealed bottle of beer enclosed between rafters. The beer had been advertised at the 1915 world fair in San Francisco, Wood said.

Another relic which Wood came across was a hypodermic needle. He had no idea how it got into the hotel attic.

The unfinished redwood timber which was uncovered was in "perfect condition," Wood said. The 2¼ by 4¼ timbers were used just as they were milled.

Hosts Are Absent As County Help Holds Meeting

The hosts failed to show up at Thursday night's meeting of the Marin County Employees Assn. But it could not be helped.

County Fire Chief Charles Reilley and his men were scheduled to be hosts at the Woodacre firehouse. Plans were changed because county firemen still were patrolling the Frank's Valley area swept by a forest and brush fire Wednesday.

The meeting place was shifted to the County Health Department. Not a single fireman showed up. They had their hands full containing the fire and mopping up.

The United States makes a $100,000 bill, but it is only by the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury.

Former Mill Valley

Maj. Henry A. Fillmer, formerly of 10 Dorest lane, Mill Valley, has been awarded the first Oak Leaf Cluster to his Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant at Ft. Baker. The award was for meritorious service from Feb. 16, 1957, to June 30, 1959.

He is en route to duty at Ft. Meade, Md. He formerly was an engineering staff officer with the 6th Region Army Air Defense Command at Ft. Baker.

Bridge Ad, Publicity Budget To Stay Same

The Golden Gate Bridge advertising and publicity committee recommended yesterday a $37,000 budget for its new fiscal year, the same as last year.

With only minor discussion, the committee approved a $25,000 expenditure for the Redwood Empire Assn., $1,500 for Californians, Inc., $1,000 for the San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau, $2,500 for advertising and direct mail and $1,000 for miscellaneous expenses.

The Marin Tourists Bureau had written the bridge board requesting a $500 appropriation, but it was not even mentioned at the meeting.

The meeting had been scheduled for 2 p.m. yesterday, but it was advanced to 11:30 a.m. Representatives of the Marin bureau who had planned to attend the afternoon meeting were not present.

General Manager James Adam said he would suggest that the tourist bureau's representatives appear before the bridge's finance committee next Monday morning.

The committee intends to take up the entire bridge budget at that time, including a proposed reduction in tolls for pickup trucks, according to William D. Hadeler, chairman.

PART OF NEW INTERCHANGE OPENS MONDAY

There will be two-way divided traffic Monday on the portion of Sir Francis Drake boulevard that approaches and is part of the Greenbrae interchange.

The Division of Highways announced today that construction is being completed on that portion of the new interchange this weekend, and it will be ready for motorists at approximately 11 a.m. Monday.

This Year Could Be Year Of Fire Disaster Unless . . .

Fire rages through the redwoods on the slopes of Mt. Tamalpais . . .

Flames race across 200 acres of the hills of Tiburon . . .

A $50,000 home is destroyed and two others damaged in Greenwood Beach. . .

A blaze blackens the hillside of Sun Valley in San Rafael . . .

In Novato and West Marin, in the Ross Valley and around Sausalito the situation is the same. A mild winter, early warm weather and dry grass and shrubs, combine with stronger than usual winds to result in the most dangerous fire conditions in many, many years.

Thus far we've been comparatively lucky. But it's only a matter of time 'til we won't be so lucky unless . . .

The fire on Mt. Tamalpais Wednesday brought the problem closer to many people than most grass and forest fires. Marin residents love the redwoods. The Tamalpais fire became more personal to them for they could imagine the destruction of the beautiful big trees.

It was doubly so because early reports told of a threat to the internationally known Muir Woods National Monument, one of the county's greatest tourist attractions. The possibility that some day flames might actually invade the serene grandeur of the Woods fills us with dismay. But they might, unless . . .

That "unless" is the key to this grave danger:

Unless we are careful with matches and cigarette butts.

Unless we put out our camp fires.

Unless we are alert for fire hazards such as debris burning, industrial activities, children and incendiarists.

Last year in the Redwood Region there was a decrease of 48 per cent in the amount of area burned over. But this was mainly due to effective fire control work. There was actually an increase of 41 per cent in the total of man-made fires in the area during the year.

This year, with fire conditions so critical, control will be much more difficult. If we have a similar increase in number of fires, this year could be a year of fire disaster.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

SWEDISH STUDENTS VOTE SIX-DAY WEEK

Boys and girls in Sweden stunned educators and everyone else recently by voting against Saturdays off.

In a nationwide pool of high school and upper grade students, nearly three-quarters of the young people cast ballots in favor of continuing the present six-day school week.

More young people than most realize, are seriously interested in their future. Even those with a "don't care" attitude usually respond to the challenge to take responsibility when they can do it on their own instead of being forcibly driven.

Within the framework of both divine and human principles, there is wide latitude for the development of the imagination, enterprise and resourcefulness in youth.

God has given each and every one of them a distinct personality and individuality.

Cultivate rather than smother the spontaneity and enthusiasm of young people and the whole world will gain.

"A wise heart shall acquire knowledge: and the ear of the wise seeketh instruction." (Proverbs 18:15)

Thanks, O Father, for the privilege of fostering in youth the power You have entrusted to them.

Congressman Claims Spelling Bee Victory But Girls Were Robbed

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Three congressmen met three school girls in a spelling match and modestly admitted afterwards that the school girls had lost.

This is to file a minority report. The girls were robbed.

The eighth-graders flew in from California to take on the lawmakers after clobbering directors of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce. The directors reportedly had made the mistake of complaining that kids these days aren't learning to spell like they used to.

This proved to be true, and thank goodness for that. Those businessmen apparently could not spell fire sale.

TO EASE THEIR embarrassment, they sic'ed their victors on Congress. They figured no doubt that with the kind of gobbledygook they talk around here the lawmakers had forgotten all they ever knew about English.

Rep. Clement Miller of Corte Madera was their first choice of a legislative sacrifice to the girl spelling champs. The girls got their start by winning a three-county bee conducted by the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat. Miller couldn't very well say no. Anyway, yes is one word every congressman learns to spell right away.

Miller looked around for support and came up with a couple of obvious experts, Reps. Jeffery Cohelan (D-Calif.), a former Fulbright scholar at Oxford, and Ken Hechler (D-W.Va.), a Ph.D., and former college professor who helped write speeches for Adlai E. Stevenson.

THE GIRLS ARRIVED for the contest unshaken and early. Miller was there, too, but his two experts were nowhere to be seen. They hurried in minutes late, and the word was they had been studying.

From the outcome, it would be hard to say what.

The photographers got things moving by asking the girls where they were from, and to spell it.

Mary McFarling, 14, said her home is Ukiah. Carolyn Storts, 14, said she comes from Gualala. Valerie Turner, 13, gave her town as Petaluma.

The congressmen saw right then, I guess, that these girls would be hard to beat.

The rules were read, and the trouble began.

Cohelan said on the panel shows he watches the contestants get time to confer. Anyway, he said all decisions would be by majority vote.

THEN THEY GOT down to the contest.

Mary handled slavery, bachelor, grotesque and chandelier without even trying. Valerie ran through scarce, committee, involuntary, and embroidery, with no more than a sigh.

Carolyn got breakfast, discrepancy, genesis, and laboratory, with no more than a sigh.

Miller got safely through romance. He staggered on aggravate; but got it right on the second try, in clear violation of Rule 5, which said once is enough. He managed gullible and moccasin.

Cohelan handled bicycle and crescent, but was licked on mayonnaise. He tried that one twice without getting close.

Hechler eased through available, geranium, abdomen and fallacious.

On seismograph Carolyn rolled her eyes to the sky, tried c for a starter, and ruled out under Rule 5.

Miller collapsed under tonsillectomy. Valerie went down under tercentenary. Mary drew fictitious, which she spelled like that.

She was the only one in the room who seemed shocked when the judges said she was wrong. The official list, it was noted, spelled it ficticious.

"She spelled it right," Hallett opined.

I called the Library of Congress for a ruling. The experts there consulted their dictionaries, then wisely declined to arbitrate a contest between school girls and congressmen.

What they did say though was that Hallett was clearly the winner.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Teeners, Newsboy Wonderful At Fire

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

All too often the good words go unspoken for our teenagers, so here is one from the Greenwood Beach Property Owners of the immediate fire area of June 30.

I am especially grateful to your news carrier Steven Stocker in his alertness of putting out my burning fence which is not at all visible from the highway and which also has our winter wood supply stacked against it. If it had not been for him, I might well have been one of the unlucky ones who lost so much. We have never seen so many teenagers work so hard of their own free will. Even staying on after the firemen left so as to help clear some of the mess away or to get dinner for those who were partially burned out.

So again may I say at this time "THANKS" to our teenagers and especially to my news carrier for the good work, you were all wonderful.

May I also take this opportunity to thank our Tiburon Fire Dept. and all those who helped. To think they saved the houses on each side of the one that burned is more than we had ever thought possible, even with the winds against us. Our only regret is that it was not noticed earlier.

New Airport Needs Supporters

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Last month, Clyde Barnett, chief of the California Aeronautics Commission, spoke before a joint meeting of various civic organizations at a luncheon in San Rafael. Mr. Barnett warned that, through its neglect to develop a municipal airport, Marin was overlooking a real opportunity to broaden its tax-base and to provide itself with the advantages of air transportation.

He noted that we are rapidly developing our useable land and have very few satisfactory sites remaining which would handle an accredited airport.

Last week, President Eisenhower signed a two-year extension of the Federal Airport Aid Bill. This bill provides that the federal government will contribute 50 per cent of funds needed for airport projects with the local communities supplying the remainder.

Our neighbors, such as Hayward, Livermore, Palo Alto and Oakland are taking advantage of this opportunity and will receive aid to develop and expand airport facilities; and every Marin County resident who pays federal income taxes will contribute to these airports. The only way they will get benefit from these contributions, however, is to develop their own air facility.

Mr. Barnett's comments elicited from newspaper an excellent editorial suggesting that another drive should be made to secure an airport. Having participated in the airport bond campaign last fall, I was very pleased to see this forthright expression of the needs for an air terminal.

Valuable lessons which were learned from the airport bond failure must be kept in mind, however, when new plans are formulated. In the 1958 bond campaign very few people other than small plane owners offered anything more than passive encouragement to the proponents of the drive. Contributions to finance voter-information literature were negligible, particularly from those businesses which would benefit directly from an airport. (A local oil representative vetoed a contribution offered by his company because of a threat from an air-strip operator who uses that kind of gasoline and doesn't want competition.)

Most civic organizations did nothing more than consent to be addressed by a member of the bond issues' speakers bureau. Political groups "did not want to become involved in non-political issues." These were some of the problems experienced last fall.

In my opinion, if every business and civic organization would enthusiastically support an airport development program by spending time and money to inform voters of the necessity of an airport and the advantages to be gained from one, we would have an air terminal which would be the envy of every neighboring community. Surveys have indicated that an airport located at San Quentin Point would attract an enormous amount of transient aircraft and, consequently, be self-supporting in a very short time.

It will also be necessary for the Board of Supervisors to give the project more than implied approval. Many voters voice the opinion that they vote against projects which they want (roads, schools, airports, etc.) because they know that the taxes will be increased enough by projects on which they are not given an opportunity to vote. The supervisors can correct this by budgeting money only for real necessities and concentrate their efforts and support on the basic problems of transportation and education.

There is still time to build an airport at San Quentin Point, a location that would enable planes to fly over water rather than residential areas. If we are to give ourselves access to air transportation, though, civic leaders and public officials must take the lead. We learned last fall that amateurs can't do the job.

2. Car off the road with two punctured tires: the driver cancelled his auto club membership yesterday.

3. Car persistently straddling two lanes on a crowded thruway: the driver's wife can't make up her mind.

Bomb Shelter May Be Designed For Safety, But As Is, It's A Hazard

Somebody is getting the jump on the rest of us in making sure he's going to survive an atomic war.

On Circle road in Los Ranchitos, there's a deep bomb shelter, which neighbors say was started about seven years ago. It hasn't been finished yet, and sheriff's deputies say somebody might fall in and get hurt.

REMEMBER THAT OLD case of an Alto school teacher suing the superintendent for slander back in 1956 because the supertendent was quoted as saying the teacher hit a pupil and knocked him down? Well, you can forget it now, because the case has been quietly dropped.

William Kahn, the teacher, had sued Supt. E. J. Lindstrom for $50,000 in a slander suit. Both parties have since moved from Marin. Three years after it was filed, the suit was dismissed by mutual understanding. Kahn has agreed never to bring up the case again.

SAN RAFAEL has agreed to close High street and has been mulling the closing of Watt avenue for months. This week, the list of proposed street projects came up for approval at the council budget hearing. Among the projects proposed for the coming year: Overlay of Watt avenue and High street.

IF YOU BUMP into Ruth Roman in Belvedere this summer, it's the actress all right. She's staying on Cove road during the run of the play, "Two for the See-Saw" in San Francisco.

ASSUME YOU'RE the one who broke windows and chandeliers at the old Freitas Home south of Terra Linda, and you want to turn yourself in to authorities. You've got a problem. First, you've got to remember whether you committed the crime before June 18 or after June 18. If it's before June 18, you go see the sheriff. If it's after that date, you surrender to San Rafael police.

The Freitas Ranch became a part of San Rafael on that date, as you know. It would be too bad if your crime spree lasted from before midnight on June 17 into the next morning. Then both departments would be after you.

THE CLERK in Judge Thomas F. Keating's court opens the first session each day by announcing, "Please rise!" as the judge walks in. But for the rest of the day, don't be surprised if the clerk walks in with the judge and booms: "Please remain seated!" The judge's policy seems to be: Standing up once in the morning for formal opening is sufficient. For the rest of the day, you can sit at ease.

Supreme Court Judges Can't Be Labeled On Individual Rights Stands

At times they split, at times they voted solidly. In two of the major contempt cases the justices split 5-4, in three others the vote was 9-0. In still another it was 4-4, with one justice not voting.

The major cases involved Willard Uphaus and Lloyd Baren-blatt. To understand what happened in both, two previous cases must be considered.

IN 1956 THE COURT threw out the conviction of Steve Nelson, an admitted Communist, who was found guilty in a Pennsylvania state court of violating the state's sedition law.

The court said that, since sedition against the United States is a national problem, federal sedition laws supersede state sedition laws.

But the court said a state could prosecute for sedition against the state.

This year the court tackled the case of Uphaus, director of the New Hampshire World Fellowship Center which described itself as a pacifist organization.

He refused to answer certain questions of the New Hampshire attorney general who, under authority of his Legislature, was investigating communism.

JUSTICE CLARK, one of those voting for Nelson in 1956, this year wrote the opinion turning down the appeal of Uphaus. He cited the Nelson decision as not forbidding a state to prosecute for sedition against itself.

So, he reasoned, since a state can prosecute for sedition, it has the right to investigate sedition.

In 1957 the court upheld John T. Watkins, convicted of contempt for refusing to answer certain questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which was investigating communism in labor.

He raised the objection of pertinency, asking how the questions asked him had anything to do with the subject of the investigation. The court backed him, saying he never got a clear answer and the questions were not pertinent.

Then this year the court ruled against Barenblatt, a college teacher convicted of contempt for refusing to answer some questions of the same committee,

BUT THE COURT said whereas Watkins directly raised the question of pertinency in his case, Barenblatt didn't and, if he wanted to use nonpertinency as his excuse for not answering, he should have done so directly.

The court went further, saying the committee investigation was legitimate, and its purposes were well understood. It added that in this case the interests of the country were involved and thus subordinated an individual's interest.

Justice Harlan, who had voted for Watkins but against Barenblatt, wrote the majority opinion. It left open many questions of interpretation. No doubt the court will be confronted with similar cases, looking for loopholes and clarifications.

In the Nelson case the vote was 6-3 for him; it was 6-1 for Watkins. In the Uphaus case the vote was 5-4 against, and 5-4 against Barenblatt.

IN THREE OTHER contempt conviction cases the nine justices stood solidly together, 9-0, for the defendants

One involved a labor leader who refused to give a Senate committee investigating communism a list of union members. This decision had no special meaning. The court ruled in his favor on a technicality.

Another was the case of a Virginia Quaker who would not answer a state legislative committee's questions about his connection with interracial groups. The court upheld him on the ground the purpose of the committee's investigation was not clear. This was an echo of the Watkins case.

In the third, the court freed three Ohioans who, the justices said, had been misled—into refusing to answer — by a state committee which was investigating communism and asking the qeustions.

On a technicality the court split 4-4 in upholding the conviction of a fourth Ohioan — sentenced for refusing to answer questions from the same Ohio committee.

And finally, the court split 5-4 in turning down the appeal of a New York garment maker who refused to answer although promised immunity, the questions of a grand jury investigating racketeering.

CHURCH SURVEY

Housing Integration Opinions Divided

More persons would not welcome Negroes in their neighborhood than would welcome them, according to the results of a Novato Presbyterian Church questionnaire on racial equality. The majority would not take action, however, if a Negro family did move into the neighborhood.

The results, announced today by Dr. Edward L. Kessel, chairman of the church's committee on social education and action, include answers to 10 questions which were distributed recently by the church.

Here is a breakdown of the questions and answers, with the "yes" answers first, the "no" answers second, and the "no-answer" answers third:

Would you welcome Negroes moving into your neighborhood? 83, 104, 14. Would you actively oppose Negroes moving into your neighborhood? 43, 147, 11. Would you welcome Negroes moving next door to you? 77, 109, 15.

Would you actively oppose Negroes moving next door to you? 51, 135, 15. Do you believe that your property would depreciate in value if a Negro family moved into your neighborhood? 112, 67, 22. If you wished to sell your house, would you have objections to selling it to a Negro? 93, 95, 13. If you wished to sell your house, would you be willing to sell it to a Negro without consulting the neighbors? 55, 130, 16.

"I am pleased with the general results of the questionnaire," said Rev. Howard B. Swartz, pastor of the church. "The section on housing points up the fact that here a good deal of education is needed within the Christian community, although it is gratifying to know that the great majority of the community would not actively oppose integration."

Still due are the results from a questionnaire dealing with education. A tabulation of this section is expected to be completed soon.

Reception Held For New Pastor

Members and friends of the San Rafael Methodist Church honored their new pastor, Rev. Donald H. Baldwin, and Mrs. Baldwin at a recent reception in Turley Hall.

Rev. Baldwin was appointed to the San Rafael church by Bishop Donald H. Tippett at a recent conference in Stockton. He succeeds Rev. Charles Anderson, who was transferred to Ceres Methodist Church in Stanislaus County.

Rev. Baldwin spoke briefly about his recent trip around the world. He has received many requests from other churches to speak on his impressions of the work being done in foreign mission fields, and conditions in various countries visited. The official board of the local church has granted Rev. Baldwin permission to accept these invitations.

The Baldwins are now in residence at 2163 Fifth avenue, San Rafael.

REV. LLEWELLYN WHITE
Serves Marinwood church

Seminarian Ordained, Named Vicar

Llewellyn A. White, who has been seminarian-in-charge of the Episcopal Church of the Nativity, Marinwood for two years, has been ordained to the Order of Deacons in the Episcopal Church by Rt. Rev. James A. Pike at Grace Cathedral.

Rev. White received the degree of bachelor of divinity in June from the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, and has assumed the position of vicar of the Church of the Nativity and part-time assistant at St. Paul's Church, San Rafael.

Rev. White is 32 years old, married, and has three children. He served in the Marine Corps during World War II, graduated from Williams College in 1950 and spent six years in the insurance business in Hartford, Boston and San Francisco before entering the ministry.

He and his family recently moved to the vicarage at 230 Emerystone terrace, Marinwood.

Local Witnesses Hit Argentine Denial Of Rights

The San Rafael congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has protested the denial of the rights of free assembly and worship by the Argentine government to members of their sect.

Plans are being made for a petition to the Republic of Argentina asking that the denial of constitutional rights be corrected.

D. E. Hull, presiding minister of the San Rafael congregation, said his group has been notified that despite a number of social and religious advances which have been made by the present Argentine government, a few religious groups declared illegal by the Peron regime have still not been recognized by the new president, Arturo Frondizi, and his administration.

Hull said that more than 6,000 Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina have petitioned their government for recognition.

Layman's Role In Church Raises Query

Institutional Jobs May Obscure More Important Ministry

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

What is the layman's job in the church?

Recent years have brought sweeping changes in American views on this subject. And there are signs that further revolution is brewing.

Before World War II, the average layman felt that he was doing about all that could be expected of him if he attended worship services and contributed financial support.

Virtually all of the work of the church — from evangelism to business management —was left in the hands of the ordained clergy.

LACK MANPOWER

The vast expansion of church membership after the war made this arrangement untenable. Churches learned that even when they overworked their ministers, they simply didn't have enough professional workers to cope with their growing task.

So the layman was put to work. Gradually he took on many of the administrative responsibilities previously borne by the clergy.

Today there are million of laymen, in every denomination, who are serving their churches on a part-time volunteer basis. They are planning budgets, conducting fund drives, supervising building and maintenance programs, leading youth organizations, editing church publications.

For the most party, they are doing an excellent job. So good, in fact, that some thoughtful religious leaders are beginning to wonder whether churches may not be "using", laymen a little too freely for purely institutional chores, and thereby obscuring the more fundamental ministry to which laymen are called.

PRIME CONCEPT

That ministry has been defined in many ways. Perhaps the most meaningful concept to modern minds is that each layman should serve as a point of contact between the church and the world.

Through his daily work, be he ditchdigger or diplomat, he should do whatever he can to serve humanity in the spirit of Christ. And in his everyday associations with friends, fellow workers, neighbors and casual acquaintances, he should be a "witness" — that is, give testimony — for Christ, both by his deeds and on suitable occasions by words.

There have always been laymen who understood this ministry and sought to perform it. The new development is a growing recognition by church leaders that "involving" laymen in a frantic round of institutional activity is not necessarily the best way to prepare them for their most important task.

Male Members Of This Church Can Keep Cool

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The men of Christ Episcopal Church have been invited to keep cool.

Rev. Gordon S. Price says they can disregard tradition and wear anything they want, including loud sports shirts.

"The heat at church has been sweltering," the minister said in asking male members to take off their coats and ties.

"We men are such creatures of habit. The coat and tie are examples of it.

"After all, God doesn't care what we have on at church."

Jones Gives Giants Vital Relief Help

CINCINNATI, (UPI) — Manager Bill Rigney may have solved the one big problem that has made many experts count the San Francisco Giants out as the National League flag choice.

The experts say you have to have top flight relief pitching, which they claim the first place Giants don't have.

But Sad Sam Jones, who has been superb since that much publicized one-hitter in Los Angeles, may be just what the sages say is essential.

He came on in relief last night in the eighth inning and chucked three scoreless frames while getting credit for San Francisco's 8-6 win over Cincinnati in 11 innings.

It was the second night in a row Jones has come in to grab the win and last night's victory nudged his season record to 12-8.

Rigney claims he only uses Jones in relief when he absolutely has to and that he intends to keep the toothpick-chewing righthander mainly for starting roles. But those critical relief situations are coming up more and more. It may come to pass that Jones will become as familiar as Pittsburgh's Elroy Face in the crucial late frames.

WINNING RALLY

In last night's contest, it was Willie Mays who put the Giants over the top with his 15th homer after Felipe Alou scored the tie-breaker on Willie Kirkland's sacrifice fly.

Eddie Fisher blanked the Reds in the bottom of the 11th to put an end to the affair that the Giants once led 4-0.

Orlando Cepeda crashed a three-run homer, his 18th, to get the Giants off quickly. But Cincinnati pecked steadily at Giant Hurler Stu Miller and they had four runs off Miller before the fifth was over and Al Worthington came in for Stu. Ed Bailey did the most damage to Miller with a pair of homers.

ROBINSON HOMERS

Frank Robinson belted a two-run homer for the Reds in the eighth to tie the game at 6-6. Sam Jones then came in to replace Gordon Jones, the third Giant pitcher.

Jackie Brandt, who hit his seventh homer earlier, saved Sam Jones with a great leaping catch of a drive off the bat of Vada Pinson that prevented the winning run from crossing the plate in the eighth.

Sam Jones held the Reds in check until taken out for pinch-hitter Alou. After Alou doubled, Jim Davenport sacrificed him to third. Then Kirkland hit his sacrifice fly and Mays homered.

BRESSOUD HITS

A bright spot in the Giants' win was the three hits off the bat of shortstop Eddie Bressoud, who raised his average to .230.

Johnny Antonelli, 12-4, took the mount against Cincinnati's Jim Brosnan (3-4) ,this afternoon. It was the sixth time this season the Giants were attempting to win four straight. The five previous attempts failed.

BOWLING

Wives League Increases In Second Week

The second week of the Wednesday Morning Home Managers League at Greenbrae Lanes featured several high-scoring games for beginner bowlers this week.

Betty Wensloff, 6 Mojave court, Corte Madera, who has been bowling only four months, rolled a 185 for one game.

Yolanda Gurries bowled 136, 93 and 94 for three games and these were only the third, fourth and fifth games Mrs. Gurries has ever bowled.

The league that is made up of Marin housewives started last week with six teams and this week increased to 10 teams —which will be the limit for the league.

Tom Coates, Greenbrae Lanes manager, announced the formation of a Tuesday morning women's league to take care of the current demand. Dempy Mooromsky of Corte Madera believes that the care of the tots by the Greenbrae Nursery while their mothers are bowling is a reason for the popularity of the morning league.

High scores in Greenbrae Leagues:

Stuart HR Gives Bucs Fifth Straight Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL)

They told talkative Dick Stuart to put his muscles where his mouth was—and by George if he ain't—to the great delight of Pittsburgh's suddenly-awakened Pirates.

Stuart talked a blue streak when he first came up with the Pirates two years ago. He talked about the 66 homers he hit at Lincoln, Neb., about how maybe Babe Ruth's record was in jeopardy and about the possibility of his earning more than $100,000 in a single season.

And now big Stu is starting to show 'em. He smacked his 17th homer with two on in the 11th inning last night to climax a four-run rally that gave the Pirates a 7-6 triumph over the Cubs and their fifth straight victory.

San Francisco increased its National League lead to a full game with an 8-6 win over Cincinnati in 11 innings, St. Louis moved into a fifth-place tie by beating Philadelphia, 9-7, and rain washed out the Los Angeles-Milwaukee game with the Dodgers ahead, 1-0, in the third inning.

Cleveland stretched its lead in the American League to two games by defeating Chicago, 8-4, Washington edged Baltimore, 7-6, Boston toppled New York, 8-5, and Detroit snapped a six-game losing streak with a 5-2 decision over Kansas City.

FRANCONA STARS

Tito Francona and Rocky Colavito each drove in three runs in Cleveland's victory over Chicago. Francona had four hits to pace a 17-hit attack that enabled the Indians to beat Early Wynn for the first time since dealing him to the White Sox in December, 1957.

Washington's slugging Senators hit four homers, but left-hander Chuck Stobbs still had to be called in from the bullpen to put down a four-run eighth-inning rally before Baltimore was beaten.

A collapse by the Yankee defense in the fourth inning helped the Red Sox score five runs in their victory over Whitey Ford.

Jim Bunning of the Tigers struck out eight men and gave up seven hits in beating the Athletics for his eighth victory of the season.

Jordan May Meet Ray Robinson Next

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Tough Don Jordan of Los Angeles defended his welterweight championship convincingly last night. He now looks toward middleweight Ray Robinson for his next bout.

Jordan, a punishing body puncher, rammed solid hooks into the ribs of 19-year-old Denny Moyer, and uppercuts to the face as he scored a unanimous 15-round decision over the young Portlander in a nationally televised bout.

There were no knockdowns.

Several times Moyer appeared about to go down, but each time called on some hidden resources to stay upright. He still was dancing gamely about at the end, flicking left jabs at Jordan.

The jab was his main weapon against the aggressive Jordan. It became apparent early that his right caused Jordan no fear. It was like a destroyer against a cruiser. Moyer was willing, but lacked the guns.

For Jordan it was his 11th straight victory, his third since winning the title. It makes his record now 46-11.

FIRST DEFEAT

Moyer, who had hoped to become the youngest champion on record in the welterweight division, suffered his first loss in 21 bouts.

Of the possible fight with Robinson, Jordan's co-manager, Don Nesseth, said, "We have been offered a lot of money to fight Robinson."

He said the offer came from an Eastern promoter, but disclosed no other details. Robinson recently was stripped of his middleweight title by the National Boxing Assn., but is recognized as champion in New York.

Two pre-fight incidents stirred interest in the bout.

One was Jordan's failure to make the 147-pound weight at his first weigh-in. He was 1½ pounds over the limit, and had to sweat it off by exercising. Ninety minutes later he qualified at an even 147, but there was speculation the process might have weakened him.

If he was weak, Moyer would hate to face him strong.

COHEN A VISITOR

The other was discovery that Mickey Cohen was in town, and had paid a 1 a.m. visit yesterday to Jordan. This brought police into sudden activity, for earlier Nesseth has said the underworld was trying to get control of Jordan—and the police suspect Cohen of having underworld connections.

Nesseth is scheduled to testify before a federal grand jury in Los Angeles July 14 on the reported attempts to take Jordan away from him and his partner, Jack McCoy.

Nesseth was noncommital about Cohen's visit, but told Police Chief William Hilbruner he was satisfied no threats had been made to Jordan.

Ben Harris, Portland Boxing Commission chairman, said he saw nothing wrong with the bout, and said purses would not be held back.

Promoter Tommy Moyer, Denny's uncle, reported the gate was $44,390 and attendance 4,813. Moyer earlier said he had expected a crowd of 10,000 and a gate of $100,000.

This fell short of the $70,000 that Nesseth said had been guaranteed to Jordan, but there still was to come the money from the television.

Doc's Mail: 'Religious Fanatic' And Mother Who Balks At Job

Mrs. L.D. "Am I a religious fanatic? My husband says so. He wants to raise our children as nonbelievers. I try to have prayers before meals, and at bedtime. My husband objects. I took the children to a church school on Sundays. He made me stop. Do such things mean I'm a fanatic? Shouldn't children have religious instruction?"

Reply. I believe your husband is wrong. I've found that children, as well as adults, need the emotional strength which comes with faith. They need the release and inspiration which comes from prayer. They need ways to find forgiveness for their mistakes. The right sort of religious instruction can bring these things to children. I believe parents should raise their children in a church with an active young people's program. Millions of religious families have prayers before meals, and at bedtime. They send their children to church schools on Sundays. You are not a religious fanatic. Perhaps your husband is fanatical in the opposite way.

Mrs. T.T. "We have been married three years. The first two years my wife taught school. Then she had a baby. Now she is very inconsiderate. We planned for her to return to teaching as soon as possible after the baby was born. But she refuses. She tells me she is going to stay home with our baby for several years. This means we will have only my salary. We will have to cut our expenses drastically. Will you tell her she is wrong?"

Reply. I'm afraid I can't. Your baby is your first responsibility. Babies need their mothers' constant care and companionship. Try to realize your wife is not being inconsiderate. She is only being a good mother. I suggest you spend some evenings together going over your budget. Make the necessary readjustments. Look on the cutbacks as an investment in your baby's future. Do you spend time each day with your baby? Get well acquainted with him. Watch him grow and develop. Play with him. He needs your love too.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, July 11, the 192nd day of the year, with 173 more days to follow in 1959.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this date in history:

In 1804, Alexander Hamilton was fatally wounded in a duel with Aaron Burr.

In 1838, merchant John Wanamaker was born.

In 1864, economists said inflation was so serious that a dollar was worth only 39 cents.

In 1880, Jeanette Rankin, later the first woman elected to Congress, was born near Missoula, Mont.

In 1933, all school teachers in Germany were ordered to read "Mein Kampf" and make themselves familiar with Nazi theory.

In 1952, the Republican convention nominated General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower for the presidency.

In 1955, the United States Air Force Academy was dedicated at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

Thought for today: The American journalist Don Marquis said, "There is always a comforting thought in time of trouble when it is not our trouble."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Bridges' Aide Balks At Probe Questions

Louis Goldblatt of 432 Lovell avenue, Mill Valley, a top lieutenant of Harry Bridges, longshore union leader, yesterday balked as he was called on for testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee.

He "took the Fifth Amendment" rather than tell whether he had tried to bring about the resignation of a Teamsters Union monitor.

Goldblatt refused to answer a question on whether he had tried to bring about the resignation of Godfrey P. Schmidt, a New York attorney, who had been appointed by a court to monitor the Teamsters Union.

Goldblatt, secretary-treasurer of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, talked of "informal understandings for cooperation" between the two unions, and said an agreement had been reached on union organization in Hawaii.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, asked Goldblatt if "on behalf of Mr. (James R.) Hoffa (head of the Teamsters) did you try to have Godfrey Schmidt resign as a Teamsters Union monitor?"

Goldblatt's counsel objected, but was overruled.

Then Kennedy asked, "On behalf of Mr. Hoffa?"

"No," Goldblatt said.

The question about Schmidt was asked again, and Goldblatt refused to answer.

HOSPITAL RECEIVES GIFT RESPIRATOR

A Bird respirator, described by hospital officials as a "near perfect" machine for aiding persons with respiratory difficulties, has been donated to Marin General Hospital by Mr. and Mrs. S. Grant Lippitt Jr. of Mill Valley. Shown receiving the gift from the Lippitts is Miss Vittorina Lombardi, supervising nurse in the hospital's surgery department, who has been on Marin General's staff since the institution opened.

Ehlen Fires Blast At Ark Dwellers

Four ark dwellers on underwater Mono street in Sausalito, originally ordered to make satisfactory sewer connections or move out of their dwellings today, have won a delay.

But their action has been called a "sham and a stall" by Sausalito City Atty. John B. Ehlen. He said they are "trying to thwart the policy of the state to prevent pollution of waters."

JUDGE'S RULING

The four residents, affected by a ruling handed down by Marin Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating in May, are Philip Savage, Alex Georgiadis, Robert G. Barteau and H. Norman Braune.

Ehlen said that subsequent to the ruling in May, the four applied for and received an extension of the deadline to July 18, on the basis that they had applied to the Sausalito City Council for permission to connect sewerage lines with a public sewer line—that of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District.

HEARING SLATED

A hearing was to have been held on this application last Tuesday, but the council did not meet. The application now will be considered next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Ehlen said, the four have made application for a further extension of the court-ordered deadline, and that will come before Judge Keating on Monday.

Ehlen said that in his opinion the council cannot legally grant the sewer hookup because that would be sanctioning a public nuisance, namely that of obstructing a street.

Demands have been made on the council to have the ark structures removed because they are clogging up a city street, Ehlen said.

"I'm sure their request will be denied," he said. "I believe the application has been made in bad taste because the owners have been informed by me repeatedly that they have no right to grant an application that would mean obstruction of a public street."

Pessimistic Herter Off For Big Four Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter took off today for the Big Four talks at Geneva with a pledge to strive for "a reasonable agreement with the Soviet Union on the problems of Germany and Berlin."

But, Herter said, he has "no great expectations for success" and that bargaining with the Russians requires "infinite patience and long labor."

Herter spoke at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington, just before soaring away in a brand new jet plane, a giant military version of the Boeing 707 airliner.

Aides said the U.S. foreign affairs chief is not ruling out the possibility of at least a temporary agreement on the cold war crisis issue at the second round of the foreign ministers' conference. Such an agreement could pave the way for a summit meeting later in the year.

"My colleagues of France and the United Kingdom and I will strive, as we did before, to reach a reasonable agreement with the Soviet Union on the problems of Germany and Berlin," Herter said in his airport statement.

"We go to Geneva resolved, as before, to negotiate in good faith, and equally determined to maintain our obligations to the more than two million free people of West Berlin."

MYSTERY LIGHTS SEEN BY 5 AIRLINE PILOTS OVER PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Pan American Airways pilot reported that a group of extremely bright lights approached his airliner at high speed over the Pacific early today.

Four other trans-Pacific airliner pilots also reported sighting the unidentified objects.

A Pan American spokesman here said the first report came from Capt. George Wilson, commander of a DC-7C Clipper en route from San Francisco to Honolulu, at 6:20 a.m.

"They were extremely bright lights, surrounded by small lights," Wilson said. "They approached us at approximately 21,000 feet altitude. They were closing in rapidly. The objects then headed south. After about 10 seconds all of the lights disappeared."

The Pan Am spokesman here said dispatchers here heard pilots of a Canadian Pacific Airlines airliner and a Slick Airways cargo plane also reported seeing the objects.

Cost Of Marin City's New Homes Outlined

John H. Tolan Jr., representing the Barrett Construction Co., builder of homes planned for the redevelopment of Marin City, told the Marin County Redevelopment Agency yesterday that the so-called "economy" two-bedroom home could probably be purchased for $77.66 per month.

Tolan made it clear this was a tentative figure, that there were still some questions to be answered, but that it was a "reasonable" figure.

He said that payment could be on the basis of a 35-year FHA loan, and after the down payment and closing costs had been paid.

He said the figure included taxes and insurance.

Tolan's presentation followed reading a telegram from redeveloper James H. Scheuer designating the Barrett firm to handle the project. It is located in Richmond and has undertaken a similar redevelopment project there.

Stressing the tentative nature of the costs, Tolan also presented three other house types with costs. He described an "equipped" two-bedroom home, a three-bedroom and a four-bedroom with monthly payments estimated at $91.88; $97.91 and $113.39 respectively.

All would include taxes and insurance and would be in effect after down payment and closing costs.

Tolan said that "buyers should buy from houses, not plans," stating his firm intended to build a model house of each type for inspection of potential purchasers. He noted also there will be some uncertainty on costs until taxes are specific, and that final design is under control of an architectural control committee. He noted, as well, that there may be some variation in land costs.

Questioned on down payments, Tolan said the "economy" house should run about $400 and that closing costs could vary from $300 to $600.

Tolan said that if present plans develop on schedule, construction on the first units should start by the spring of 1960.

Driver Jailed In Belvedere Row

Rodger S. Jones, 26, of 545 Comstock drive, Tiburon, early today was cited for running a stop sign, failure to have a driver's license in his possession and was booked at the county jail for resisting arrest, the Belvedere Police Department said.

Officer Robert W. Scheiner said Jones was stopped at 2:30 a.m. at Edgewater road and San Rafael avenue by Officer Al Mendoza.

Scheiner said he was called to the scene when Mendoza radioed that Jones was hitting him. He said Jones denied that he did not observe the stop sign, adding that when Jones became abusive he was taken to the county jail and booked. Jones was released under $500 bond.

Aboard Lexington

David J. Carbine, Navy aviation ordnanceman airman and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan A. Carbine of 605 East street, San Rafael, is serving with Detachment Lima of Carrier Airborne Early Warning Squadron 215 abroad the attack aircraft carrier, USS Lexington in the western Pacific.

New Plan To Rid Marin City Of Old Homes

Likelihood that the Marin County Housing Authority may still be able to dispose of Marin City wartime houses without resorting to court action developed at the commissioners' meeting yesterday.

A year ago, the commission contracted with Len Rogers of Texas who agreed to purchase and remove all the old houses for $303 each. He subsequently ceased removal operations, charging the authority failed to take steps to prevent vandalism.

WOULD TAKE THEM

Yesterday, commission attorney Guy A. Ciocca presented John Larson of Clear Lake Highlands, who said he would take all the structures and move them to extensive tracts he owns at Clear Lake, for use as summer homes.

Ciocca suggested the commission accept a compromise plan whereby Rogers, the original contractor, would purchase 49 now vacant damaged houses for $100 each, payable in advance, with the original price applying to the balance.

Ciocca said Rogers indicated this plan would be acceptable.

LEGAL ACTION

Previously, the authority had instructed Ciocca to take legal action against Rogers' bonding company for failure to comply, but Ciocca warned that "comments from the court" indicated further efforts to obtain damages might not be successful and would be greatly delayed by a crowded court calendar.

The commissioners authorized executive director Bert Klahn to submit the agreement to the Urban Renewal Administration for approval.

The commissioners also:

1. Heard a report from Klahn that the low rent housing project is now "off the ground" and is 90 days ahead of schedule. The first unit is slated for occupancy in March, 1960, or earlier.
2. Instructed Ciocca to proceed with an agreement deeding agreed-upon land to the Sausalito School District.
3. Agreed to meet with the Tiburon Sanitary District July 16 to discuss sewage disposal for the Hillarita project.
4. Agreed to reduce the minimum monthly rental from Brice Brothers market from $1,100 to $700.

FIRES

men rolled four trucks with 23 men to the scene. They poured nearly 6,000 gallons of water onto the flames before bringing them under control. Twenty-five acres had been blackened.

The temperature was 106 degrees at the time.

Firemen said the fire apparently started simultaneously at five different spots along the roadside.

They said that a vehicle with faulty exhaust or sparks from dragging metal might have been the cause.

County firemen remained on patrol at Brazil's ranch where a major fire earlier this week menaced the famed Muir Woods redwoods for a time. County Fire Chief Charles R. Reilley said his department had stepped up its patrols throughout the watershed area in an effort to spot small fires or fire hazards before they can result in major blazes.

All logging activity was closed down as of 10 a.m. yesterday as a precaution.

Reilley stressed that with the dry countryside and timber lands, the scorching temperatures, and the extremely low humidity (the reading at the county fire station yesterday dropped to a low of 6 per cent), "the fire danger isn't just serious, it's acute."

He urged all Marin residents to aid the fire prevention forces

Crash Hurts Fairfax Girl

A 21-year-old Fairfax girl was thrown from a speeding car in a 2:40 a.m. automobile collision today on Highway 101 north of Marinwood.

Barbara Carroll was taken by ambulance to San Rafael General Hospital where her condition was described as good. She was given emergency treatment for a severe laceration of the upper left thigh and X-rays were taken. She is a daughter of Mrs. Vincent C. Luebbers of 7 Court lane, Fairfax.

She was a passenger of John S. McKinstry, 21, of Forest Knolls, whose station wagon was southbound at high speed when it hit a west guard rail, bounced off and hit another car in the rear, flipped over and rolled about 200 feet, according to the California Highway Patrol. Miss Carroll was thrown from the spinning car.

Driver of the second southbound car was Lowell C. Smith, 33-year-old Leggett (Mendocino County) tractor operator. His wife, Lola, 31, complained of minor injury and said she would consult her own physician.

Novatan Wants His Road On Map

Paul Brindel of Maestro road in Novato is distressed at not being on the map. A private road, Maestro is a thoroughfare in fact but not on the Thomas Brothers map of the Novato area which the Novato Chamber of Commerce distributes free.

The chamber received a copy of Brindel's letter of protest to Thomas Brothers and indications that he would take action if the situation is not remedied. The letter was read at last night's meeting.

Woman Retracts Confession Of Slaying In 1950

SAN BRUNO (UPI)—A 26-year-old housewife was reported today to have denied her confession to police that she shot and killed a man in 1950.

Mrs. Dolly Darlene Williams of Menlo Park told San Bruno police yesterday she killed Edward Sieger, 26, on Dec. 10, 1950, one day after he allegedly raped her.

But today her attorney, John D. Jorgenson, quoted her as saying, "They are accusing me of a crime I did not commit."

"Mrs. Williams told me she never said she shot Sieger, only that she was responsible for his death," Jorgenson said. The lawyer said she believes she drove him to suicide.

Man Hurt By Shot Has 50-50 Chance

Edward F. Quinones, a 67-year-old unemployed carpenter whose wife died in February, was in "fair" condition after shooting himself in the chest with a .22 rifle late yesterday afternoon.

Despondency over his wife's death and poor health were the reasons, said Capt. Clifton Cordes of Fairfax police.

Quinones used an apparently new .22 rifle and fired a single shot, Captain Cordes said. He and officer Henry Von Der Heide found the bleeding man on the kitchen floor of his home at 30 Spruce road, Fairfax.

Quinones was taken by ambulance to Marin General Hospital where emergency surgery was performed on him. He was given a 50-50 chance to survive.

Police were alerted at 5:20 p.m. yesterday by Mrs. Alice Powers of 76 Manor road, Fairfax, his sister, who called to report that Quinones had telephoned her and thanked her for kindnesses to him, Captain Cordes said.

terday and today by the supervisors included:

Approval of $8,000 for a pedestrian crossing under San Pedro road, San Rafael, and $833 for a traffic signal in front of Isabel Cook School, San Anselmo. Both grants would cover one-third the estimated cost of these projects.

Five per cent salary increases for county employees and $26,000 allowed for salary inequities to be adjusted during the fiscal year.

A second teacher and one new group supervisor at juvenile hall, with the possibility that County Probation Officer Walter Busher may request more staff members later.

Approval of a county road department budget financed mainly by state subventions but requiring 3¾ cents in property tax.

Grant of $50,000 for South San Pedro road improvement, a joint project of the county and San Rafael. The supervisors rejected a $10,000 request from San Anselmo for Sir Francis Drake boulevard improvement.

Set aside $20,000 to acquire park sites, but suggested that sanitary facilities at McClure's Beach and Drake's Beach possibly could be installed by a concessionaire.

Approved $50,000 for the Coyote Creek Flood Control project, with a matching amount to come from the state.

Deleted from the promotional budget $500 requested by the California Chamber of Commerce, $2,000 asked by the Junior Museum of Marin, $1,565 asked by the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce to stage next year's Miss Marin contest and $5,000 requested by the Marin County Taxpayers Assn. The Redwood Empire Assn. grant was reduced from $6,650 requested to $4,000.

Teamsters Win Wage Increases

gan moving into Marin about 10 p.m. yesterday.

County fire station personnel atop Mt. Tamalpais said they could follow the course of heavy smoke clouds moving into Marin from the big Sonoma County forest fire. (See story on page 6.)

San Rafael's 105 yesterday, as recorded at the courthouse, contrasted with an 85 maximum on July 10, 1958, and high of 84 on July 10, 1957.

Beaches, parks and other recreation spots were preparing for mammoth weekend crowds as Marinites are expected to head for the country in an effort to escape the heat.

But wherever they go, they are likely to find it warm. Best hope for any appreciable cooling appeared to be a U.S. Weather Bureau note that a westerly wind may come up this afternoon that could clear the air as well as stir it up a bit.

Marin residents weren't alone in their heat problems. In Los Angeles yesterday the mercury rose to 103 for the hottest July day in 52 years. Another 103 reading, 21 degrees above normal, was predicted for today.

In the northern Napa Valley resort town of Calistoga, residents and tourists reeled under 117 degree temperatures—just one degree shy of the 118 reading at Yuma, Ariz., the hottest spot in the nation yesterday.

'ALL MY SONS'

Tam Players Convincing In Miller Prize-Winner

A dedicated band of actors in Tamalpais Valley several months ago decided to accept the challenge of doing Arthur Miller's prize-winning drama, "All My Sons."

Last night, in spite of stifling heat, the Tamalpais Valley Players presented the first of four performances of this post-war emotional tragedy with convincing finesse.

The story, laid in 1947, involves a man who allowed imperfect aircraft engine parts to be delivered during the war which led to the death of many flyers. The plot concerns his wife, who insists that their flier son, lost for three years, is still alive, and a second son who is about to marry his dead brother's sweetheart.

There are four leading parts, all excellently executed. Nick Monteleone, as the father who delivers the faulty parts, does a smooth job in alternately earning sympathy and disgust for his wartime acts.

-Dunya Chernenko, playing his wife, Kate, shows her skill as she carries the lion's share of the dramatic burden. Her handling of a series of difficult emotional periods was brilliantly done.

The two romantic leads, Morrie Batz playing Chris Keller, son of the guilty father, and Esther Allen as Ann Deever, whose father is in the penitentiary as a former partner of the manufacturer, are equally skilled and convincing.

A dramatic outburst between father and son at the close of act two, when the son finally realizes the depth's of his father's guilt, is a climax worthy of many a professional troupe.

Supporting cast members played their parts with commendable conviction, although several cases of prompting slightly slowed the action. Fine support came from Joe Allen, Dick Miller, Kim Badger, Harrie Batz, Walt Lowden and the juvenile, Barry Walton.

High praise goes to Bernice Healey for a most attractive set and to Cliff Badger for sensitive direction.

Praise also should go to the unidentified pilot who guided his transport over Tam Valley just as the most dramatic spot in the play arrived. Perhaps it can be repeated.

Performances are scheduled at the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Clubhouse tonight and next Friday and Saturday at 8:30 o'clock.

Kreton, the visitor from an outer planet (Tom Erhart) shows his supernatural ability to Gloria Mendenhall by making a vase of roses appear to float in mid-air. It is one of the hilarious scenes in "Visit to a Small Planet," now playing Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:30 at the Gate Playhouse in Sausalito.

Girl Injured In Collision

A 16-year-old San Rafael girl suffered a broken arm yesterday evening in a two-car collision near Oakmont and Wildwood avenues in San Rafael.

Darlene Klapperich was given emergency treatment at her home, 210 Center street, after the 6:50 p.m. accident. She was the passenger of William Edward Grady, 16, of 34 Wildwood avenue.

Grady cut the corner in making a left turn from Wildwood onto Oakmont avenue and collided with an eastbound car on Oakmont driven by Merton Alvin Jacobs of 670 Oakmont avenue, reported San Rafael Police Officer L. A. de Lisle Jr. Grady was cited for making an improper left turn.

At 2:15 p.m. yesterday the brakes failed on an eastbound car as it neared the stop sign at the end of San Rafael Miracle Mile where Second and Fourth streets join, police reported.

Carolyn Marin Ongaro of 103 Southwood avenue, Ross, swerved to avoid a stopped pick-up truck, struck the stop sign, banged into the truck and continued across the intersection and rammed into a tree in order to stop, reported Sgt. Louis Foster. The car was towed away but the woman was apparently uninjured, Sergeant Foster said. No citations were issued.

Driver of the truck was Eugene Brady, 1691 Mar West, Tiburon.

This parcel was the property of a television personality, accustomed to a certain munificence in living. Why not buy it yourself—for income, development, or just to congratulate yourself on owning? If this was in Sausalito, we would be asking $40,000 plus. Can you drive 15 minutes further to consistently good weather and pay $22,500? Of course you can!
(Excellent financing available). This is the type of listing—with "something extra"—that you can expect from—

28 Homes Ruined In Hollywood Fire; Arson Suspected

Big Brush Blaze Damages 15 Other Houses; Hundreds Flee

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Twenty-eight homes are known destroyed in a brush fire—possibly touched off by an arsonist—which swept through 1,000 acres yesterday in Hollywood's rustic Laurel Canyon.

Fifteen other homes were damaged. Three hundred persons were forced to flee.

Most of the homes were in the $30,000 to $40,000 class. Seven firemen were injured trying to save them. A woman resident and her son suffered burns running from their home as flames raced down upon it. It was destroyed.

A family in an auto barely escaped when the driver, blinded by smoke, drove off the road. The occupants fled on foot. Flames caught the car moments later and set it afire.

The blaze broke out in two different places on Laurel Canyon boulevard and flared up minutes later a mile away on Mulholland drive—leading firemen to suspect a firebug.

Mulholland crosses Laurel Canyon boulevard, like the cross on a T, at the ridgeline of the Hollywood Hills. The flames spread from Lookout Mountain drive north through hills and canyons crossed by two dozen streets.

Massed men and equipment—and backfiring—halted the fire along the crest at Mulholland. North of it lay thick brush on the downslopes facing the communities of the San Fernando Valley.

Forest Fires Erupt As Heat Sears N. State

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two forest fires burned out of control today in Northern California. Another was checked. Every where the situation was critical.

More than 300 acres of slash timber and brush went up in smoke 15 miles west of Garberville in southwest Humboldt County. The 115 men on the line bucked 20 mile an hour north winds. No one could say when the blaze would be controlled.

SONOMA FIRE

Another fire in steep, inaccessible coastal country burned more than 300 acres yesterday in Sonoma County. This one required 150 men, hopeful of bringing it under control sometime today.

In Santa Cruz County, the small community of Boulder Creek was threatened before control lines were thrown around 150 acres of burning brush and timber. The blaze was corralled only one and a half miles from Boulder Creek.

The area will be patrolled for at least three days.

CAUSED BY WIRE

Ranger Les Gum said a high tension wire, dropping because of the heat, short circuited on a tree.

A total of 225 men worked on the lines.

All over Northern California the report was:

"Most treacherous fire weather of the season."

In national forest lands, all hands were held on standby basis.

A. L. Medford, district supervisor of the Klamath National Forest, echoed the sentiments of his colleagues:

"The fire danger is extreme," he said. "We are maintaining a continuous vigil."

PLAYWRIGHT'S BINGE ENDS BEFORE JUDGE

LONDON (UPI) — Irish playwright Brendan Behan, who set London agog with a boisterous two-day binge, appeared in court sober today and meekly pleaded guilty to public drunkenness.

The judge fined the hard-drinking Irishman five shillings (70 cents) for being tipsy and ordered him to pay a doctor 15 shillings ($2.10) fort treating his battle wounds.

Wearing his usual rumpled green suit, the 35-year-old, 210-pound Behan shuffled nervously as he stood in the dock. He was there only 43 seconds.

"I was in my cups," he mumbled to Magistrate Clive S. S. Burt when asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed.

It was an inglorious end to 48 hours of drinking, shouting and fighting for the one-man mob from Dublin. The spree began Wednesday night.

To Expand Centers

Mrs. Thomas J. Mellon of Kentfield and Philip Schafer of Mill Valley have been appointed to the Catholic Committee for the Aging which yesterday discussed plans for expanding the Catholic senior centers at a meeting in San Francisco.

BEARS HOPES OF BRAZIL

Miss Brazil, 19-year-old Vera Ribiero, poses at Idlewild airport in New York City after arrival with her parents. She is a college student and this is her first visit to the United States. She will compete in the Miss Universe contest at Long Beach. (AP Wirephoto)

Famed Fullback's Son Joins Insurance Staff

Joe Savoldi III, 1355 Clinton street, San Rafael, has been named to the San Francisco Agency staff of Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Savoldi, graduate of Michigan State University, is a son of "Jumpin' Joe" Savoldi, famed fullback at Notre Dame in the late '20's and for 20 years a professional wrestler.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Ex-Diplomat Dies

NEW PORT, R. I. (AP)— Henry P. Fletcher, 86, noted American diplomat and chairman of the Republican National Committee from 1934 to 1936, died yesterday at his Newport home after a long illness.

Friendly Pigeon

LONDON (UPI)— Mrs. Pearl Lee was playing the piano for a few friends when a pigeon flew in, landed on the piano, laid and egg and went to sleep.

"She didn't budge all night," Mrs. Lee said yesterday, "but was gone when we came down this morning. I had left the window open."

More AF Families

LONDON (AP) — The U. S. Air Force population in Britain will increase by about 12 per cent over the next few months.

"Let them all come," says the chairman of a good will committee near the big Ruislip base. "We've been getting along fine with the Yanks here for years."

His sentiments were echoed by owners of village stores near the American Air Force bases dotted over eastern England. Taking care of American families has meant business since World War II.

U.S. Seeks New Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says it will try Richard A. Mack and Thurman A. Whiteside again if it can. Their 14-week trial ended yesterday in a hung jury.

They were charged with plotting to rig the award of a Miami television channel while Mack was a member of the Federal Communications Commission. Whiteside is a Miami lawyer.

But whether the government can bring them to trial again depends on a pending decision of Federal Judge Burnita S. Mathews.

Before the case went to the jury defense lawyers asked for a directed acquittal. Judge Matthews, in an unusual step, reserved her decision and sent the case to the jury.

Kozlov Ending Visit

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Frol R. Kozlov's barnstorming tour of the United States was to end today.

The Soviet first deputy premier flew to New York's La Guardia Airport after a brief stop in this industrial city for a look at the Homestead works of the U. S. Steel Corp., and a visit to the nuclear power plant at Shippingport, Pa.

More Pay For Judges

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Bigger paychecks, fattened by as much as $333 extra a month, will be going to California judges come September.

Under a bill by Sen. George Miller Jr. (D-Martinez), signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday, Supreme Court Chief Justice Phil Gibson will get a $4,000 a year raise to $28,000, while his associates go from $23,000 to $26,000.

All appellate judges will reach $24,000; superior court judges in large counties, $20,000, and in small counties, $18,000, the same as for large municipal city judges. In smaller cities they'll get $16,000.

Hoffa To Be Quizzed

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa is due before the Senate rackets probers Monday to answer charged that his Teamster Union cheated its members and took part in a secret strike-breaking mission.

Sen. John R. McClellan (D-Ark.) yesterday reviewed testimony that Hoffa made deals with favored employers and bargained away take home pay of rank and file teamsters.

Bank Robbery Foiled

ECLECTIC, Ala. (UPI) — The manager of the Bank of Eclectic killed one man and seriously wounded another today during an attempted bank robbery.

Carl Ray Barker, 31, whose seven-month pregnant wife and small child had been held hostage last night along with Barker, threw a pot of boiling water on one of the would-be bank robbers and shot to death the other.

Barker and his family, along with Eclectic Policeman Maxie Taunton, had been held at gunpoint since 9:30 p.m. last night by James F. Bray and Billy Hayward, both of Montgomery and 26 years old.

Siberia Flight Nixed

NEW YORK (AP)— The Soviets have refused Vice President Richard M. Nixon permission to fly across Siberia in an American plane on his visit to the Soviet Union, the New York Herald-Tribune said today.

Nixon, who is going to Moscow later this month to open the U. S. exhibition, wanted to return home across Siberia by way of Alaska, the paper's Washington correspondent James E. Warner said.

Mosquito District Will Buy Vehicles

A four-door sedan and a pick-up truck will be purchased by the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District.

The purchases were authorized Thursday night by the district board of directors.

In other actions, the directors:

Authorized Manager G. Paul Jones to attend a three-day manager's seminar at Monterey in October.

Announced they are in favor of a statewide research on mosquitoes and insecticides provided it is done at Davis and Riverside, and at no additional cost to taxpayers.

Authorized the manager to sell to highest bidders one ditch pump, a 10 horsepower motor, an outboard motor, and a 16-foot rowboat. All items except the motor need repairs.

During 1943 the only pennies minted in the United States were zinc-coated steel. This was to conserve copper for war defense purposes.

Electric Contractors, Workers In Stalemate

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Electrical contractors and their employees remained stalemated today in the 11-day dispute over a new wage contract for electricians in 17 Northern California counties.

Most of the electricians in the area, members of Local 340 of the Electrical Workers Union, have stayed off the job since their old contract expired July 1 although a strike has not been sanctioned.

Again yesterday, employers called on the union to halt the dispute by calling back the workers and assuring them that no reprisal will be taken by contractors.

In a telegram to union business manager M. J. Campbell, the manager of the employers' Sacramento Valley chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Assn. charged that refusal to work during contract talks is in violation of union-management agreements.

"The employers are willing to resume negotiations when the men have returned to work and when Local 340 has recognized the solemnity of its agreements," Joseph T. Krivanek said.

Krivanek said that although employers had agreed to resume negotiations yesterday, they found they could not do so "in good faith" because so many workmen were off the job.

Bartender Fined For Drunkenness

Sausalito bartender James Richard Hassall, 32, who became enbroiled in an argument with his girl friend under the Alto overpass Wednesday morning, must pay a $15 fine for drunkenness.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court put Hassall on six months' probation and ordered him not to drink to excess. Hassall said the girl friend threw his car keys out the window, and an argument followed. Hassall lives at Caldeonia and B streets in Sausalito.

Lassie Sentenced To Two Weeks For Abating Nuisance Her Way

THE MAN from the Humane Society was nice enough about it. He checked in again today to see if Lassie was being confined prŏperly in accordance with her two weeks sentence for nipping. She has one more week to serve.

Every Monday morning he starts out with a fistful of warrants to serve on hapless quadrupeds who got into trouble over the weekend. The law says that a bite in the hand, or the leg, or anywhere else is worth two weeks in solitary, vaccinated for rabies or not.

Most of the injured parties are children, or people with the same lack of judgment, visiting other people with dogs who resented their overfamiliarity.

I DOUBT IF Lassie understands the reason for her incarceration. Her canine mind is not capable of associating it with the aggravated nip she bestowed upon the obstinate youngster who refused to heed our repeated warnings or his mother's mildly reproving "Mustn't touch the doggie, sweetheart." He stuck his impudent little face in the jaws of temptation and came out second best.

Maybe he's learned a lesson the hard way — maybe he hasn't. But he was on our property, albeit not of our choosing, and he was nipped. Fortunately it wasn't serious, but his mother's concern should have preceded the incident. She took him to the doctor and the doctor had to report it.

It's a typical example. Lassie claimed recourse in her only means of abating a nuisance and now she's in quarantine. It could have been averted.

There are two kinds of dogs — yours and the other fellow's.

YOUR DOG is a loving animal, trusting, loyal and protective. He enjoys your company and wants to be a part of everything you do. The touch of your hand on his head is sheer ecstasy.

The other fellow's dog is something else. He doesn't know you and until he does you should afford him the same consideration you would toward a strange human. He may be friendly or anti-social. You should not take liberties — neither should you fear him.

HERE ARE a few simple rules of conduct for children and adults alike in his presence.

He may be distrustful of sudden moves or loud noises. This is one reason more youngsters are bitten than grown people. Move calmly and naturally. Speak quietly.

Children should not ride bicycles, scooters or wagons into strange yards. Some animals dislike all types of vehicles, including automobiles and particularly motorcycles.

NEVER ROUGH up an unknown dog, even though it appears to be gentle. You do not have to prove you have a way with animals. If you are so gifted he will be the first to recognize the fact and will let you know when you are accepted.

If a dog wants to smell you, let him. It's his way of sizing you up and a few sniffs may make you his friend for life. If he decides otherwise, nothing you can do is going to change his mind.

Old dogs, like some old people, are crochety. All they are interested in is social security — a quiet place to lie down and affection from their owners. If they ignore you, let them alone.

A DOG LIKES the sound of the human voice, provided its tone is gentle and understanding. Even a surly animal will wag his tail if you include him in your conversation. Mention his name repeatedly. It's a word he comprehends even with a limited vocabulary.

Wait a while before you pet him, unless he asks for it. If he backs away from you go home and pet your own dog.

He still loves you.

FOR MOTHER ON HER BIRTHDAY

Oh, I have seen the majesty
Of rolling sea,
Of glorious tree,
And each has held a certain tie.

But I have seen the trees cut down,
And ocean drown,
And grass turn brown,
But all I do is stand and cry.

Yes, I have marveled at a star,
Seen blue stretch far,
Its only scar
White clouds in beauty of smooth sky.

When wind thru trees begins to sing,
Or bird takes wing,
Then tears will sting
These eyes that live to see them die.

PROFILE OF THE WEEK—Redwood souvenirs are big business in Muir Woods Curio Shop, established in 1933 by Viola Montgomery (above) and her late husband, Chauncey, (at right). (Independent-Journal Photo)

LATE MR. MONTGOMERY — Without his white mustache and Van Dyke, he said, he was just another fat man.

From Crash To Curio Shop

By LARRY LOVETT

One of Marin's little publicized but nevertheless highly successful enterprises had its origin in the ill-fortune of a San Francisco couple which had been cleaned out and left virtually bankrupt by the depression of the early 1930's.

For it was in 1933 that Chauncey and Viola Montgomery became proprietors of the Muir Woods Curio Shop, operating it themselves and which today includes a coffee shop and a year round staff of eight employees.

As white-haired Viola Montgomery sits in her tiny Muir Woods office and tells the story of her eventful life, it requires little imagination to picture her early days as she reminisces.

WITH COMPLETE CANDOR, she tells that she is a native of Sterling, Ohio, born in 1884 and that she graduated in 1910 from the University of Wooster Nursing School. She practiced as a registered nurse in Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania and subsequently became superintendent of the Children's Hospital of Akron, Ohio.

"In 1914," she relates, "I had a patient who wanted to travel to California and that was the end of Ohio."

Viola Montgomery thoughtfully fingered a beautifully cut piece of glass on her desk, some 2½ inches across, and cut like a diamond.

"THIS PAPER WEIGHT," she explained, "was taken from the gorgeous tower of Jewels at the 1915 International Exposition in San Francisco on closing night. It was given to me by Chauncey Montgomery whom I had met earlier in the year near the Tower."

The next year, they were married.

Chauncey, a native son from Martinez, was a burlap bag broker with a thriving business. Viola became a homemaker and things went well until the crash.

"PEOPLE WERE jumping off buildings and doing all sorts of crazy things," she recalls. To make ends meet, she returned to nursing and her husband tried all manner of things.

One day, she recalls, they took a drive to Santa Cruz where, even in the depths of the depression, they saw people buying curios hand over fist.

"Monty," as he was known, met his good friend, the late William Kent who suggested that Monty take a try at operating the curio shop at the Tamalpais Tavern, atop the mountain, which Kent operated.

"THE TRAIN UP the mountain had already stopped running," Mrs. Montgomery recalled, "but sightseeing buses made the long tortuous run up the mountain, including over the toll road which existed at that time."

Private cars were also starting to use the road.

On week-ends, both Montgomerys would "man" the shop while during the week they would alternate, with one returning to their home in San Francisco, using the old Golden Gate auto ferry from Sausalito.

"Then we made one of those mistakes that folks get into occasionally," she admitted. A year later, they decided to invest in a sea shell type curio shop in San Francisco on the highway opposite Fleishhacker Zoo. "It was a failure from the start," she recalls, "and we almost starved."

SO BACK to his friend William Kent went "Monty" and that's where the big break came.

He offered the Montgomery's a 99-year lease on 1.33 acres of land in Muir Woods bordering land which the Kents and given to the government.

"On this spot," Mrs. Montgomery explains, "we built our first shop which stood until 1941. But in a couple of years, the government decided they wanted the area which Mr. Kent told them they could have, subject to the 99-year lease."

THE GOVERNMENT, however, made it clear they could not accept such a limitation, so the land was turned over to the government with the Montgomery's having to settle for a two-year lease instead of 99!

"However," Mrs. Montgomery says, "although we must bid on the lease every two years, the national park service has accepted our offer, I guess our record has been pretty good."

Things went along well enough to keep the Montgomery's "on an even keel" but nothing tremendous. "Monty," by nature a friendly and jovial companion in any group, became one of the attractions in his own right.

HE WAS A huge man, weighing 285 pounds and affecting a picturesque white moustache and Van Dyke beard. "He would always say that without them, he was just another fat man," Mrs. Montgomery laughs.

He became active in Mill Valley affairs, joined the Rotary Club and served as president in 1942-43.

In 1941 ,the park service decided that the original shop, built adjacent to the stream which flows through the woods, should be replaced by a larger modern building. So the present structure was built and opened.

"It was just before World War II started," Mrs. Montgomery comments wryly, "and instead of bringing in loads of tourists, gasoline rationing just about stopped all travel except for an occasional sight seeing bus.

SHE AND MONTY carried on as best they could during the war years and just as the black war clouds were thinning, Monty died in 1945, leaving his wife alone to carry on with the shop.

"We had moved to our Mill Valley home when the new shop was built," she relates, "and I still make my home at 110 W. Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley."

She admits that at the end of the day, it's nice to get away from a lot of people.

Starting with 1946, she shop has become a profitable venture, she concedes, and caters to visitors from all over the world.

What's the most popular item?

"POSTCARDS," she guesses but says she has no idea how many or what type are bought.

But redwood items are the big thing. Novelty jewelry is becoming a big item, now, also.

"People are redwood minded when they come here," she explains, "and these items of redwood burl are popular."

Strange as it seems, the redwood items are becoming increasingly difficult to get. "It all comes from California manufacturers," she says, and she now takes a large portion of the output of three Santa Cruz plants and one in Eureka.

"WITH THE DEPLETION of commercial redwood groves and the increase in protected acreage, sources of burl are dwindling," she explains. One long time supplier in Eureka recently went out of business.

But her novelty jewelry comes from a source even closer. But who it is is a trade secret. All she'll say is that it is manufactured in Marin County and she takes the person's entire output.

But Viola Montgomery shows no signs of being concerned about her business. She points with pride to her eight regular girls. "Seven of the eight are grandmothers," she laughs, "and one has been here 15 years and three others more than 10. I think that speaks pretty well for the treatment they get."

SHE RETURNED again to her redwood souvenirs. "Just yesterday," she said, "I received an order by mail which I think is mighty interesting and makes me think our shop is pretty well known. TWA sent me an order for an assortment of redwood burl trays, salad bowls and book ends which I understand will be used as displays in New York."

Mrs. Montgomery is an excellent customer of the Mill Valley post office. She ships large amounts of orders every day from her Muir Woods shop.

But one of her proudest possessions is neither redwood nor is it native to Marin.

PARKED BEHIND the little shop is one of the sleekest modern cars you ever saw. "That," she says proudly, is my baby Rolls."

She explains in detail that here is a 1959 Rolls-Royce, generally recognized as the very epitome of fine motor car design—and cost.

"This is the Silver Cloud model," she explains, demonstrating its various appointments with the air of an extremely proud owner. "You see, I had an older car that was spending a good deal of time in the shop."

She tells of a visit to her shop one day by Fred Thompson of Kentfield, brother of Kathleen Norris, saying that he, too, has the same model car. She admired the car audibly.

"THE NEXT DAY," she says, "this English gentleman called me from San Francisco asking if he could drop by and show me the car. He told me the larger model sold for $20,000 which was a little steep for me so he brought this one."

Very shortly she owned a new Rolls. "It was fun," she chuckles, "to buy. The salesman told me I could have six years to pay for it and when I told him I paid cash for everything he acted as though he was holding a hot brick when I wrote out a check and handed it to him."

Viola Montgomery lives alone in her home most of the time but has occasional visits from her niece, Mrs. Barbara Stewart Britton of Kentfield. Mrs. Britton is her sole "family."

BUT SHE HAS still another regular pleasure. Each year, she sends a check to Mill Valley's Frank Comstock, who was active with "Monty" in the Mill Valley Rotary Club. Comstock is still active after 23 years membership. The check is in Monty's memory and is to be used for boys' work.

A trip to Muir Woods at any time of year is more than pleasant. But to include a visit to the curio shop and a chat with Viola Montgomery is to put the icing on the cake.

By all means, try it.

WINGS OF AMBITION—Flight to Disneyland is in itself an exciting spur to Marin's junior businessmen. For several of the 52 carriers, it was a first flight.

Real Wings To Incentive

How Many 13-Year-Olds Own Stock Or Give Mothers Washing Machines?

One Independent-Journal carrier has bought four shares of PG&E stock with his earnings. Another just tapped his $400 bank account to buy his mother a washer.

They and 50 like them have just returned from the annual junket to Disneyland, high-point of the I-J's year-round incentive campaign.

"It wasn't so hard," commented Pete Del Tredici, the 13-year-old investor. "I sold 30 and took my brother and sister with me."

Member of the talented San Anselmo family, he enlisted help from artist brother Bob to distribute slips announcing his goals. Pete has been delivering papers since he was 8.

NOVATO'S BOB SMITH, also 13, carefully budgets his earnings, saving some and spending some for his electronic and radio equipment. On the I-J Ice Follies junket, he took a girl friend.

Bob had no trouble selling 15 required subscriptions—either magazine, newspaper or both—and one extra. He has been delivering in the Monte Maria subdivision for four of his nine years in the business. His sales technique was simple.

"Most of the people know me and would like to see me go to Disneyland." Pause. "And if they didn't say 'yes' right away, I just stand there on the porch until they did."

BOTH THE BOYS have discovered that these subscription drives have permanent results.

"They found it was pretty easy to sell," said Pete. "They'd say, 'Okay, we'll take it for three months.' And they liked it so much they took it the whole rest of the year."

Every new I-J subscriber on the route means another 28 cents monthly to the carrier. The magazine subscription package adds 5 cents more.

The latter is mutually advantageous. For a modest addition to the standard subscription price, the reader gets a choice of top-quality national magazines.

THE BOYS who make the annual trip are rewarded in one fun-packed day for many small sacrifices in the name of business. Delivering the route means no after-school basketball. It means not going out of town on holidays unless a well-trained substitute will take over.

There are two systems for substitutes. Bob hires his brother Ken or Larry Muir. Pete trades with one of his neighboring carriers, and one will take both routes for a day or two.

CHOICE ROUTES are, of course, "on the flat." They take less time to deliver and there is less chance of the paper's being lost in the terrain.

"My route is one the best in San Anselmo," Pete said. "It's all level and just four streets for 52 papers. I can do it in 10 minutes; it's easy."

Bob is resigned about staying home holidays.

"What's the use of going out and spending money when you can stay home and make it?" he asked.

The Disneyland junket is just one in a series of outings for I-J carriers, all held on Sundays when there are no papers. Only July 19, they go to Santa Cruz; in August comes the big watermelon

PASSPORTS TO ADVENTURE—It was one day last winter that Independent-Journal carriers were given the go-ahead on a newspaper and magazine subscription campaign, with a trip to Disneyland as the top prize. A tableful of solid prizes added further incentive to the drive—sixth in as many years.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

A stereo music system made up from component Hi-Fi Stereo units, and properly placed is truly one of the most enjoyable, most rewarding, and most educational items that any family can posses. Whether your tastes are for the classics, popular, or jazz, music in stereo comes alive and allows you to enjoy the music with all its dimension and beauty. Even though I have been exposed to stereo sound since its practical inception, listening to music performed on a properly designed component stereo system is still a most relaxing and enjoyable experience.

Many people have come to me and commented that they have heard the stereo unit that Mr. and Mrs. Marin have in their home, and that they couldn't hear any difference or improvement over monaural sound. In every case, when I demonstrated stereo sound with proper components and proper placement of speakers, these same people were actually amazed at the lifelike realism and spectacularly clear sound that they heard. The point that I am making is that it is not sufficient to have a console with the label stereo on it. First, you must remember that stereo is in essence two Hi-Fi systems. That means that each of the Hi-Fi channels and speaker systems must have clear, full-range, distortion-free sound. Secondly, and this is extremely important for the stereo effect, the two speaker systems must be properly placed in your room.

We have several stereo combinations that would make your home music system a valued possession. One system includes the new Bell Stereo Amplifier and the new matching Bell Stereo AM-FM Tuner. During our introductory offer you can save $40.00 by purchasing these two Bell units as a pair. Another excellent combination is the Sargent Rayment Stereo Amplifier and its new matched Stereo AM-FM Tuner.

For a truly fine experience in listening, visit our Stereo Hi-Fi store and hear a demonstration of stereo sound. While here you can see our complete systems in beautiful walnut cabinets. If you prefer, we can show you how your home stereo music system can be built up gradually with quality components, from as low as $150.; and for those of you who want and can afford the ultimate achievement of stereo perfection in sound, come in and listen to a demonstration of the Marantz equipment, the world's finest.

When Harmony's The Thing

Butcher, Baker, Banker Alike Blend Voices For Every Note

By JIM HEIDINGER

Barbershop harmony is a form of American music which is again sweeping the country as it did decades ago. In the earlier days, the small town or neighborhood barbershop was a place where friends and neighbors gathered to enjoy a song or two. A typical American harmony developed around these informal singing groups.

Today, this close harmony is heard from coast to coast thanks to the far-flung membership of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. Chapters have sprung up in hundreds of cities, and thousands of members have joined this grand Society.

This type of harmony is produced by four male voices unaccompanied. Rules of time and words are frequently sacrificed to obtain more blending harmony. There is usually at least one harmonizing chord on each melody note. Sometimes, there are as many as five. They are called "Swipes."

The melody is usually sung by the lead, the tenor part, comparable to high alto, is usually above the lead, the bass anchors the chords and the baritone rounds it out.

It all started in Oklahoma in 1938. O. C. Cash, Tulsa tax attorney, was concerned with the shift away from free enterprise and was convinced that something should be done to preserve what he called the last stronghold of individual liberty — the barbershop quartet. So he invited 14 friends to do some quartet singing, proposed SPEBSQSA, signed himself "Permanent Third Assistant Temporary Vice - Chairman" (to give himself a chance for advancement, he explained) and mailed his letters. The response was electric. Not only did his friends join readily, but a little publicity brought requests for membership from far and near. Cash, with an international outlook, at once obtained Oklahoma incorporation papers for his organization as a non-profit fraternal order.

THE MEMBERSHIP of SPEBSQSA is truly American. It includes not only the "butcher, the baker, the candle-stick-maker," but members from just about every known field of endeavor. The Society's affairs are in the hands of business men and professional men of substantial standing in their communities. The lists include bankers, clergymen, physicians, attorneys, clerks, carpenters, plumbers, or just about any occupation you could name. All have their contributions to make and all receive their reward in release from the pressure of modern life and the joy of serving others through harmony.

Aside from the morale building influence among its members, the society has a definite contribution to make in the way of civil service. Item No. 10 in its Code of Ethics reads: "We shall render all possible altruistic service through the medium of barbershop harmony."

Many thousands of appearances by society quartets have been made for worthy causes, such as Red Cross, Community Chest Drives, Church functions, Veterans' Hospitals, to say nothing of a continuous program of service at various USO centers during the war years.

In the winter of 1953, Ivor Davies and H. Edward McKinney, two San Rafael businessmen who had neighboring offices on Fifth street got tired of just talking about forming a local chapter in Marin County, got busy and held a meeting at the home of McKinney after placing an ad in the Independent-Journal.

They were very surprised to greet about 40 interested men at that first meeting. The first big step was to find an experienced man to direct the group. They were extremely lucky to obtain the services of Dave Stevens, the director of the San Francisco Chapter and the Berkeley Chapter. The first year of organization found the "Marin Saltaires," as they named themselves, winning the Far Western District finals over Choruses from seven states including Hawaii. This was, of course, quite a thrill to everyone concerned.

As was mentioned above, the Marin Chapter of the Society certainly does whatever possible to uphold the responsibilities outlined under Item No. 10 of the Code of Ethics. Chapter quartets have, in the past, rendered countless services to numerous organizations within the county which are seeking entertainment for their various programs.

In addition, the chorus has a package show made up for the purpose of providing approximately 30 minutes of entertainment which includes the 35 man chorus and two quartets. This show goes out for occasions where a group wants a well prepared performance.

EACH YEAR the Saltaires put on a show which is called a "parade." In this show, the Chapter attempts to gather the best quartet talent possible from the area. All who have ever attended these shows have been well satisfied with them, and usually return to see the show the following year.

Catholic High School is the next parade. Some excellent talent is being lined up, and an interesting theme is being prepared. In addition to helping to keep the chapter in existence through ticket sales, these shows provide an opportunity to let others in on the thrills of barbershop harmony. The most important thing about attendance at a parade is the enjoyment which is experienced by the audience and participants. There are thrills undreamed of by the newcomer to this form of music.

One outstanding thing about Barbeshoppers is the fact that they are not selfish about their craft. They welcome men of good character to their chapter meetings, and although excellence is their goal, no man of good character is turned out for reasons of quality of voice.

Many men have been known to join the society just to sit and listen; however, it is usually the case that they don't just sit and listen very long once the singing commences at a meeting.

MARIN CHAPTER meets every Tuesday night at Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield and welcomes any man in the County to come, sit in, and see what happens at the meetings. There is a saying in the society that goes like this:

"Where there is a chord, there is never a discord." Fellowship and singing go hand in hand, and this is certainly in evidence anytime barbeshoppers gather.

One illustrious member who had as his start the Marin Chapter has gone on to the road company of Meredith's Willson's "Music Man." Jim Ingram and the Frisco Four and starring in that production in Chicago.

Jim and his father and two uncles were the first organized quartet in the Marin Chapter, and you will probably remember seeing and hearing them in countless appearances around the county for various organizations as "the Ingrams." Jim along with three fellows from San Francisco are doing a fine job in the show, and if you missed the "Music Man" when it was in San Francisco last November, you missed a great show and Barbershop at its best.

Many prominent men across the country have been drawn to barbershopping: Bing Crosby; Bentonelli of the Metropolitan Opera; Sam Breadon, baseball magnate; Supreme Court Justice Denver Davidson; former Governor Kerr of Colorado and the late Al Smith of New York political fame have all served on the society's board of directors.

Composer Hoagy Carmichael, Actor Burt Mustin, Lum of Lum & Abner; Art Baker famous radio and TV announcer; the King's Men; Fibber McGee; Gildersleeve; Fred Waring, Sigmund Spaeth the musical detective; composers Geoff O'Hara ("K-K-K-Katy"), Harry Armstrong ("Sweet Adeline") and the former White House-piano player have all helped to swell the ranks of Barbershopping.

The contests held at the regional, district and international levels are held for several reasons. The most obvious reason for contests is to pick the Champion Quartet and the next four placing quartets or the "medalists" at the international level. However, this is not the only reason.

The judging of these contests is broken up into five categories. These are harmony accuracy, voice expression, balance and blend, arrangement, and stage presence. Each of these categories is given an equal number of points in the total number of points. In addition, a time limit, both minimum and maximum is imposed upon each quartet.

By use of these categories, quartets having a weakness in one area can conceivably make up the shortages by strengths in other areas. More important, however, is the critique held after the contest in which each judge comments on each with regards to the category he judged. In this manner, quartets and members are able to find out what the shortage was which caused a quartet to fall behind. This system enables the society to maintain a means of checking on itself to ensure good quality based on the original aims of the organizers of the society.

Certainly not to be overlooked in connection with the Marin Saltaires is a Chapter of Sweet Adelines or female counterparts of the Barbershoppers.

This organization is a separate organization and not actually connected with the Barbershoppers except as they are similar in their aims, and methods. Steve Carrick, president of the local chapter of the Barbershoppers, is the director of the Sweet Adelines which meets at Adaline E. Kent School on Monday nights at 8:00 p.m. They also invite women to come and listen and sing.

Certainly anyone who likes good music will enjoy Barbershopping, and no one enjoys Barbershopping more than one who is participating.

Here's Pixie Place...

...A Paradox Of Parenthood

There was only $80 in the treasury when Pixie Parents, Inc. understook to expand Pixie Place. The playground at the Marin Art and Garden Center was up to then a rather modest layout. Spurred by professional plans, the 150 couples set about to raise funds. Within a few months they raised $3,000, then $3,000 more.

The story of Pixie Place and how it grew is a saga of Marin parenthood which those who lived it hope others will emulate.

Pixie Place has existed for eight years. Initially it began as a small area developed by the Child Study Group of the Marin Branch of the American Association of University Women.

In 1953 the Albert Evers of Ross agreed to construct an all-weather pavillion on the grounds as a memorial to their son Albert J. Evers, Jr. who lost his life in World War II. Many families in the county have become acquainted with Pixie Place during the Marin Art and Garden Fair when their children have spent an hour playing at the playground.

TUNNEL OF FUN—Sam Gurley (left of Tiburon and Kirk Flood of Lucas Valley, peer out from inner sanctum—

IN 1956 Pixie Parents, the parents of the small children who use the playground, became incorporated. Robert Royston, the noted landscape architect who resides in Mill Valley agreed to prepare the design and plans for a completely new and permanent playground to be constructed on the site of Pixie Place. Since Marin County has no other professionally planned creative play areas, Pixie Place may well serve as a pilot project to stimulate interest in this kind of development for various communities within the county.

Royston has designed the now famous Mitchell Park in Palo Alto, Cruzi park in Alameda which is exclusively a "Tot-Lot" and has been consultant for the Oakland Park Department for many years, in addition to preparing the design for numerous other recreational installations.

Royston's plans were enthusiastically accepted by the members of Pixie Parents, Inc. as well as the board of directors of the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Then came the primary problem — that of financing the construction and equipment. The total cost was estimated to be $20,000 a far cry from the treasury of Pixie Parents which at that time was about $80. In October of last year fund-raising efforts began in earnest.

A THREE-FOLD effort included a series of benefit social affairs handled by Pixie Parents, Inc., appeals for direct contributions of money interested individuals, and the establishment of additional memorials within the playground.

By January the first $3,000 had been raised and the firm of Cagwin and Dorward was engaged as supervising contractors for the project, and they were authorized to proceed with site preparation.

With the generous aid of Dave Dorward, various materials and supplies were obtained at reduced prices from his suppliers. Also, Dorward, with Birge Clark, who is chairman of the husbands' work crew, planned various phases of construction which could be performed by the men of Pixie Parents working on Saturdays.

Following the completion of the initial site preparation March 1, Pixie Parents had accumulated an additional $3,000. At this time it was decided by the membership, with the aid of Mrs. Norma B. Livermore, president of the board of directors of the Marin Art and Garden Center, to obtain a loan of an additional $3,000 to complete the entire construction phase of the play ground. At this point the work crew expanded to include the Pixie Mothers and all available hands to perform as many functions as Dorward could safely trust to amateurs.

The entire installation of fence panels was performed by the men, as well as trenching for the installation of conduit. Frequent moving of play equipment to allow for construction was managed by the mothers.

One week a dozen of the lovely ladies unloaded a double-trailer truck loaded with 43,000 pounds of tanbark to be used as a concussion-free play surface in several of the play areas.

On a Saturday in a pouring rain another dozen men and women wheeled the tanbark to the areas and spread it. This week activity, including painting of the entire new construction, as well as refurbishing of all existing structures and equipment, was a prelude to the May 6 public opening.

WHILE THE MAJOR portion of manual labor is concluded for the time-being, the efforts of Pixie Parents, Inc. to raise money will continue to repay the loan taken to complete the project. And following that time, additional funds will be needed for the purchase of several permanent pieces of play equipment. And it will be vital in future years to insure that adequate financial reserves are available to provide for maintenance and depreciation.

Pixie Parents are most grateful to the many firms whose donations of materials and supplies, ranging from outright gifts to substantial reductions in cost, have enabled the playground to be completed for considerably less money than had been originally estimated. And, of course, the labor contributed by the members substantially reduced the labor cost involved in the finishing of the project. Following is a credit list: architect, Robert Royston of Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes, San Francisco; supervising contractor, Dave Dorward of Cagwin and Dorward, San Anselmo; concrete, McPhail's, San Rafael; concrete block, McNear's Brick Co., San Rafael; asphalt paving, I.J. Ely Co., Larkspur; asphalt materials, Brown-Ely Co., San Rafael, and lumber, Allen Toole, Dick Harris, Goodman Building Supply, Mill Valley; Larkspur Lumber Co., Larkspur; paint, Gil Hohmann, president, Land H Paint Co., San Francisco; Arcadia sliding door, Joseph P. Eichler and Arcadia Co., Palo Alto; electrical contractor, North Bay Electric Co., San Francisco, and always ready helping hand, Vin Davidson, supervisor of gardens, Marin Art and Garden Center.

PIXIE PLACE is intended to be a memorial playground which is in keeping with the philosophy of the entire Art and Garden Center. Thus it was of special importance that one entire play area and the equipment in it is a memorial to Dr. William J. Kerr Jr., San Rafael pediatrician who died last year. This area, financed by Dr. Kerr's family and friends, consists of a large free-form river of sand into which a high slide mounted on a hill deposits its young traveler.

At the top of the slide is a teepee into which the children go before emerging as they descend the slide. At the foot of the hill near the slide is a system of concrete tunnels, each weighing a ton and a half, placed so that a youthful explorer can hide from mother's watchful eye and surprise her by peering out at the opposite end. A tall upright portion allows climbing for a periscope effect.

In still another portion of this area there will be two pre-formed concrete playhouses with creative cutouts on the sides suggesting a variety of play experiences for children.

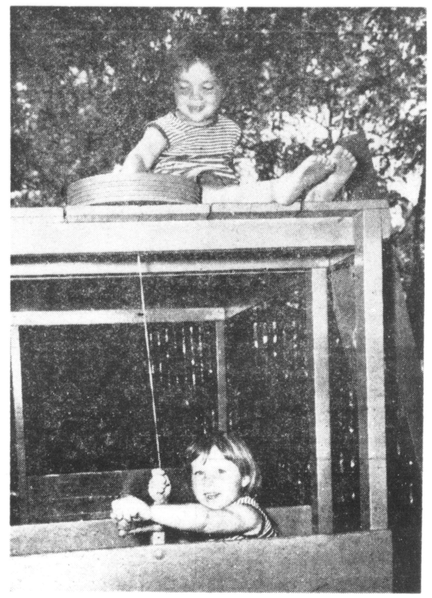
ANOTHER memorial is one of the arbors under which mothers may sit while the children are at play. This arbor is erected in memory of Camille Laurent Diesman, a Pixie Parent member who died last year, and whose special interest was in the garden areas of Pixie Place.

It is hoped that other memorials may be established in Pixie Place, an area of elegant natural beauty filled with the gay laughter of children at play.

Membership in Pixie Parents is open to parents of preschool-age children. The annual fee includes $4 and 10 hours of service to the playground.

Inquiries may be addressed to Pixie Parents, Inc., Box 437, Ross or by calling Mrs. Howard Onstatt. Children six years of age and under are eligible, and must be accompanied at all times by an adult. The playground is available for use every day.

BIRTHDAY party areas may be rented for birthday parties by members and nonmembers. Birthday reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Willard Ivarson.



DING-A-LING-LING-LING — Tari Amundsen, 4, and sister Lori, 2, ride the cable car, holdover from the original playground.

ALBERT WHITE

Another Record

NEW YORK (AP)—The cross-country legitimate theater grossed $63,503,500 during the 1958-59 season, according to a tally by the trade paper Variety.

The total includes $40,151,300 for shows on Broadway and $23,352,300 on touring productions.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Albert White Is Conducting At Hollywood Bowl Series

Albert White is making his second annual appearance as guest conductor in the Summer Concert Series of the Hollywood Bowl of California, world's largest natural amphitheater. So popular was his appearance there last year, directing the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra in an original "Gay Nineties Nite," that he was invited to make two appearances this year, July 10th and 11th, in a similar type of program.

White is violist with the Marin Arts Quartet and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, director of radio station KCBS' "Masters of Melody" program and personnel manager of the Cosmopolitan Opera Company of San Francisco. Active on all levels of musical endeavor, from jazz band to chamber music, he displays a profound and authentic knowledge of his field and has had a prominent part in Bay Area musical circles for the past two decades.

A resident of Corte Madera, White made his official debut into the Marin musical scene two years ago as a charter member of the new chamber music ensemble, the Marin Arts Quartet.

Musical Directory Of Marin Published By Arts Quartet

The Marin Arts Quartet of Mill Valley has distinguished itself by publishing Marin's first all-county musical directory. The 16-page glossy paper booklet, which marks the quartet's second successful season, is being given away free. Marin Art and Garden Fair goers were first to receive it.

The handsome book is illustrated with photographs and whimsical sketches by Lucienne Bloch Dimitroff of Mill Valley. The lead article in the magazine, written by quartet director Charles Meacham, describes the delights as well as the intricacies of chamber music. Did you know, for instance, that Johann Sebastian Bach immortalized the penny whistle.

WHILE THEY LAST, copies may be obtained by writing Marin Arts Quartet, Box 95, Mill Valley.

Oh, yes, season tickets are available at the same address. Price for the three concerts of 1959-60 are $10 for two; $6 for single and $2.50 for student.

Orientals In Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — The big demand for Oriental performers on Broadway is making it hard to cast shows for the road.

A projected national company of "Flower Drum Song" has been shelved because of the shortage of required talent types. During the past season a half dozen shows have required more than 60 Far East portrayals.

THE KING SNAKE is black (or brown) with white (or yellow) cross bands. It may attain a length of 32 inches and a diameter of ¾ inch. It is a smooth scaled, oviparous, constricting snake which is mild tempered and inoffensive. It feeds chiefly on small rodents, but frequently kills and eats other snakes, both harmless and venomous. However the King Snake is not the "sworn enemy" of the Rattlesnake, although it is immune to its venom. (From "Out-of-Doors in Marin," copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)

RING-NECKED SNAKE, a small oviparous snake, is a greenish or bluish dark gray in color and has a reddish collar and coral abdomen. It is only ¼ inch in diameter and not over 17 inches long. It is secretive in manner, hiding under loose, rotting bark of fallen trees, among loose rocks, or under flat stones. It usually prowls at night, hunting small snakes, salamanders, and earthworms. (From Out-of-Doors" in Marin, copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)

FROM PAD TO PATSY

SAN ANSELMO — MARY H. RYAN

I GO ABOUT

I go about as if a microscope
Were hidden within the contour of my eyes,
Examining and probing, in the hope
That life will yield perfection in some wise.
But I have never seen a flawless flower,
Sheer music in the soaring of a wing,
Nor a paragon of whatsoever power
Who had not done a mean or paltry thing.
I do not dream of voicing a complaint
Against the matchless beauty of the world,
Although a minor or intangible taint
Within all observanda must be furled;
But, given a passion for the pure and true,
Why do I never find them, as my due?

NOVATO — LORI PETRI

BARREL METHOD

How refreshingly lax was the problem of tax
About eighteen-ninety;
Your cash you could fold and could have and could hold,
Whether frugal or flighty;
No revenue men with suspicion of sin
Who would ask where it went;
No forms and reports with confessions-of-sorts
Over every last cent.

Yet we must do our duty so on with the booty
For that and for this;
It's Federal, County — the City needs bounty,
And none will desist.
The dollar grows smaller, the budget gets taller;
We give 'till we hurt!
It's the "land of the free"—after taxes, i.e.,
—And also your shirt!

'Velvet Knife' Describes Hollywood Scene With Skill

LONG JOHN DUNN OF TAOS, by Max Evans; Western Lore Press, 174 pp., $5.75.

Long John Dunn runs through, with a salty tongue, just about all of the glamor filled jobs of the West — gunman, gambler, stage driver and saloon keeper, in his 94 years of helling around.

This is an "as told to" type biography and as such inevitably loses something in the translation but there is enough gaminess left to make pleasant light reading. Long John calls his shots, from killings to horse borrowing to palming cards.

THE VELVET KNIFE, by Irving Schulman; Doubleday, 336 pp., $3.95.

Reviewed by
WILLIAM HENDRICKS

This is just about one of the best novels of the Hollywood scene that we have read. Schulman drops out his tough kid juvenile delinquent metier (Amboy Dukes and Cry Tough) into one of the fastest paced conversational bits since John O'Hara at his best. Two examples that hit us quick;

After a rough interview with a producer:

"I entered a booth in the men's room, threw up without effort, and felt better."

Following a meeting with a tycoon in Palm Springs:

"And the man's eyes blinked once, like the shutters of a double camera, and we were fixed forever in his memory."

Central character is Phil Hammschlager who is so good he hurts — everyone around him.

Even the ending has a "Lady or the Tiger?" switch.

This is one book in which the jacket blurb is not exaggerated enough in its claims of pleasures within.

THE RISK, by Cecilia Bartholomew; Doubleday, 285 pp., $3.95.

This is an uneven and at times amateurish book that deals with the breakdown of a man in a government job who is labelled a "security risk." While giving an interesting and detailed study of the man, his family and friends and their reaction to the government accusation, the book brings the hero to the point of tragedy without logically providing the stimulus needed to produce the final violent action. Particularly vibrant is the conversation between the suspect and the chief inquisitor. Otherwise, a book you could pass without missing much that isn't in your daily newspaper.

THE SACRED MUSHROOM, by Andrija Puharich; Doubleday, 261 pp., $4.50.

Here is a research book that reads like a thriller. Anyone with a bent for archeology, history or the languages will be fascinated and find The Sacred Mushroom a difficult book to put down.

Written by a leading authority on parapsychology and extrasensory perception it deals with some unique experiments with two Dutch "sensitives." The experiments send one back through the ages to Egypt at the time of the famed Cheops pryamid, uncover the sacred mushroom, an amazing plant that is the object, currently, of intensive scientific investigation.

Through its use the "subject" (if properly attuned) went back to ancient times, wrote heiroglyphics, told of the uses of the sacred mushroom in medicine and to separate "soul" and body.

There's some fascinating stuff here — in the field of telepathy, hypnosis, ESP, "mediums," "sensitives," trances and the like. Also no rash claims are floating about—the book is well documented, sober in tone but vitally alive in context.

APHIDS (Plant Lice) — Soft bodied, greenish, pinkish or reddish in color, not over ⅛" in length. Reduce plant vigor, curl or distort leaves, harden buds, cause malformation of flowers by feeding on plant juices. Controlled by thoroughly spraying plants with nicotine sulphate. Repeat spray as needed.

LEAFHOPPERS — Slender, delicate insects not over ⅛" in length. Pale green to brownish in color. Cause whitening and curling of leaves and kill tender tips by draining plant juices. Controlled by spray of nicotine sulphate.

THRIPS — Slender, hairy insects . . . yellowish to brownish in color. Cause flower petals to become flecked and discolored. Deform flowers or prevent their opening by feeding on tender flower parts. Controlled by nicotine sulphate spray. Blooms that have reached prime should be cut off and disposed of to prevent the spread of Thrips.

STRIPED CUCUMBER BEETLES — Eat holes in blossoms. Pale yellow with three stripes on wing covers. Attack roses, asters, and vegetables. Controlled by dusting with 1% Rotenone Garden Dust.

WIREWORMS — Slender larvae with round, smooth and shiny bodies. Pale yellow to brown in color. Feed on roots of flowers and burrow into bulbs and tubers. In adult stage develop in ½" long click beetles. Controlled by 45% Chlordane Spray or 10% Chlordane Dust.

Garden Free Of Pests? Then You're Lucky Or Near-Sighted

If you think your garden is free of pests, you're either long on luck or short on sight. For even the most vigilant gardener never completely does away with the cussed critters.

Don't despair, however. By one means or another, you CAN get most of the bugs out of gardening. It's a matter of taking minor precautions and acting quickly when a garden pest makes its appearance.

The need for a speedy counterattack is pointed up by the California Association of Nurserymen, which claims that one aphid and its mate can produce unbelievable thousands of progeny in a matter of days when left unmolested. And most other garden pests are just as prolific.

The best control method is to keep a clean garden. Clean up leaves and trash that lie on the surface to eliminate favorite breeding spots. Never pass the chance to hand-pick a harmful insect. This may seem a backward process, but when you consider its breeding potential, you can justify such methods.

Keep plants in the pink of condition at all times. The well fed, robust shrub is less damaged by an invasion of bugs than its straggly companion.

And finally, when pests do show up, waste no time in breaking out the spray gun. Some gardeners spray BEFORE the trouble starts, which keeps the garden clean as a whistle, but also uses a good deal more spray than you often need.

The art of spraying seems to elude some gardeners. If you follow these basic rules, you'll have no trouble.

FIRST, use only the amount recommended. Less may do no good at all. More may do more damage than the bugs.

SECONDLY, never spray with children or pets around. Make sure they keep their distance.

AND THIRD, never spray in a wind. The experienced gardener (or trash burner) knows there is nothing more capricious than a backyard wind. Since you can't outguess it, you might as well give in to it. The bugs won't do that much damage before it stops.

Like Frosting On A Cake, Border Adds Completeness

Like the trimming on a cake, an edging in the garden adds a sense of completeness. But there's more to it than that. Cake is good to eat without the trimming, while a garden without its share of edging material lacks appeal.

The term edging, however, is not to be mistaken for formality. Nor even for plant material, in all cases. Concrete, wood and rock are also used for edging in the landscape. And of the many plants used, only a finely clipped boxwood is completely formal in appearance.

The most widely used of all edging material are annual flowers. For color, they are unsurpassed. And the variety they offer through different seasons heightens their appeal. Consider then this list of annuals for edging which the California Association of Nurserymen considers tops in summer gardens.

THE FLUFFY, light-blue puffs of ageratum are favorites with all gardeners who have met them. CAN members rate ageratum high and consider it an "undiscovered" gem for gardeners who want a lot of color for very little work.

Also in shades of light blue, but in deep blue-purple too, are the compact forms of lobelia, with their masses of tiny blooms. These are surefire for summer-long color in a part-sun situation. Shearing back when blooms start to dwindle in late summer will bring another growth-bloom cycle.

The defending champion of edging annuals is probably the dwarf marigold. Its brightness is a summer-long phenomenon, to be used along a sunny path or around a border planting of shrubs.

And finally we come to alyssum, the modern descendants of those weedy annuals that used to come up wherever we didn't want it in California gardens. New varieties such as Carpet of Snow, Little Gem (both white) and Royal Carpet (a rich purple) make Alyssum a valuable addition to the list. Try it to define a border or a walk in your own garden and you'll see what we mean.

NATURE NOTES

Garden Enemy Number One Isn't Completely Bad—Just In Gardens

The average homeowner probably feels that the pocket gopher, or just plain old "gopher," is his personal enemy; an animal that lives under their lawn or garden for the sole purpose of destroying their carefully tended plants. This attitude is justified in many cases because the gropher can ruin a landscaped area in a very short period of time.

Fortunately, as is the case with all of our wildlife, the gopher performs a highly valuable service in areas that are still largely uninhabited by turning over the soil; by providing openings to catch water so that it can penetrate the soil rather than be lost through rapid runoff; by mixing soil and plant material to increase fertility; and by loosening and aerating the soil.

Many people confuse the works of the mole and gopher. The gopher is a burrowing rodent with sharp rat-like teeth. The name pocket gopher comes from the presence of two external fur-lined cheek pouches that open outside the mouth. The lips of the gopher can close behind the four large incisor teeth so that dirt will not enter the mouth. Gophers are vegetarians and feed on roots, bulbs, and plant stems which they secure by eating off the base and jerking the remainder of the plant down into the burrow.

Moles are insectivores, not rodents, and have canine teeth. The eyes and ears are small and the front feet are broad and well developed for digging. The fur of the pocket gopher is soft and brownish-gray above with white underparts. Mole fur is short, velvety, and purple-black.

Pocket gophers spend most of their lives underground and are vulnerable to the attacks of most predators only when they come to the surface to throw out the loose soil from the burrows. Some animals, such as snakes and weasels, do not have to wait for the gopher to come to the surface and will follow it underground in order to capture it in its own burrows. Bobcats, fox, hawks, owls, and badger all feed on the gophers and provide a natural control that should be encouraged. Destruction of animals such as the badger will only lead to an increase of gophers which will do far more damage than the badger in areas of cultivation.

Plastic Bag Danger

DANGER—Wise mothers keep knives, scissors and matches out of reach of small fry. New danger is the polyethylene garment bag which children love to pull over their heads and look through. Suffocation may result.

THE RIGHT WAY — Dispose of plastic garment bags by tying them in knots and throwing them in the garbage can. Keep them away from young children at all costs, no matter how practical they seem.

Harmless Looking Bags Lethal To 59 Children

A few years ago, it was discarded iceboxes. Hapless youngsters were enchanted with these miniature hideaways and many suffocated when the doors banged shut on them.

Even more enchanting are polyethylene plastic bags, especially the king-sized ones which come over freshly-cleaned garments. They are equally attractive to their mothers, who find a variety of uses for these sheets of waterproof film.

Tragedy has followed in 59 cases. Official statistics show that 38 infants under six months of age suffocated from plastic film, either pulled or fallen across the face.

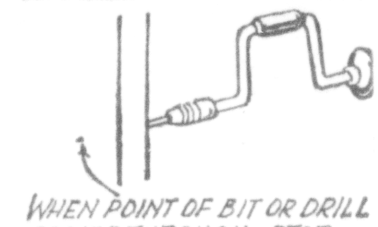
Next biggest toll — eight deaths—occurred with youngsters over 3 years of age. Plastic bags also claimed the lives of one in the 1-to-2 year bracket and three in the 2-to-3 bracket.

A nationwide campaign is on to avert such tragedies, patterned after similar campaigns for matches, gas and electrical outlets. Joining with the Society of the Plastic Industry, representing 1,000 individual companies, are the General Federation of Women's Clubs, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare; the National Safety Council, American Academy of Pediatrics, American Academy of General Practice and National Institute of Drycleaning.

Pamphlets, placards and public news media have been enlisted in the campaign.

Plastic bags are ideal for protecting garments from mildew and dust. For such, their place is on coat hangers. Smaller bags are ideal for refrigerator storage. In between, they should be stored with the same precautions as with poisons and dangerous instruments.

Their use in bedrooms is particularly dangerous. Standard mattress covers perform the same function, but do not have the lethal quality to clinging to the face with an indrawn breath.



WHEN POINT OF BIT OR DRILL COMES THROUGH--STOP AND FINISH DRILLING FROM THAT SIDE.

Geranium Myth

Geraniums have the reputation of being able to go for weeks on end without water. This is true—they will; but, they won't like it! In pots, especially, the geranium will give an inferior performance if water is lacking. Don't be afraid to water potted geraniums every other day, and feed them once a month through summer with a complete commercial fertilizer. You'll be surprised at the difference it makes.

Do-It-Yourself

Dahlias Plantable

The dahlia, bless it, is still plantable in June. Figure about 90 days to picking, which puts it in the thick of the fall color schemes. For this season, plant yellows, golds and bronzes. When plants are six to eight inches high, pinch out the main stem to encourage bushiness and added blooms. Continued pinching will bring on more and smaller blooms. Disbudding all but the terminal bloom on each stem encourages blooms of exhibition size.

Smoke Some Petunia?

Well, that's not an impossible statement, for petunias and tobacco are of the same family, and the word petunia comes from the name the South American natives used to designate tobacco. So somehow the botanists got things a bit twisted up in naming the plants and the ornamental one got called petunia (which meant tobacco) and the one people smoke got called by an old Spanish word "tabaco" which referred to the manner in which the leaves were rolled to be smoked.

BRIEFING FROM A GENERAL—James Stewart, who is a reserve brigadier general in the Air Force, briefs Maj. Gerald McKay on the intricate details of film production while the latter sits in a plane ready for action, in "Cowboy Five Seven," to be presented for the first time on "Stripe Playhouse" at 9:30 p. m. Friday, over KPIX Channel 5). This is the dramatic story of the Strategic Air Command, produced, directed and narrated by Stewart.

Weekly TV Log

Gunther To Star On Travel Show

NEW YORK (AP)—New York and Hollywood talent scouts are racing around furiously trying to sign up every big show business name for next season's spate of specials. Meanwhile, author John Gunther is due to become a television star largely, he insists, because he has rarely faced a camera.

Gunther, former newspaperman and author of best-selling nonfiction books, will preside over a filmed travel series which starts in September on ABC. He thinks he's in on a new idea in the travelogue field: climbing a mountain with U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas; looking around Cuba with Cesar Romero, grandson of a Cuban liberator; exploring jazz with Benny Goodman.

"IT'S TO BE a dramatic show," says the author of the half dozen "Inside" books. "The idea is to journey to peoples and places and give an exciting report on them. I really think the producers picked me for the commenting because I have never been on television for mor ethan a total of 90 minutes. A new face, you might say."

The projected show, called The High Road, will replace another travel show, Bold Journey, come fall.

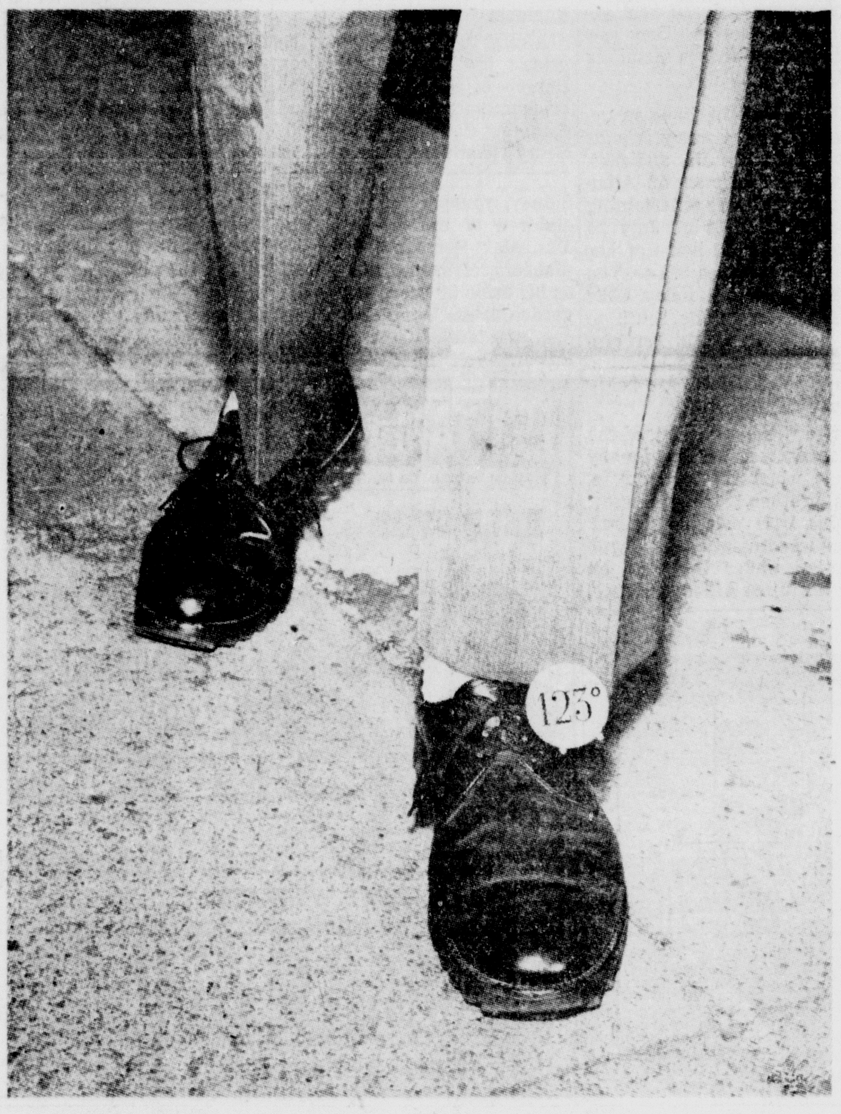
COOLER UP HERE, BUT . . . — To Emil Englke, elongated San Rafael postman, the reading on the official thermometer in the shade at City Hall doesn't mean a thing. It's much hotter out on the Fifth avenue sidewalk as he delivers the mail. A thermometer check as he made his rounds yesterday showed 120 degrees at Bill's cap, 6 feet 3 inches above the pavement. But that isn't what bothers Englke.



. . . OH MAN! THOSE HOT DOGS! — It's the temperature down on the sidewalk that really gets the postman as he tramps on his rounds. It's three degrees hotter down there than up atop Englke, the termometer showed — a sizzling 123 degrees. (Independent—Journal photos by Dick Steinheimer)

Only Slight Relief From Heat Due

The worst smog in Marin history, combined with heat that sent thermometer readings soaring to as high as 110 degrees made yesterday a day which county residents would like to, but won't, soon forget.

Today's weather forecast indicated that Marin will get some small measure of relief from the oppressive heat over the weekend with some "cooling" in the afternoons predicted. But the prospects were for continued high temperatures, polluted air and low humidity through tomorrow.

The 110-degree readings yesterday were recorded at the Marin County Fire Department's central station at Woodacre and at the San Anselmo Firehouse.

At the Novato fire station the high was 109. In San Rafael it was 105. And at Mill Valley the unofficial high was 99.

The thermometer at the Marin County Savings and Loan Assn. office in downtown San Rafael showed 109 degrees at 4:30 p.m. and 103 degrees at 7:30 p.m.

Yesterday's official high in San Rafael was 105. At noon today the reading atop the San Rafael City Hall was 83; the savings and loan thermometer recorded 87.

The county's Woodacre fire station said that the relative humidity reading dropped to 6 per cent yesterday, and the humidity was falling rapidly again today.

Long-time residents said yesterday's eye-watering smog was by far the worst they could remember. In San Francisco, where the mercury reached 92 degrees in the downtown area, the smog count—.49 oxidants per million parts of air—was the worst on record for the city.

Marin's air pollution apparently came from two sources—the same as that responsible for San Francisco's smog, and from the smoke of fires burning to the north of the county.

County firemen at one time yesterday were called to the Pt. Reyes Peninsula for what was first thought to be a fire. It turned out, instead, to be the collected smoke of those fires to the north.

A new dose of irritants be-

School, House, Grass Blazes Keep 3 Departments Busy

Sausalito and Novato firemen, working in blistering temperatures, fought fires which gutted locker rooms in a school building, caused extensive damage to a two-story dwelling and charred 25 acres of grassland yesterday.

The Sausalito fire-fighters were aided by county firemen from the Marin City substation in battling a blaze which broke out about 6:40 p.m. in the music room of the Richardson Bay School annex building.

The flames spread into and gutted adjoining locker rooms Some equipment also was lost. But the school buses, which are kept in the building, were driven to safety.

Firemen said cause of the fire has not been determined, nor has dollar amount of damages.

Firemen were on the scene for more than two hours, and described the blaze as "a hot one with a lot of flame."

At 4:25 p.m. yesterday, a Sausalito woman, Mrs. Rosalind Wall of 127 Glen drive, discovered her two-story home was on fire, called the fire department and then rushed from the blazing house with her two children, Chris, 7, and Miranda, 6.

SPREADS TO HOUSE

Firemen said the blaze started as a grass fire and spread to the frame house. Damage was confined to the upstairs and to the roof and sides, although there was some water damage downstairs. There was no immediate monetary estimate of damage.

A Sausalito fireman, H. R. Cardwell, had just lit his backyard barbecue at his home at 22 Caznear avenue at the time the alarm was received. Cardwell departed hastily for the fire — and left behind near the burning barbecue pit a can of barbecue lighter fuel.

The fluid exploded resulting in a call for the fire department at 4:45 p.m. The fire damaged the barbecue pit, a nearby barbecue cabinet, and a fence.

At 4:05 p.m. a grass fire broke out on the Silveira brothers property four miles north of Novato along the east side of Highway 101. Novato fire-

Marin Basic Tax Rate Will Drop

Supervisors Wind Up Work On Budget

By DIANA BRUCE

Marin's general county government tax rate will be reduced for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

It will be the fifth straight year without a county tax increase.

The drop from last year's tax rate of $2.30 per $100 assessed valuation was predicted this noon by Deputy Auditor Michael Mitchell as the county board of supervisors wound up its public hearing on the 1959-60 budget.

The budget of approximately 12 million dollars will be in the hands of the auditor's office next week so that changes authorized by the supervisors may be totaled. Official adoption of the budget is expected next Friday.

"You can quote me on the tax rate," Mitchell said. "It will be less."

Exactly how much less will depend on the outcome of the equalization hearings which continue at 9 a.m. Monday and the state utility roll. The supervisors will set the 1959-60 tax rate about Aug. 20.

In addition to the general fund tax rate, the areas of Marin County served by the county library will pay 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation. During the supervisors' budget sessions, about eight cents was dropped from the total estimated 1959-60 tax rate.

MARIN ARCHER CLAIMS FIRST KILL OF SEASON

A 25-year-old sporting goods salesman from Mill Valley claims what is believed to be the first deer killed in Marin County in the special 10-day archery season which opened this morning.

He is Bud Johnson, who felled his prize 100-pound, three-point buck with one shot from 50 yards at 7 a.m. today on the Matthews ranch, Inverness. Johnson said it is the first deer he has killed with an arrow.

Marin Boy Drowns In Neighbor's Pool

A Novato housewife stepped into her backyard yesterday afternoon to hang up the family washing and found a 3-year-old neighbor child lying dead, face down, in the bottom of the swimming pool.

Victim of Marin's first drowning of the summer was Ricci Joe Guenther, son of Sgt. 1/c and Mrs. Thomas J. Guenther of 422 Via Herbosa.

The grim discovery was made about 2:10 p.m. by Mrs. Irma Richter, who resides at 430 Via Herbosa.

She called her 15-year-old son, Gary, and the drowned boy's mother to the scene.

Young Richter succeeded in recovering the shorts-clad body of Ricci from the pool and the two women administered artificial respiration without success.

He was then taken to the Hamilton Air Force Base hospital where a doctor pronounced him dead after further futile attempts to revive the boy.

Sheriff's deputies said the body had apparently been in the water between a half hour and an hour before being found.

Deputies were told that the tot had been warned to stay out of the Richter yard and away from the pool. But, they added, he apparently climbed a six-foot redwood fence to get into the yard.

The boy is survived by his parents and two brothers, Alan, 5, and Jamie, 4 months. He also leaves his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Florence of Pittsville, Wis., and Louis Guenther of Milwaukee.

No Hope Seen Of Averting Steel Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) —Wage negotiations in the steel industry reached an apparent stalemate today. An industry spokesman saw no possibility of averting a strike at midnight Tuesday.

But company and union negotiators scheduled another meeting tomorrow in an attempt to break the impasse before the strike deadline.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, said "The hour is late but still not too late for a fair settlement if the steel industry will reconsider its position."

The Steelworkers turned down an industry proposal to extend the contract expiration beyond July 15.

In Pittsburgh, U. S. Steel said if there were no developments from the negotiations, it will start banking furnaces at midnight tomorrow in preparation for closing the mills.

MMWD Repeats Plea: 'Don't Waste Water'

Crews of the Marin Municipal Water District are working around the clock in an effort to prevent waste of water, and to keep pumps going in the southern area of the county, it was announced today by William Seeger, district general manager.

He said loudspeaker trucks are touring Mill Valley, Sausalito, Alto, Strawberry, Tiburon and Belvedere today, and will tour the areas tomorrow, to broadcast warning to water users.

Seeger said there is no water shortage, but that because of the heat wave more water than normal is being used, and water pumps are being taxed beyond their capacities.

He urged water users throughout the county not to water lawns, refill swimming pools, wash cars or allow water to run into gutters.

He said patrol trucks would be sent around to make checks on needless use of water, and that warnings would be issued.

Seeger said the district has the power to take legal action, but that he doesn't want to make any arrest "unless absolutely necessary."

In Mill Valley, he said, crews will be on 24-hour duty to man gasoline-operated emergency pumps.

"These are noisy but necessary," he said, "if we are to maintain service."

"Usually we can handle a situation like this," Seeger said, "but during prolonged heat when water consumption goes up our pumps can't handle the demand." He said this was particularly true in hilly areas.

Night Boat Ride Lands 3 In Jail

A night boat ride with two teen-age girls landed three young men in the Marin County Jail early today.

Picked up at 3 a.m. at Santa Venetia by sheriff's deputies at the conclusion of their boat ride were Charles Richard Harper, 22, of 17 Alta Vista way, San Rafael; Tommy Russell Neal, 20, of 334 C street, San Rafael, and Frank Edward Gass, 19, of 18 Meadow drive, Santa Venetia.

They were booked for condoning the violation of the county curfew ordinance by minors.

Their two girl companions, both 16, were instructed to appear with their parents before the county probation officer next Thursday.

Deputies said they picked up the five young people after they were called to the Santa Venetia waterfront by a report that some youths were running a boat without lights.

Belveron Gardens Guild Is At Work

The Belveron Gardens Guild of Sunny Hills met recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Beckley, booth chairman, to stuff hobby horses to be sold at their "Nightwear and Nightmare" booth at the 60th annual Sunny Hills Grape Festival on Saturday, Oct. 3. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clark Holmes, co-hostess. At least two or more meetings will be required to properly stuff and mount the 160 horses' heads being offered for sales this year.

The guild was organized in 1952 and started the famous ponies the following year. There are now two styles, both made from scraps of corduroys, denims and gay prints. The larger of the two horses, known as the "glamour horse, is decorated with fancy button eyes and sequins.

Nightwear is another feature of the "Nightwear and Nightmare" booth, according to Mrs. Fred Beckley and Mrs. Abel Reis, assistant booth chairman.

Officers of the guild are Mesdames A. A. Olson, president; R. C. Burgett, vice president; N. M. Staley, secretary; and J. E. Christian, treasurer.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Lunches Dominate Summer Season

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Luncheons are dominating the social scene right now. Golfing friends, about 40 of them, have been invited by Mrs. Lloyd Grandi and Mrs. Edward Campion to the luncheon they are giving on Wednesday at the Meadow Club. The Meadow Club will also be the locale for the luncheon at which Mrs. Elie E. Dalmon will be hostess on July 29.

The following day Mrs. Charles Marcus will entertain at a brunch at Bob's of Marin in Corte Madera. Her guest list includes Mesdames Dalmon, Harold Elliott, Herbert Christ, Herbert K. Walton, Harry W. Johnson, Hoeter C. Nelson, C. W. Welcome, J. J. Fischer, Thomas Shine, William Vaning, Charles Howell, William Schulz, Leslie Sorensen, Peter Schubert, Harry Kolb, James Goodale, Ray Nolan, Phillip Weinmann, William Lanigan, W. C. Emerson, Frank Boileau, J. B. Rice, Brown Woodbury, Fred Young, Phillip Wooster, Walter Stadtfeld, Al McNamara, E. N. Benson, John Breach, Homer Hood, Miss Madeleine Williams and Miss Anita Junk.

A Guatamalan theme was carried out at the luncheon Mrs. Harold Schutte gave Thursday at her Ross home to benefit the building fund of the Northgate Group of the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Also on Thursday in Ross was the luncheon and play day given by the San Francisco Junior League for members of the press at the Ross house the Peter McChesneys have taken for the summer. The Fourth Estaters also had an opportunity of meeting the league's delightful new executive secretary, Mrs. Donald MacMillan. She was introduced by Mrs. Carl Livingston Jr., the league president. Greeting guests were Mrs. Richard Hartshorne Jr., chairman of Marin Unit, and Mrs. Dohrmann Pischel Jr., publicity chairman.

The summer series of luncheons given by the Northgate Group at Marin Art and Garden Center starts on July 22 with a "Salute to Hawaii." Instead of a fashion show Hawaiian entertainment will be featured.

The weekly Tuesday fashion luncheons at Rickey's Rancho Rafael with Marion Bellamy as director and commentator continues to "pack 'em in" as has been the situation throughout the entire year.

HONORING Mrs. Theresa Wyatt of San Rafael who is leaving on Wednesday for eight weeks of European travel. Mrs. Robert O'Mara entertained at a dinner party Thursday night. Among the guests were Dorothy, Nancy and Dennis McFadden who left their home in Pennsylvania for a transcontinental tour. Dorothy and Mrs. O'Mara's daughter, Elaine Freitas, were both graduated in June from St. Mary's College at Notre Dame. Elaine's sister, Judy, who attends Gonzaga University at Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. O'Mara went east for Elaine's graduation and then vacationed in New York.

Also visiting Elaine recently was her former roommate at St. Mary's, Della McLachlin of Hong Kong and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gould (Donna Young). The Goulds recently returned from two years in Europe where he was a lieutenant in the Navy. Donna was an Alpha Phi sorority sister of Elaine at U.C.

In addition to Mrs. Wyatt and the McFadden trio, guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Gus Niederholzer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Krohn, Mrs. Benedict Giusto, Mrs. Angelica Dunham and Miss Mary Jane Baird.

UNEXPECTED were many of the meetings in Europe with friends, reported by the Herbert Christs of Greenbrae who have just returned from six weeks' travel in Europe. For instance, they were walking down Regent street in London when they came face to face with the Edmund T. Leiberts, with their daughter, Jan, and son, Toby, Frank George and George Baker who were in a travel group from Marin. In front of Buckingham Palace during the changing of the guard they saw Susan Smith, daughter of the Leon Smiths of Ross, who is spending the summer in Europe.

The Christs actually bumped into the Abe Blumenfelds of San Rafael when they turned the corner of a street in Florence, Italy. The Blumenfelds, who are traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Nat Schmulowitz of San Francisco left for Europe May 20 and will fly home from Shannon airport in Ireland on Aug. 5. The Christs met the A. Leonard Jacobis of Belvedere at a sidewalk cafe in Rome. In Vienna Herb spotted another wearer of a Rotary pin as he was on his way to a Rotary meeting. The other member was William Duffy of Woodland, who with his wife, the former Mrs. George Thornton of El Cerrito, has been traveling in Europe since their marriage in April. Mr. Duffy is a member of a pioneer Marin County family. Clinton Duffy, former warden at San Quentin, is one of his brothers.

The Christs went by jet to Europe landing in Paris where they spent five days. Then they went to Switzerland where they spent another five days with the Herbert Crockers at their chalet in Lausanne. The Crockers who, with their three children have lived in Europe several years, are returning to their San Rafael home in August. The Christs went to Lucerne and Nice, flew to Rome, went to Vienna, Salzburg, Heidelberg. A steamer trip on the Rhine to Cologne was a delightful experience then the Christs flew to Copenhagen for several days and then went to London to end their tour.

HOME after a year in Europe are Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edward A. Peters of San Rafael and their daughter, Carol They went to the continent soon after her graduation from San Rafael High School and in Olso, Norway they visited her former classmate, Bibbie Lie, an exchange student who made her home with the Walter Taits while attending San Rafael High.

The Peters' who flew the polar route, landed in London and bought a Borgward station wagon for a tour of the British Isles and the continent. They wintered at Costa del Sol and saw much of the William Dawsons of San Rafael. Incidentally I had a long letter from Augusta Dawson written in Paris. She told of meeting Jack Saunders of San Rafael in London and of two wonderful days with the Robert Carsons, formerly of Marin, at their beautiful home in Nottingham. The following week Eileen and Bob came up to London to join them and they had a gay time going to the shows and dinner dancing. The Dawsons will be in Klosters, Switzerland for the winter holidays and the Carsons plan to join them there on New Year's. On January 30, the Dawsons are sailing from Genoa for Egypt and the Orient.

The Peters' met Eugenia's brother, William Duffy, and his bride in Paris and then toured France, Holland and Belgium. They sailed for New York aboard the "Bremerhaven" and made the transcontinental trip to California in the Borgward.

INTERESTING VISITORS in Mill Valley soon will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scott Mowier of Chocorua, Wyo., who are arriving on July 25 to visit her son, John Hemingway, and his wife. The day after the Mowiers' arrival the Hemingways are hosting a cocktail party for them. Mr. Mowier who was formerly editor-in-chief of the Chicago Daily News and was also a foreign news correspondent, is a three time Pulitzer prize winner. Now he is a poet of note and in Mill Valley he will confer with his publisher, Stanton Coblentz.

LEAVING ON Tuesday for a trip East are Comdr. and Mrs. Artyn L. Main of Mill Valley. They are flying to New York and then will go to West Hartford, Conn. to visit their son, George Main, his wife and family. This includes a four-year-old son, Bille, and a baby, David born in March.

GUESTS of Col. and Mrs. George L. Wells at their home in Marinwood have been her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick V. Johnson of Newfield, N. J. which is near Vineland. The Johnsons are also enjoying seeing the three Wells' youngsters, Wanda, Karen and Douglas. Recently all of them were at Yosemite for several days. The Johnsons motored west, going first to Florida. They saw many scenic wonders including the Grand Canyon.

SO THEY WILL have an opportunity to see many friends in the Bay Area Mr. and Mrs. Thoronton Seligman of Albuquerque, N. M. are entertaining at a dinner party on July 24 at the San Rafael home of her mother, Mrs. Alfred S. Lee. The Seligmans arrived today after driving up from the south to visit her mother, and her brother, Robert Lee, and his wife. A number of parties are being planned for the visitors.

There was a gathering of the clan recently as well as of many friends when the senior Mrs. Lee's brother, Sidney Herzog, and his wife celebrated their golden wedding at a champagne reception under the oaks on their beautiful Atherton estate.

BETROTHAL OF CHERYL FARINA, SCOTT JOHNSON ANNOUNCED

Engagement of Cheryl Lynn Farina and Scott Johnson has been announced but no definite wedding plans are being made. The young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Johnson of San Anselmo is leaving on July 29 for two years' service in the Navy. After that he intends to attend college.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Farina of Sleepy Hollow, was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School in June. The engagement was first announced at a dinner party at Bimbo's in San Francisco preceding Drake's senior Ball at the Corinthian Club. Pictures of the young couple were on the lid of a candy box which was passed to the guests.

Cheryl has a sister, Penny Farina, a junior at Drake, and a brother, Edward (Skip) Farina, who attends the Hidden Valley School. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. J. W. Morrison of Oakland and E. S. Farina of Hollywood.

Scott, also a graduate of Drake, has a brother Walter L. Johnson, southern Division office manager of the American Co. who, with his wife and two small sons, lives in La Habra. His sister, Mrs. Hugh Kyle (Jacquelynn Ruth Johnson) resides in Spokane, Wash.

Beauty Tips from ME to YOU
by Miss Opal of Walter's

No woman should ever settle for less than a graceful, poised carriage to be truly attractive . . . How well you stand affects how well you walk. Many figure flaws come from posture flaws . . . Even though your proportions may be satisfactory poor posture may ruin the overall effect. . .

More on posture . . . Test your alignment, now . . . weight one end of a tape measure with a large spool of thread—stand before a long mirror so that you can see the profile of your right side—hold the unweighted end of the tape in your left hand to the tip of your ear—arrange the tape to rest lightly on your shoulder and let rest fall to the floor—relax your shoulders and stand tall—don't rearrange tape but check these points. Tape should rest on these spots middle of shoulder joint—on thigh joint—back of knee and middle of foot—

Bridge Ad, Publicity Budget To Stay Same

The Golden Gate Bridge advertising and publicity committee recommended yesterday a $37,000 budget for its new fiscal year, the same as last year.

With only minor discussion, the committee approved a $25,000 expenditure for the Redwood Empire Assn., $3,500 for Californians, Inc., $1,000 for the San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau, $2,500 for advertising and direct mail and $1,000 for miscellaneous expenses.

The Marin Tourists Bureau had written the bridge board requesting a $500 appropriation, but it was not even mentioned at the meeting.

The meeting had been scheduled for 2 p.m. yesterday, but it was advanced to 11:30 a.m. Representatives of the Marin bureau who had planned to attend the afternoon meeting were not present.

General Manager James Adam said he would suggest that the tourist bureau's representatives appear before the bridge's finance committee next Monday morning.

The committee intends to take up the entire bridge budget at that time, including a proposed reduction in tolls for pickup trucks, according to William D. Hadeler, chairman.

64-Year-Old Larkspur Hotel Gets Third Story

The Blue Rock Hotel, a Larkspur landmark since 1895, is in the process of acquiring a new third story.

The venerable structure, which dates back to the days when Larkspur was a gay summer resort town, has undergone one previous face-lifting. That was in 1910 when blue basalt rock from a Larkspur quarry was added to its facade and the hotel's name was changed from Larkspur Hotel to Blue Rock Hotel.

Owner Hugh C. Wood has removed the hotel's roof and is building a third story of four small apartments and three hotel rooms with baths. Wood expects the $15,000 addition will be completed within 30 days.

Removing the old roof uncovered several interesting items, including a sealed bottle of beer enclosed between rafters. The beer had been advertised at the 1915 world fair in San Francisco, Wood said.

Another relic which Wood came across was a hypodermic needle. He had no idea how it got into the hotel attic.

The unfinished redwood timber which was uncovered was in "perfect condition," Wood said. The 2¼ by 4¼ timbers were used just as they were milled.

Hosts Are Absent As County Help Holds Meeting

The hosts failed to show up at Thursday night's meeting of the Marin County Employees Assn. But it could not be helped.

County Fire Chief Charles Reilley and his men were scheduled to be hosts at the Woodacre firehouse. Plans were changed because county firemen still were patrolling the Frank's Valley area swept by a forest and brush fire Wednesday.

The meeting place was shifted to the County Health Department. Not a single fireman showed up. They had their hands full containing the fire and mopping up.

The United States makes a $100,000 bill, but it is only by the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury.

Former Mill Valley

Maj. Henry A. Fillmer, formerly of 10 Dorest lane, Mill Valley, has been awarded the first Oak Leaf Cluster to his Commendation Ribbon with Metal Pendant at Ft. Baker. The award was for meritorious service from Feb. 16, 1957, to June 30, 1959.

He is en route to duty at Ft. Meade, Md. He formerly was an engineering staff officer with the 6th Region Army Air Defense Command at Ft. Baker.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

This Year Could Be Year Of Fire Disaster Unless . . .

Fire rages through the redwoods on the slopes of Mt. Tamalpais . . .

Flames race across 200 acres of the hills of Tiburon . . .

A $50,000 home is destroyed and two others damaged in Greenwood Beach. . .

A blaze blackens the hillside of Sun Valley in San Rafael . . .

In Novato and West Marin, in the Ross Valley and around Sausalito the situation is the same. A mild winter, early warm weather and dry grass and shrubs, combine with stronger than usual winds to result in the most dangerous fire conditions in many, many years.

Thus far we've been comparatively lucky. But it's only a matter of time 'til we won't be so lucky unless . . .

The fire on Mt. Tamalpais Wednesday brought the problem closer to many people than most grass and forest fires. Marin residents love the redwoods. The Tamalpais fire became more personal to them for they could imagine the destruction of the beautiful big trees.

It was doubly so because early reports told of a threat to the internationally known Muir Woods National Monument, one of the county's greatest tourist attractions. The possibility that some day flames might actually invade the serene grandeur of the Woods fills us with dismay. But they might, unless . . .

That "unless" is the key to this grave danger:

Unless we are careful with matches and cigarette butts.

Unless we put out our camp fires.

Unless we are alert for fire hazards such as debris burning, industrial activities, children and incendiarists.

Last year in the Redwood Region there was a decrease of 48 per cent in the amount of area burned over. But this was mainly due to effective fire control work. There was actually an increase of 41 per cent in the total of man-made fires in the area during the year.

This year, with fire conditions so critical, control will be much more difficult. If we have a similar increase in number of fires, this year could be a year of fire disaster.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

SWEDISH STUDENTS VOTE SIX-DAY WEEK

Boys and girls in Sweden stunned educators and everyone else recently by voting against Saturdays off.

In a nationwide pool of high school and upper grade students, nearly three-quarters of the young people cast ballots in favor of continuing the present six-day school week.

More young people than most realize, are seriously interested in their future. Even those with a "don't care" attitude usually respond to the challenge to take responsibility when they can do it on their own instead of being forcibly driven.

Within the framework of both divine and human principles, there is wide latitude for the development of the imagination, enterprise and resourcefulness in youth.

God has given each and every one of them a distinct personality and individuality.

Cultivate rather than smother the spontaneity and enthusiasm of young people and the whole world will gain.

"A wise heart shall acquire knowledge: and the ear of the wise seeketh instruction." (Proverbs 18:15)

Thanks, O Father, for the privilege of fostering in youth the power You have entrusted to them.

Congressman Claims Spelling Bee Victory But Girls Were Robbed

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Three congressmen met three school girls in a spelling match and modestly admitted afterwards that the school girls had lost.

This is to file a minority report. The girls were robbed.

The eighth-graders flew in from California to take on the lawmakers after clobbering directors of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce. The directors reportedly had made the mistake of complaining that kids these days aren't learning to spell like they used to.

This proved to be true, and thank goodness for that. Those businessmen apparently could not spell fire sale.

TO EASE THEIR embarrassment, they sic'ed their victors on Congress. They figured no doubt that with the kind of gobbledygook they talk around here the lawmakers had forgotten all they ever knew about English.

Rep. Clement Miller of Corte Madera was their first choice of a legislative sacrifice to the girl spelling champs. The girls got their start by winning a three-county bee conducted by the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat. Miller couldn't very well say no. Anyway, yes is one word every congressman learns to spell right away.

Miller looked around for support and came up with a couple of obvious experts, Reps. Jeffery Cohelan (D-Calif.), a former Fulbright scholar at Oxford, and Ken Hechler (D-W.Va.), a Ph.D., and former college professor who helped write speeches for Adlai E. Stevenson.

THE GIRLS ARRIVED for the contest unshaken and early. Miller was there, too, but his two experts were nowhere to be seen. They hurried in minutes late, and the word was they had been studying.

From the outcome, it would be hard to say what.

The photographers got things moving by asking the girls where they were from, and to spell it.

Mary McFarling, 14, said her home is Ukiah. Carolyn Storts, 14, said she comes from Gualala. Valerie Turner, 13, gave her town as Petaluma.

The congressmen saw right then, I guess, that these girls would be hard to beat.

The rules were read, and the trouble began.

Cohelan said on the panel shows he watches the contestants get time to confer. Anyway, he said all decisions would be by majority vote.

THEN THEY GOT down to the contest.

Mary handled slavery, bachelor, grotesque and chandelier without even trying. Valerie ran through scarce, committee, involuntary, and embroidery, with no more than a sigh.

Carolyn got breakfast, discrepancy, genesis, and laboratory, with no more than a sigh.

Miller got safely through romance. He staggered on aggravate; but got it right on the second try, in clear violation of Rule 5, which said once is enough. He managed gullible and moccasin.

Cohelan handled bicycle and crescent, but was licked on mayonnaise. He tried that one twice without getting close.

Hechler eased through available, geranium, abdomen and fallacious.

On seismograph Carolyn rolled her eyes to the sky, tried c for a starter, and ruled out under Rule 5.

Miller collapsed under tonsillectomy. Valerie went down under tercentenary. Mary drew fictitious, which she spelled like that.

She was the only one in the room who seemed shocked when the judges said she was wrong. The official list, it was noted, spelled it ficticious.

SO HECHLER was proclaimed winner. The girls left mildly crestfallen. And George Coffey, the UPI West Coast reporter, raced off to file the results to Ukiah, Gualala, and Petaluma. When George was half-way through writing his copy, Richard Hallett, the UPI teletype operator, got the part about Mary losing out on fictitious.

"She spelled it right," Hallett opined.

I called the Library of Congress for a ruling. The experts there consulted their dictionaries, then wisely declined to arbitrate a contest between school girls and congressmen.

What they did say though was that Hallett was clearly the winner.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

All too often the good words go unspoken for our teenagers, so here is one from the Greenwood Beach Property Owners of the immediate fire area of June 30.

I am especially grateful to your news carrier Steven Stocker in his alertness of putting out my burning fence which is not at all visible from the highway and which also has our winter wood supply stacked against it. If it had not been for him, I might well have been one of the unlucky ones who lost so much. We have never seen so many teenagers work so hard of their own free will. Even staying on after the firemen left so as to help clear some of the mess away or to get dinner for those who were partially burned out.

So again may I say at this time "THANKS" to our teenagers and especially to my news carrier for the good work, you were all wonderful.

May I also take this opportunity to thank our Tiburon Fire Dept. and all those who helped. To think they saved the houses on each side of the one that burned is more than we had ever thought possible, even with the winds against us. Our only regret is that it was not noticed earlier.

New Airport Needs Supporters

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Last month, Clyde Barnett, chief of the California Aeronautics Commission, spoke before a joint meeting of various civic organizations at a luncheon in San Rafael. Mr. Barnett warned that, through its neglect to develop a municipal airport, Marin was overlooking a real opportunity to broaden its tax-base and to provide itself with the advantages of air transportation.

He noted that we are rapidly developing our useable land and have very few satisfactory sites remaining which would handle an accredited airport.

Last week, President Eisenhower signed a two-year extension of the Federal Airport Aid Bill. This bill provides that the federal government will contribute 50 per cent of funds needed for airport projects with the local communities supplying the remainder.

Our neighbors, such as Hayward, Livermore, Palo Alto and Oakland are taking advantage of this opportunity and will receive aid to develop and expand airport facilities; and every Marin County resident who pays federal income taxes will contribute to these airports. The only way they will get benefit from these contributions, however, is to develop their own air facility.

Mr. Barnett's comments elicited from newspaper an excellent editorial suggesting that another drive should be made to secure an airport. Having participated in the airport bond campaign last fall, I was very pleased to see this forthright expression of the needs for an air terminal.

Valuable lessons which were learned from the airport bond failure must be kept in mind, however, when new plans are formulated. In the 1958 bond campaign very few people other than small plane owners offered anything more than passive encouragement to the proponents of the drive. Contributions to finance voter-information literature were negligible, particularly from those businesses which would benefit directly from an airport. (A local oil representative vetoed a contribution offered by his company because of a threat from an air-strip operator who uses that kind of gasoline and doesn't want competition.)

Most civic organizations did nothing more than consent to be addressed by a member of the bond issues' speakers bureau. Political groups "did not want to become involved in non-political issues." These were some of the problems experienced last fall.

In my opinion, if every business and civic organization would enthusiastically support an airport development program by spending time and money to inform voters of the necessity of an airport and the advantages to be gained from one, we would have an air terminal which would be the envy of every neighboring community. Surveys have indicated that an airport located at San Quentin Point would attract an enormous amount of transient aircraft and, consequently, be self-supporting in a very short time.

It will also be necessary for the Board of Supervisors to give the project more than implied approval. Many voters voice the opinion that they vote against projects which they want (roads, schools, airports, etc.) because they know that the taxes will be increased enough by projects on which they are not given an opportunity to vote. The supervisors can correct this by budgeting money only for real necessities and concentrate their efforts and support on the basic problems of transportation and education.

There is still time to build an airport at San Quentin Point, a location that would enable planes to fly over water rather than residential areas. If we are to give ourselves access to air transportation, though, civic leaders and public officials must take the lead. We learned last fall that amateurs can't do the job.

An experienced motorist named Harold Coffin gives his own interpretation of highway phenomena:

1. Lots of trucks parked at a drive-in restaurant: The food is terrible, the coffee worse, but there's a beautiful waitress.

2. Car off the road with two punctured tires: the driver cancelled his auto club membership yesterday.

3. Car persistently straddling two lanes on a crowded thruway: the driver's wife can't make up her mind.

4. Beautiful scenery unmarred by billboards: you are on the wrong road!

WIFE: That's your affair. I didn't marry you to give you financial advice!

Bomb Shelter May Be Designed For Safety, But As Is, It's A Hazard

Somebody is getting the jump on the rest of us in making sure he's going to survive an atomic war.

On Circle road in Los Ranchitos, there's a deep bomb shelter, which neighbors say was started about seven years ago. It hasn't been finished yet, and sheriff's deputies say somebody might fall in and get hurt.

REMEMBER THAT OLD case of an Alto school teacher suing the superintendent for slander back in 1956 because the supertendent was quoted as saying the teacher hit a pupil and knocked him down? Well, you can forget it now, because the case has been quietly dropped.

William Kahn, the teacher, had sued Supt. E. J. Lindstrom for $50,000 in a slander suit. Both parties have since moved from Marin. Three years after it was filed, the suit was dismissed by mutual understanding. Kahn has agreed never to bring up the case again.

SAN RAFAEL has agreed to close High street and has been mulling the closing of Watt avenue for months. This week, the list of proposed street projects came up for approval at the council budget hearing. Among the projects proposed for the coming year: Overlay of Watt avenue and High street.

IF YOU BUMP into Ruth Roman in Belvedere this summer, it's the actress all right. She's staying on Cove road during the run of the play, "Two for the See-Saw" in San Francisco.

ASSUME YOU'RE the one who broke windows and chandeliers at the old Freitas Home south of Terra Linda, and you want to turn yourself in to authorities. You've got a problem. First, you've got to remember whether you committed the crime before June 18 or after June 18. If it's before June 18, you go see the sheriff. If it's after that date, you surrender to San Rafael police.

The Freitas Ranch became a part of San Rafael on that date, as you know. It would be too bad if your crime spree lasted from before midnight on June 17 into the next morning. Then both departments would be after you.

THE CLERK in Judge Thomas F. Keating's court opens the first session each day by announcing, "Please rise!" as the judge walks in. But for the rest of the day, don't be surprised if the clerk walks in with the judge and booms: "Please remain seated!" The judge's policy seems to be: Standing up once in the morning for formal opening is sufficient. For the rest of the day, you can sit at ease.

Supreme Court Judges Can't Be Labeled On Individual Rights Stands

At times they split, at times they voted solidly. In two of the major contempt cases the justices split 5-4, in three others the vote was 9-0. In still another it was 4-4, with one justice not voting.

The major cases involved Willard Uphaus and Lloyd Baren-blatt. To understand what happened in both, two previous cases must be considered.

IN 1956 THE COURT threw out the conviction of Steve Nelson, an admitted Communist, who was found guilty in a Pennsylvania state court of violating the state's sedition law.

The court said that, since sedition against the United States is a national problem, federal sedition laws supersede state sedition laws.

But the court said a state could prosecute for sedition against the state.

This year the court tackled the case of Uphaus, director of the New Hampshire World Fellowship Center which described itself as a pacifist organization.

He refused to answer certain questions of the New Hampshire attorney general who, under authority of his Legislature, was investigating communism.

JUSTICE CLARK, one of those voting for Nelson in 1956, this year wrote the opinion turning down the appeal of Uphaus. He cited the Nelson decision as not forbidding a state to prosecute for sedition against itself.

So, he reasoned, since a state can prosecute for sedition, it has the right to investigate sedition.

In 1957 the court upheld John T. Watkins, convicted of contempt for refusing to answer certain questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which was investigating communism in labor.

He raised the objection of pertinency, asking how the questions asked him had anything to do with the subject of the investigation. The court backed him, saying he never got a clear answer and the questions were not pertinent.

Then this year the court ruled against Barenblatt, a college teacher convicted of contempt for refusing to answer some questions of the same committee.

BUT THE COURT said whereas Watkins directly raised the question of pertinency in his case, Barenblatt didn't and, if he wanted to use nonpertinency as his excuse for not answering, he should have done so directly.

The court went further, saying the committee investigation was legitimate, and its purposes were well understood. It added that in this case the interests of the country were involved and thus subordinated an individual's interest.

Justice Harlan, who had voted for Watkins but against Barenblatt, wrote the majority opinion. It left open many questions of interpretation. No doubt the court will be confronted with similar cases, looking for loopholes and clarifications.

In the Nelson case the vote was 6-3 for him; it was 6-1 for Watkins. In the Uphaus case the vote was 5-4 against, and 5-4 against Barenblatt.

IN THREE OTHER contempt conviction cases the nine justices stood solidly together, 9-0, for the defendants.

One involved a labor leader who refused to give a Senate committee investigating communism a list of union members. This decision had no special meaning. The court ruled in his favor on a technicality.

Another was the case of a Virginia Quaker who would not answer a state legislative committee's questions about his connection with interracial groups. The court upheld him on the ground the purpose of the committee's investigation was not clear. This was an echo of the Watkins case.

In the third, the court freed three Ohioans who, the justices said, had been misled—into refusing to answer — by a state committee which was investigating communism and asking the questions.

On a technicality the court split 4-4 in upholding the conviction of a fourth Ohioan — sentenced for refusing to answer questions from the same Ohio committee.

And finally, the court split 5-4 in turning down the appeal of a New York garment maker who refused to answer although promised immunity, the questions of a grand jury investigating racketeering.

CHURCH SURVEY

Housing Integration Opinions Divided

More persons would not welcome Negroes in their neighborhood than would welcome them, according to the results of a Novato Presbyterian Church questionnaire on racial equality. The majority would not take action, however, if a Negro family did move into the neighborhood.

The results, announced today by Dr. Edward L. Kessel, chairman of the church's committee on social education and action, include answers to 10 questions which were distributed recently by the church.

Here is a breakdown of the questions and answers, with the "yes" answers first, the "no" answers second, and the "no-answer" answers third:

Would you welcome Negroes moving into your neighborhood? 83, 104, 14. Would you actively oppose Negroes moving into your neighborhood? 43, 147, 11. Would you welcome Negroes moving next door to you? 77, 109, 15.

Would you actively oppose Negroes moving next door to you? 51, 135, 15. Do you believe that your property would depreciate in value if a Negro family moved into your neighborhood? 112, 67, 22. If you wished to sell your house, would you have objections to selling it to a Negro? 93, 95, 13. If you wished to sell your house, would you be willing to sell it to a Negro without consulting the neighbors? 55, 130, 16.

If you wished to sell your house, would you be willing to sell it to a Negro if you knew the neighbors objected? 49, 131, 21.

If you wished to sell your house, would you list it with a real estate agent who refused to give Negroes an equal chance to buy it? 89, 85, 27. If you wished to rent your home while you were on a trip, would you be willing to rent it to Negroes? 58, 124, 19.

"I am pleased with the general results of the questionnaire," said Rev. Howard B. Swartz, pastor of the church. "The section on housing points up the fact that here a good deal of education is needed within the Christian community, although it is gratifying to know that the great majority of the community would not actively oppose integration."

Still due are the results from a questionnaire dealing with education. A tabulation of this section is expected to be completed soon.

Reception Held For New Pastor

Members and friends of the San Rafael Methodist Church honored their new pastor, Rev. Donald H. Baldwin, and Mrs. Baldwin at a recent reception in Turley Hall.

Rev. Baldwin was appointed to the San Rafael church by Bishop Donald H. Tippett at a recent conference in Stockton. He succeeds Rev. Charles Anderson, who was transferred to Ceres Methodist Church in Stanislaus County.

Rev. Baldwin spoke briefly about his recent trip around the world. He has received many requests from other churches to speak on his impressions of the work being done in foreign mission fields, and conditions in various countries visited. The official board of the local church has granted Rev. Baldwin permission to accept these invitations.

The Baldwins are now in residence at 2163 Fifth avenue, San Rafael.

Dr. Ballard To Speak At Redwoods Church

Dr. J. Hudson Ballard will be guest preacher at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church, Larkspur, tomorrow. His sermon theme will be "God Curing Discouragement."

Dr. Ballard is emeritus professor of pastoral psychology at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Yogi To Speak

Maharish Mahesh Yogi of the International Meditation Center in San Francisco will speak at the San Francisco First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary streets, at 7:30 p.m. next Monday through Thursday.

Seminarian Ordained, Named Vicar

Llewellyn A. White, who has been seminarian-in-charge of the Episcopal Church of the Nativity, Marinwood for two years, has been ordained to the Order of Deacons in the Episcopal Church by Rt. Rev. James A. Pike at Grace Cathedral.

Rev. White received the degree of bachelor of divinity in June from the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, and has assumed the position of vicar of the Church of the Nativity and part-time assistant at St. Paul's Church, San Rafael.

Rev. White is 32 years old, married, and has three children. He served in the Marine Corps during World War II, graduated from Williams College in 1950 and spent six years in the insurance business in Hartford, Boston and San Francisco before entering the ministry.

He and his family recently moved to the vicarage at 230 Emerystone terrace, Marinwood.

Local Witnesses Hit Argentine Denial Of Rights

The San Rafael congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses has protested the denial of the rights of free assembly and worship by the Argentine government to members of their sect.

Plans are being made for a petition to the Republic of Argentina asking that the denial of constitutional rights be corrected.

D. E. Hull, presiding minister of the San Rafael congregation, said his group has been notified that despite a number of social and religious advances which have been made by the present Argentine government, a few religious groups declared illegal by the Peron regime have still not been recognized by the new president, Arturo Frondizi, and his administration.

Hull said that more than 6,000 Jehovah's Witnesses in Argentina have petitioned their government for recognition.

Baha'i Open House

Baha'is of San Rafael plan to attend an open house tea at the Baha'i Geyserville Summer School tomorrow from 1 to 5 p.m. A tour of the school grounds and buildings will be conducted.

Layman's Role In Church Raises Query

Institutional Jobs May Obscure More Important Ministry

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

What is the layman's job in the church?

Recent years have brought sweeping changes in American views on this subject. And there are signs that further revolution is brewing.

Before World War II, the average layman felt that he was doing about all that could be expected of him if he attended worship services and contributed financial support.

Virtually all of the work of the church — from evangelism to business management —was left in the hands of the ordained clergy.

LACK MANPOWER

The vast expansion of church membership after the war made this arrangement untenable. Churches learned that even when they overworked their ministers, they simply didn't have enough professional workers to cope with their growing task.

So the layman was put to work. Gradually he took on many of the administrative responsibilities previously borne by the clergy.

Today there are million of laymen, in every denomination, who are serving their churches on a part-time volunteer basis. They are planning budgets, conducting fund drives, supervising building and maintenance programs, leading youth organizations, editing church publications.

For the most party, they are doing an excellent job. So good, in fact, that some thoughtful religious leaders are beginning to wonder whether churches may not be "using" laymen a little too freely for purely institutional chores, and thereby obscuring the more fundamental ministry to which laymen are called.

PRIME CONCEPT

That ministry has been defined in many ways. Perhaps the most meaningful concept to modern minds is that each layman should serve as a point of contact between the church and the world.

Through his daily work, be he ditchdigger or diplomat, he should do whatever he can to serve humanity in the spirit of Christ. And in his everyday associations with friends, fellow workers, neighbors and casual acquaintances, he should be a "witness" — that is, give testimony — for Christ, both by his deeds and on suitable occasions by words.

There have always been laymen who understood this ministry and sought to perform it. The new development is a growing recognition by church leaders that "involving" laymen in a frantic round of institutional activity is not necessarily the best way to prepare them for their most important task.

Male Members Of This Church Can Keep Cool

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The men of Christ Episcopal Church have been invited to keep cool.

Rev. Gordon S. Price says they can disregard tradition and wear anything they want, including loud sports shirts.

"The heat at church has been sweltering," the minister said in asking male members to take off their coats and ties.

"We men are such creatures of habit. The coat and tie are examples of it.

"After all, God doesn't care what we have on at church."

Walther League Plans Barbecue

The Walther League, youth group of Grace Lutheran Church, Novato, will combine business with pleasure at a barbecue luncheon at Dillon's Beach tomorrow.

In charge of plans are Dave Kaehler, Roger Kaehler and Bob Lantz. They request Walther Leaguers to meet at the church at 1 p.m. after morning worship service. The group will discuss plans for the coming visit of the Youth Caravan Team, made up of three teenagers, who, among 17 similar teams, have been chosen from Leaguers of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, to work with the church's youth. They will be guests of Grace Lutheran from Aug. 1-4.

Jones Gives Giants Vital Relief Help

CINCINNATI, (UPI) — Manager Bill Rigney may have solved the one big problem that has made many experts count the San Francisco Giants out as the National League flag choice.

The experts say you have to have top flight relief pitching, which they claim the first place Giants don't have.

But Sad Sam Jones, who has been superb since that much publicized one-hitter in Los Angeles, may be just what the sages say is essential.

He came on in relief last night in the eighth inning and chucked three scoreless frames while getting credit for San Francisco's 8-6 win over Cincinnati in 11 innings.

It was the second night in a row Jones has come in to grab the win and last night's victory nudged his season record to 12-8.

Rigney claims he only uses Jones in relief when he absolutely has to and that he intends to keep the toothpick-chewing righthander mainly for starting roles. But those critical relief situations are coming up more and more. It may come to pass that Jones will become as familiar as Pittsburgh's Elroy Face in the crucial late frames.

WINNING RALLY

In last night's contest, it was Willie Mays who put the Giants over the top with his 15th homer after Felipe Alou scored the tie-breaker on Willie Kirkland's sacrifice fly.

Eddie Fisher blanked the Reds in the bottom of the 11th to put an end to the affair that the Giants once led 4-0.

Orlando Cepeda crashed a three-run homer, his 18th, to get the Giants off quickly. But Cincinnati pecked steadily at Giant Hurler Stu Miller and they had four runs off Miller before the fifth was over and Al Worthington came in for Stu. Ed Bailey did the most damage to Miller with a pair of homers.

ROBINSON HOMERS

Frank Robinson belted a two-run homer for the Reds in the eighth to tie the game at 6-6. Sam Jones then came in to replace Gordon Jones, the third Giant pitcher.

Jackie Brandt, who hit his seventh homer earlier, saved Sam Jones with a great leaping catch of a drive off the bat of Vada Pinson that prevented the winning run from crossing the plate in the eighth.

Sam Jones held the Reds in check until taken out for pinch-hitter Alou. After Alou doubled, Jim Davenport sacrificed him to third. Then Kirkland hit his sacrifice fly and Mays homered.

BRESSOUD HITS

A bright spot in the Giants' win was the three hits off the bat of shortstop Eddie Bressoud, who raised his average to .230.

Johnny Antonelli, 12-4, took the mount against Cincinnati's Jim Brosnan (3-4) ,this afternoon. It was the sixth time this season the Giants were attempting to win four straight. The five previous attempts failed.

BOWLING

Wives League Increases In Second Week

The second week of the Wednesday Morning Home Managers League at Greenbrae Lanes featured several high-scoring games for beginner bowlers this week.

Betty Wensloff, 6 Mojave court, Corte Madera, who has been bowling only four months, rolled a 185 for one game.

Yolanda Gurries bowled 136, 93 and 94 for three games and these were only the third, fourth and fifth games Mrs. Gurries has ever bowled.

The league that is made up of Marin housewives started last week with six teams and this week increased to 10 teams —which will be the limit for the league.

Tom Coates, Greenbrae Lanes manager, announced the formation of a Tuesday morning women's league to take care of the current demand. Dempy Mooromsky of Corte Madera believes that the care of the tots by the Greenbrae Nursery while their mothers are bowling is a reason for the popularity of the morning league.

High scores in Greenbrae Leagues:

Stuart HR Gives Bucs Fifth Straight Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL)

They told talkative Dick Stuart to put his muscles where his mouth was—and by George if he ain't—to the great delight of Pittsburgh's suddenly-awakened Pirates.

Stuart talked a blue streak when he first came up with the Pirates two years ago. He talked about the 66 homers he hit at Lincoln, Neb., about how maybe Babe Ruth's record was in jeopardy and about the possibility of his earning more than $100,000 in a single season.

And now big Stu is starting to show 'em. He smacked his 17th homer with two on in the 11th inning last night to climax a four-run rally that gave the Pirates a 7-6 triumph over the Cubs and their fifth straight victory.

San Francisco increased its National League lead to a full game with an 8-6 win over Cincinnati in 11 innings, St. Louis moved into a fifth-place tie by beating Philadelphia, 9-7, and rain washed out the Los Angeles-Milwaukee game with the Dodgers ahead, 1-0, in the third inning.

Cleveland stretched its lead in the American League to two games by defeating Chicago, 8-4, Washington edged Baltimore, 7-6, Boston toppled New York, 8-5, and Detroit snapped a six-game losing streak with a 5-2 decision over Kansas City.

FRANCONA STARS

Tito Francona and Rocky Colavito each drove in three runs in Cleveland's victory over Chicago. Francona had four hits to pace a 17-hit attack that enabled the Indians to beat Early Wynn for the first time since dealing him to the White Sox in December, 1957.

Washington's slugging Senators hit four homers, but lefthander Chuck Stobbs still had to be called in from the bullpen to put down a four-run eighth-inning rally before Baltimore was beaten.

A collapse by the Yankee defense in the fourth inning helped the Red Sox score five runs in their victory over Whitey Ford.

Jim Bunning of the Tigers struck out eight men and gave up seven hits in beating the Athletics for his eighth victory of the season.

Jordan May Meet Ray Robinson Next

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Tough Don Jordan of Los Angeles defended his welterweight championship convincingly last night. He now looks toward middleweight Ray Robinson for his next bout.

Jordan, a punishing body puncher, rammed solid hooks into the ribs of 19-year-old Denny Moyer, and uppercuts to the face as he scored a unanimous 15-round decision over the young Portlander in a nationally televised bout.

There were no knockdowns.

Several times Moyer appeared about to go down, but each time called on some hidden resources to stay upright. He still was dancing gamely about at the end, flicking left jabs at Jordan.

The jab was his main weapon against the aggressive Jordan. It became apparent early that his right caused Jordan no fear. It was like a destroyer against a cruiser. Moyer was willing, but lacked the guns.

For Jordan it was his 11th straight victory, his third since winning the title. It makes his record now 46-11.

FIRST DEFEAT

Moyer, who had hoped to become the youngest champion on record in the welterweight division, suffered his first loss in 21 bouts.

Of the possible fight with Robinson, Jordan's co-manager, Don Nesseth, said, "We have been offered a lot of money to fight Robinson."

He said the offer came from an Eastern promoter, but disclosed no other details. Robinson recently was stripped of his middleweight title by the National Boxing Assn., but is recognized as champion in New York.

Two pre-fight incidents stirred interest in the bout.

One was Jordan's failure to make the 147-pound weight at his first weigh-in. He was 1½ pounds over the limit, and had to sweat it off by exercising. Ninety minutes later he qualified at an even 147, but there was speculation the process might have weakened him.

If he was weak, Moyer would hate to face him strong.

COHEN A VISITOR

The other was discovery that Mickey Cohen was in town, and had paid a 1 a.m. visit yesterday to Jordan. This brought police into sudden activity, for earlier Nesseth has said the underworld was trying to get control of Jordan—and the police suspect Cohen of having underworld connections.

Nesseth is scheduled to testify before a federal grand jury in Los Angeles July 14 on the reported attempts to take Jordan away from him and his partner, Jack McCoy.

Nesseth was noncommital about Cohen's visit, but told Police Chief William Hilbruner he was satisfied no threats had been made to Jordan.

Ben Harris, Portland Boxing Commission chairman, said he saw nothing wrong with the bout, and said purses would not be held back.

Promoter Tommy Moyer, Denny's uncle, reported the gate was $44,390 and attendance 4,813. Moyer earlier said he had expected a crowd of 10,000 and a gate of $100,000.

This fell short of the $70,000 that Nesseth said had been guaranteed to Jordan, but there still was to come the money from the television.

Doc's Mail: 'Religious Fanatic' And Mother Who Balks At Job

Mrs. L.D. "Am I a religious fanatic? My husband says so. He wants to raise our children as nonbelievers. I try to have prayers before meals, and at bedtime. My husband objects. I took the children to a church school on Sundays. He made me stop. Do such things mean I'm a fanatic? Shouldn't children have religious instruction?"

Reply. I believe your husband is wrong. I've found that children, as well as adults, need the emotional strength which comes with faith. They need the release and inspiration which comes from prayer. They need ways to find forgiveness for their mistakes. The right sort of religious instruction can bring these things to children. I believe parents should raise their children in a church with an active young people's program. Millions of religious families have prayers before meals, and at bedtime. They send their children to church schools on Sundays. You are not a religious fanatic. Perhaps your husband is fanatical in the opposite way.

Mrs. T.T. "We have been married three years. The first two years my wife taught school. Then she had a baby. Now she is very inconsiderate. We planned for her to return to teaching as soon as possible after the baby was born. But she refuses. She tells me she is going to stay home with our baby for several years. This means we will have only my salary. We will have to cut our expenses drastically. Will you tell her she is wrong?"

Reply. I'm afraid I can't. Your baby is your first responsibility. Babies need their mothers' constant care and companionship . Try to realize your wife is not being inconsiderate. She is only being a good mother. I suggest you spend some evenings together going over your budget. Make the necessary readjustments. Look on the cutbacks as an investment in your baby's future. Do you spend time each day with your baby? Get well acquainted with him. Watch him grow and develop. Play with him. He needs your love too.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, July 11, the 192nd day of the year, with 173 more days to follow in 1959.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this date in history:

In 1804, Alexander Hamilton was fatally wounded in a duel with Aaron Burr.

In 1838, merchant John Wanamaker was born.

In 1864, economists said inflation was so serious that a dollar was worth only 39 cents.

In 1880, Jeanette Rankin, later the first woman elected to Congress, was born near Missoula, Mont.

In 1933, all school teachers in Germany were ordered to read "Mein Kampf" and make themselves familiar with Nazi theory.

In 1952, the Republican convention nominated General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower for the presidency.

In 1955, the United States Air Force Academy was dedicated at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

Thought for today: The American journalist Don Marquis said, "There is always a comforting thought in time of trouble when it is not our trouble."

Bridges' Aide Balks At Probe Questions

Louis Goldblatt of 432 Lovell avenue, Mill Valley, a top lieutenant of Harry Bridges, longshore union leader, yesterday balked as he was called on for testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee.

He "took the Fifth Amendment" rather than tell whether he had tried to bring about the resignation of a Teamsters Union monitor.

Goldblatt refused to answer a question on whether he had tried to bring about the resignation of Godfrey P. Schmidt, a New York attorney, who had been appointed by a court to monitor the Teamsters Union.

Goldblatt, secretary-treasurer of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, talked of "informal understandings for cooperation" between the two unions, and said an agreement had been reached on union organization in Hawaii.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, asked Goldblatt if "on behalf of Mr. (James R.) Hoffa (head of the Teamsters) did you try to have Godfrey Schmidt resign as a Teamsters Union monitor?"

Goldblatt's counsel objected, but was overruled.

Then Kennedy asked, "On behalf of Mr. Hoffa?"

"No," Goldblatt said.

The question about Schmidt was asked again, and Goldblatt refused to answer.

HOSPITAL RECEIVES GIFT RESPIRATOR

A Bird respirator, described by hospital officials as a "near perfect" machine for aiding persons with respiratory difficulties, has been donated to Marin General Hospital by Mr. and Mrs. S. Grant Lippitt Jr. of Mill Valley. Shown receiving the gift from the Lippitts is Miss Vittorina Lombardi, supervising nurse in the hospital's surgery department, who has been on Marin General's staff since the institution opened.

Ehlen Fires Blast At Ark Dwellers

Four ark dwellers on underwater Mono street in Sausalito, originally ordered to make satisfactory sewer connections or move out of their dwellings today, have won a delay.

But their action has been called a "sham and a stall" by Sausalito City Atty. John B. Ehlen. He said they are "trying to thwart the policy of the state to prevent pollution of waters."

JUDGE'S RULING

The four residents, affected by a ruling handed down by Marin Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating in May, are Philip Savage, Alex Georgiadis, Robert G. Barteau and H. Norman Braune.

Ehlen said that subsequent to the ruling in May, the four applied for and received an extension of the deadline to July 18, on the basis that they had applied to the Sausalito City Council for permission to connect sewerage lines with a public sewer line—that of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District.

HEARING SLATED

A hearing was to have been held on this application last Tuesday, but the council did not meet. The application now will be considered next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Ehlen said, the four have made application for a further extension of the court-ordered deadline, and that will come before Judge Keating on Monday.

Ehlen said that in his opinion the council cannot legally grant the sewer hookup because that would be sanctioning a public nuisance, namely that of obstructing a street.

Demands have been made on the council to have the ark structures removed because they are clogging up a city street, Ehlen said.

"I'm sure their request will be denied," he said. "I believe the application has been made in bad taste because the owners have been informed by me repeatedly that they have no right to grant an application that would mean obstruction of a public street."

Pessimistic Herter Off For Big Four Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter took off today for the Big Four talks at Geneva with a pledge to strive for "a reasonable agreement with the Soviet Union on the problems of Germany and Berlin."

But, Herter said, he has "no great expectations for success" and that bargaining with the Russians requires "infinite patience and long labor."

Herter spoke at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington, just before soaring away in a brand new jet plane, a giant military version of the Boeing 707 airliner.

Aides said the U.S. foreign affairs chief is not ruling out the possibility of at least a temporary agreement on the cold war crisis issue at the second round of the foreign ministers' conference. Such an agreement could pave the way for a summit meeting later in the year.

"My colleagues of France and the United Kingdom and I will strive, as we did before, to reach a reasonable agreement with the Soviet Union on the problems of Germany and Berlin," Herter said in his airport statement.

"We go to Geneva resolved, as before, to negotiate in good faith, and equally determined to maintain our obligations to the more than two million free people of West Berlin."

MYSTERY LIGHTS SEEN BY 5 AIRLINE PILOTS OVER PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Pan American Airways pilot reported that a group of extremely bright lights approached his airliner at high speed over the Pacific early today.

Four other trans-Pacific airliner pilots also reported sighting the unidentified objects.

A Pan American spokesman here said the first report came from Capt. George Wilson, commander of a DC-7C Clipper en route from San Francisco to Honolulu, at 6:20 a.m.

"They were extremely bright lights, surrounded by small lights," Wilson said. "They approached us at approximately 21,000 feet altitude. They were closing in rapidly. The objects then headed south. After about 10 seconds all of the lights disappeared."

The Pan Am spokesman here said dispatchers here heard pilots of a Canadian Pacific Airlines airliner and a Slick Airways cargo plane also reported seeing the objects.

Rites Set For Marinite's Kin

Funeral services for James A. Smith, 71, of Oakland, grandfather of Robert L. Smith of Novato, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Smith died Thursday at Letterman Army Hospital, San Francisco. A native of Maryland, he was a retired furniture salesman. He had made his home in Oakland with his son, Army CWO Herbert A. Smith.

He also is survived by another son, W. Roderic Smith of Memphis; a sister, two brothers, a granddaughter, and two great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Mt. Tamalpais Memorial Park.

Cost Of Marin City's New Homes Outlined

John H. Tolan Jr., representing the Barrett Construction Co., builder of homes planned for the redevelopment of Marin City, told the Marin County Redevelopment Agency yesterday that the so-called "economy" two-bedroom home could probably be purchased for $77.66 per month.

Tolan made it clear this was a tentative figure, that there were still some questions to be answered, but that it was a "reasonable" figure.

He said that payment could be on the basis of a 35-year FHA loan, and after the down payment and closing costs had been paid.

He said the figure included taxes and insurance.

Tolan's presentation followed reading a telegram from redeveloper James H. Scheuer designating the Barrett firm to handle the project. It is located in Richmond and has undertaken a similar redevelopment project there.

Stressing the tentative nature of the costs, Tolan also presented three other house types with costs. He described an "equipped" two-bedroom home, a three-bedroom and a four-bedroom with monthly payments estimated at $91.88; $97.91 and $113.39 respectively.

All would include taxes and insurance and would be in effect after down payment and closing costs.

Tolan said that "buyers should buy from houses, not plans," stating his firm intended to build a model house of each type for inspection of potential purchasers. He noted also there will be some uncertainty on costs until taxes are specific, and that final design is under control of an architectural control committee. He noted, as well, that there may be some variation in land costs.

Questioned on down payments, Tolan said the "economy" house should run about $400 and that closing costs could vary from $300 to $600.

Tolan said that if present plans develop on schedule, construction on the first units should start by the spring of 1960.

Driver Jailed In Belvedere Row

Rodger S. Jones, 26, of 545 Comstock drive, Tiburon, early today was cited for running a stop sign, failure to have a driver's license in his possession and was booked at the county jail for resisting arrest, the Belvedere Police Department said.

Officer Robert W. Scheiner said Jones was stopped at 2:30 a.m. at Edgewater road and San Rafael avenue by Officer Al Mendoza.

Scheiner said he was called to the scene when Mendoza radioed that Jones was hitting him. He said Jones denied that he did not observe the stop sign, adding that when Jones became abusive he was taken to the county jail and booked. Jones was released under $500 bond.

Aboard Lexington

David J. Carbine, Navy aviation ordnanceman airman and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan A. Carbine of 605 East street, San Rafael, is serving with Detachment Lima of Carrier Airborne Early Warning Squadron 215 abroad the attack aircraft carrier, USS Lexington in the western Pacific.

New Plan To Rid Marin City Of Old Homes

Likelihood that the Marin County Housing Authority may still be able to dispose of Marin City wartime houses without resorting to court action developed at the commissioners' meeting yesterday.

A year ago, the commission contracted with Len Rogers of Texas who agreed to purchase and remove all the old houses for $303 each. He subsequently ceased removal operations, charging the authority failed to take steps to prevent vandalism.

WOULD TAKE THEM

Yesterday, commission attorney Guy A. Ciocca presented John Larson of Clear Lake Highlands, who said he would take all the structures and move them to extensive tracts he owns at Clear Lake, for use as summer homes.

Ciocca suggested the commission accept a compromise plan whereby Rogers, the original contractor, would purchase 49 now vacant damaged houses for $100 each, payable in advance, with the original price applying to the balance.

Ciocca said Rogers indicated this plan would be acceptable.

LEGAL ACTION

Previously, the authority had instructed Ciocca to take legal action against Rogers' bonding company for failure to comply, but Ciocca warned that "comments from the court" indicated further efforts to obtain damages might not be successful and would be greatly delayed by a crowded court calendar.

The commissioners authorized executive director Bert Klahn to submit the agreement to the Urban Renewal Administration for approval.

The commissioners also:

1. Heard a report from Klahn that the low rent housing project is now "off the ground" and is 90 days ahead of schedule. The first unit is slated for occupancy in March, 1960, or earlier.
2. Instructed Ciocca to proceed with an agreement deeding agreed-upon land to the Sausalito School District.
3. Agreed to meet with the Tiburon Sanitary District July 16 to discuss sewage disposal for the Hilarita project.
4. Agreed to reduce the minimum monthly rental from Brice Brothers market from $1,100 to $700.

FIRES

men rolled four trucks with 23 men to the scene. They poured nearly 6,000 gallons of water onto the flames before bringing them under control. Twenty-five acres had been blackened.

The temperature was 106 degrees at the time.

Firemen said the fire apparently started simultaneously at five different spots along the roadside.

They said that a vehicle with faulty exhaust or sparks from dragging metal might have been the cause.

County firemen remained on patrol at Brazil's ranch where a major fire earlier this week menaced the famed Muir Woods redwoods for a time. County Fire Chief Charles R. Reilley said his department had stepped up its patrols throughout the watershed area in an effort to spot small fires or fire hazards before they can result in major blazes.

All logging activity was closed down as of 10 a.m. yesterday as a precaution.

Reilley stressed that with the dry countryside and timber lands, the scorching temperatures, and the extremely low humidity (the reading at the county fire station yesterday dropped to a low of 6 per cent), "the fire danger isn't just serious, it's acute."

He urged all Marin residents to aid the fire prevention forces

Crash Hurts Fairfax Girl

A 21-year-old Fairfax girl was thrown from a speeding car in a 2:40 a.m. automobile collision today on Highway 101 north of Marinwood.

Barbara Carroll was taken by ambulance to San Rafael General Hospital where her condition was described as good. She was given emergency treatment for a severe laceration of the upper left thigh and X-rays were taken. She is a daughter of Mrs. Vincent C. Luebbers of 7 Court lane, Fairfax.

She was a passenger of John S. McKinstry, 21, of Forest Knolls, whose station wagon was southbound at high speed when it hit a west guard rail, bounced off and hit another car in the rear, flipped over and rolled about 200 feet, according to the California Highway Patrol. Miss Carroll was thrown from the spinning car.

Driver of the second southbound car was Lowell C. Smith, 33-year-old Leggett (Mendocino County) tractor operator. His wife, Lola, 31, complained of minor injury and said she would consult her own physician.

Novatan Wants His Road On Map

Paul Brindel of Maestro road in Novato is distressed at not being on the map. A private road, Maestro is a thoroughfare in fact but not on the Thomas Brothers map of the Novato area which the Novato Chamber of Commerce distributes free.

The chamber received a copy of Brindel's letter of protest to Thomas Brothers and indications that he would take action if the situation is not remedied. The letter was read at last night's meeting.

Woman Retracts Confession Of Slaying In 1950

SAN BRUNO (UPI)—A 26-year-old housewife was reported today to have denied her confession to police that she shot and killed a man in 1950.

Mrs. Dolly Darlene Williams of Menlo Park told San Bruno police yesterday she killed Edward Sieger, 26, on Dec. 10, 1950, one day after he allegedly raped her.

But today her attorney, John D. Jorgenson, quoted her as saying, "They are accusing me of a crime I did not commit."

"Mrs. Williams told me she never said she shot Sieger, only that she was responsible for his death," Jorgenson said. The lawyer said she believes she drove him to suicide.

Man Hurt By Shot Has 50-50 Chance

Edward F. Quinones, a 67-year-old unemployed carpenter whose wife died in February, was in "fair" condition after shooting himself in the chest with a .22 rifle late yesterday afternoon.

Despondency over his wife's death and poor health were the reasons, said Capt. Clifton Cordes of Fairfax police.

Quinones used an apparently new .22 rifle and fired a single shot, Captain Cordes said. He and officer Henry Von Der Heide found the bleeding man on the kitchen floor of his home at 30 Spruce road, Fairfax.

Quinones was taken by ambulance to Marin General Hospital where emergency surgery was performed on him. He was given a 50-50 chance to survive.

Police were alerted at 5:20 p.m. yesterday by Mrs. Alice Powers of 76 Manor road, Fairfax, his sister, who called to report that Quinones had telephoned her and thanked her for kindnesses to him, Captain Cordes said.

TAX

terday and today by the supervisors included:

Approval of $8,000 for a pedestrian crossing under San Pedro road, San Rafael, and $833 for a traffic signal in front of Isabel Cook School, San Anselmo. Both grants would cover one-third the estimated cost of these projects.

Five per cent salary increases for county employees and $26,000 allowed for salary inequities to be adjusted during the fiscal year.

A second teacher and one new group supervisor at juvenile hall, with the possibility that County Probation Officer Walter Busher may request more staff members later.

Approval of a county road department budget financed mainly by state subventions but requiring 3¾ cents in property tax.

Grant of $50,000 for South San Pedro road improvement, a joint project of the county and San Rafael. The supervisors rejected a $10,000 request from San Anselmo for Sir Francis Drake boulevard improvement.

Set aside $20,000 to acquire park sites, but suggested that sanitary facilities at McClure's Beach and Drake's Beach possibly could be installed by a concessionaire.

Approved $50,000 for the Coyote Creek Flood Control project, with a matching amount to come from the state.

Deleted from the promotional budget $500 requested by the California Chamber of Commerce, $2,000 asked by the Junior Museum of Marin, $1,565 asked by the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce to stage next year's Miss Marin contest and $5,000 requested by the Marin County Taxpayers Assn. The Redwood Empire Assn. grant was reduced from $6,650 requested to $4,000.

Teamsters Win Wage Increases

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Construction workers in the Teamsters Union will get wage increases totaling 73 cents an hour over a three year period and vacation benefits under an agreement with Northern California contractors.

The agreement was reached yesterday. It covers about 5,000 drivers in 46 counties.

The new scale, effective retroactively to July 1, ranges from $2.94 to $3.67 an hour, including the first year's raise of 19 cents.

Tax Bite

NEW YORK (UPI) — A man making $4,500 a year must work seven eight-hour days every month to pay his taxes, according to the Tax Foundation. The second biggest item in his budget — food — takes four and one-half days work.

DEATHS

HEAT

gan moving into Marin about 10 p.m. yesterday.

County fire station personnel atop Mt. Tamalpais said they could follow the course of heavy smoke clouds moving into Marin from the big Sonoma County forest fire. (See story on page 6.)

San Rafael's 105 yesterday, as recorded at the courthouse, contrasted with an 85 maximum on July 10, 1958, and high of 84 on July 10, 1957.

Beaches, parks and other recreation spots were preparing for mammoth weekend crowds as Marinites are expected to head for the country in an effort to escape the heat.

But wherever they go, they are likely to find it warm. Best hope for any appreciable cooling appeared to be a U.S. Weather Bureau note that a westerly wind may come up this afternoon that could clear the air as well as stir it up a bit.

Marin residents weren't alone in their heat problems. In Los Angeles yesterday the mercury rose to 103 for the hottest July day in 52 years. Another 103 reading, 21 degrees above normal, was predicted for today.

In the northern Napa Valley resort town of Calistoga, residents and tourists reeled under 117 degree temperatures—just one degree shy of the 118 reading at Yuma, Ariz., the hottest spot in the nation yesterday.

'ALL MY SONS'

Tam Players Convincing In Miller Prize-Winner

A dedicated band of actors in Tamalpais Valley several months ago decided to accept the challenge of doing Arthur Miller's prize-winning drama, "All My Sons."

Last night, in spite of stifling heat, the Tamalpais Valley Players presented the first of four performances of this post-war emotional tragedy with convincing finesse.

The story, laid in 1947, involves a man who allowed imperfect aircraft engine parts to be delivered during the war which led to the death of many flyers. The plot concerns his wife, who insists that their flier son, lost for three years, is still alive, and a second son who is about to marry his dead brother's sweetheart.

There are four leading parts, all excellently executed. Nick Monteleone, as the father who delivers the faulty parts, does a smooth job in alternately earning sympathy and disgust for his wartime acts.

-Dunya Chernenko, playing his wife, Kate, shows her skill as she carries the lion's share of the dramatic burden. Her handling of a series of difficult emotional periods was brilliantly done.

The two romantic leads, Morrie Batz playing Chris Keller, son of the guilty father, and Esther Allen as Ann Deever, whose father is in the penitentiary as a former partner of the manufacturer, are equally skilled and convincing.

A dramatic outburst between father and son at the close of act two, when the son finally realizes the depth's of his father's guilt, is a climax worthy of many a professional troupe.

Supporting cast members played their parts with commendable conviction, although several cases of prompting slightly slowed the action. Fine support came from Joe Allen, Dick Miller, Kim Badger, Harrie Batz, Walt Lowden and the juvenile, Barry Walton.

High praise goes to Bernice Healey for a most attractive set and to Cliff Badger for sensitive direction.

Praise also should go to the unidentified pilot who guided his transport over Tam Valley just as the most dramatic spot in the play arrived. Perhaps it can be repeated.

Performances are scheduled at the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Clubhouse tonight and next Friday and Saturday at 8:30 o'clock.

Girl Injured In Collision

A 16-year-old San Rafael girl suffered a broken arm yesterday evening in a two-car collision near Oakmont and Wildwood avenues in San Rafael.

Darlene Klapperich was given emergency treatment at her home, 210 Center street, after the 6:50 p.m. accident. She was the passenger of William Edward Grady, 16, of 34 Wildwood avenue.

Grady cut the corner in making a left turn from Wildwood onto Oakmont avenue and collided with an eastbound car on Oakmont driven by Merton Alvin Jacobs of 670 Oakmont avenue, reported San Rafael Police Officer L. A. de Lisle Jr. Grady was cited for making an improper left turn.

At 2:15 p.m. yesterday the brakes failed on an eastbound car as it neared the stop sign at the end of San Rafael Miracle Mile where Second and Fourth streets join, police reported.

Carolyn Marin Ongaro of 103 Southwood avenue, Ross, swerved to avoid a stopped pick-up truck, struck the stop sign, banged into the truck and continued across the intersection and rammed into a tree in order to stop, reported Sgt. Louis Foster. The car was towed away but the woman was apparently uninjured, Sergeant Foster said. No citations were issued.

Driver of the truck was Eugene Brady, 1691 Mar West, Tiburon.

VILLA

(A CORNUCOPIA OF PLEASURE AND FINE LIVING)

Sound the trumpets, here's a property with a flourish. Close to every modern convenience, yet nestled in the hills with absolute independence & privacy. We present this duplex residence on 2 lots, with nearly an acre of property, plus a small apartment suitable for gardener or $40 per month. Incredible array of plants, hundreds of feet of concrete walks & completely sprinklered. One of the LARGEST Barbeque establishments in Marin ready for feeding a hundred. Smoke house set-up plus green house. Current income on lease is $225 on per month, could easily be more.
This parcel was the property of a television personality, accustomed to a certain munificence in living. Why not buy it yourself—for income, development, or just to congratulate yourself on owning? If this was in Sausalito, we would be asking $40,000 plus. Can you drive 15 minutes further to consistently good weather and pay $22,500? Of course you can!
(Excellent financing available). This is the type of listing—with "something extra"—that you can expect from—

28 Homes Ruined In Hollywood Fire; Arson Suspected

Big Brush Blaze Damages 15 Other Houses; Hundreds Flee

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Twenty-eight homes are known destroyed in a brush fire—possibly touched off by an arsonist—which swept through 1,000 acres yesterday in Hollywood's rustic Laurel Canyon.

Fifteen other homes were damaged. Three hundred persons were forced to flee.

Most of the homes were in the $30,000 to $40,000 class. Seven firemen were injured trying to save them. A woman resident and her son suffered burns running from their home as flames raced down upon it. It was destroyed.

A family in an auto barely escaped when the driver, blinded by smoke, drove off the road. The occupants fled on foot. Flames caught the car moments later and set it afire.

The blaze broke out in two different places on Laurel Canyon boulevard and flared up minutes later a mile away on Mulholland drive—leading firemen to suspect a firebug.

Mulholland crosses Laurel Canyon boulevard, like the cross on a T, at the ridgeline of the Hollywood Hills. The flames spread from Lookout Mountain drive north through hills and canyons crossed by two dozen streets.

Massed men and equipment —and backfiring—halted the fire along the crest at Mulholland. North of it lay thick brush on the downslopes facing the communities of the San Fernando Valley.

Forest Fires Erupt As Heat Sears N. State

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two forest fires burned out of control today in Northern California. Another was checked. Every where the situation was critical.

More than 300 acres of slash timber and brush went up in smoke 15 miles west of Garberville in southwest Humboldt County. The 115 men on the line bucked 20 mile an hour north winds. No one could say when the blaze would be controlled.

SONOMA FIRE

Another fire in steep, inaccessible coastal country burned more than 300 acres yesterday in Sonoma County. This one required 150 men, hopeful of bringing it under control sometime today.

In Santa Cruz County, the small community of Boulder Creek was threatened before control lines were thrown around 150 acres of burning brush and timber. The blaze was corralled only one and a half miles from Boulder Creek.

The area will be patrolled for at least three days.

CAUSED BY WIRE

Ranger Les Gum said a high tension wire, dropping because of the heat, short circuited on a tree.

A total of 225 men worked on the lines.

All over Northern California the report was:

"Most treacherous fire weather of the season."

In national forest lands, all hands were held on standby basis.

A. L. Medford, district supervisor of the Klamath National Forest, echoed the sentiments of his colleagues:

"The fire danger is extreme," he said. "We are maintaining a continuous vigil."

PLAYWRIGHT'S BINGE ENDS BEFORE JUDGE

LONDON (UPI) — Irish playwright Brendan Behan, who set London agog with a boisterous two-day binge, appeared in court sober today and meekly pleaded guilty to public drunkenness.

The judge fined the hard-drinking Irishman five shillings (70 cents) for being tipsy and ordered him to pay a doctor 15 shillings ($2.10) fort treating his battle wounds.

Wearing his usual rumpled green suit, the 35-year-old, 210-pound Behan shuffled nervously as he stood in the dock. He was there only 43 seconds.

"I was in my cups," he mumbled to Magistrate Clive S. S. Burt when asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed.

It was an inglorious end to 48 hours of drinking, shouting and fighting for the one-man mob from Dublin. The spree began Wednesday night.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Ex-Diplomat Dies

NEW PORT, R. I. (AP)— Henry P. Fletcher, 86, noted American diplomat and chairman of the Republican National Committee from 1934 to 1936, died yesterday at his Newport home after a long illness.

Friendly Pigeon

LONDON (UPI)— Mrs. Pearl Lee was playing the piano for a few friends when a pigeon flew in, landed on the piano, laid and egg and went to sleep.

"She didn't budge all night," Mrs. Lee said yesterday, "but was gone when we came down this morning. I had left the window open."

More AF Families

LONDON (AP) — The U. S. Air Force population in Britain will increase by about 12 per cent over the next few months.

"Let them all come," says the chairman of a good will committee near the big Ruislip base. "We've been getting along fine with the Yanks here for years."

His sentiments were echoed by owners of village stores near the American Air Force bases dotted over eastern England. Taking care of American families has meant business since World War II.

U.S. Seeks New Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says it will try Richard A. Mack and Thurman A. Whiteside again if it can. Their 14-week trial ended yesterday in a hung jury.

They were charged with plotting to rig the award of a Miami television channel while Mack was a member of the Federal Communications Commission. Whiteside is a Miami lawyer.

But whether the government can bring them to trial again depends on a pending decision of Federal Judge Burnita S. Mathews.

Before the case went to the jury defense lawyers asked for a directed acquittal. Judge Matthews, in an unusual step, reserved her decision and sent the case to the jury.

Kozlov Ending Visit

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Frol R. Kozlov's barnstorming tour of the United States was to end today.

The Soviet first deputy premier flew to New York's La Guardia Airport after a brief stop in this industrial city for a look at the Homestead works of the U. S. Steel Corp., and a visit to the nuclear power plant at Shippingport, Pa.

More Pay For Judges

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Bigger paychecks, fattened by as much as $333 extra a month, will be going to California judges come September.

Under a bill by Sen. George Miller Jr. (D-Martinez), signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday, Supreme Court Chief Justice Phil Gibson will get a $4,000 a year raise to $28,000, while his associates go from $23,000 to $26,000.

All appellate judges will reach $24,000; superior court judges in large counties, $20,000, and in small counties, $18,000, the same as for large municipal city judges. In smaller cities they'll get $16,000.

Hoffa To Be Quizzed

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa is due before the Senate rackets probers Monday to answer charged that his Teamster Union cheated its members and took part in a secret strike-breaking mission.

Sen. John R. McClellan (D-Ark.) yesterday reviewed testimony that Hoffa made deals with favored employers and bargained away take home pay of rank and file teamsters.

Bank Robbery Foiled

ECLECTIC, Ala. (UPI) — The manager of the Bank of Eclectic killed one man and seriously wounded another today during an attempted bank robbery.

Carl Ray Barker, 31, whose seven-month pregnant wife and small child had been held hostage last night along with Barker, threw a pot of boiling water on one of the would-be bank robbers and shot to death the other.

Barker and his family, along with Eclectic Policeman Maxie Taunton, had been held at gunpoint since 9:30 p.m. last night by James F. Bray and Billy Hayward, both of Montgomery and 26 years old.

Siberia Flight Nixed

NEW YORK (AP)— The Soviets have refused Vice President Richard M. Nixon permission to fly across Siberia in an American plane on his visit to the Soviet Union, the New York Herald-Tribune said today.

Nixon, who is going to Moscow later this month to open the U. S. exhibition, wanted to return home across Siberia by way of Alaska, the paper's Washington correspondent James E. Warner said.

Mosquito District Will Buy Vehicles

A four-door sedan and a pick-up truck will be purchased by the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District.

The purchases were authorized Thursday night by the district board of directors.

In other actions, the directors:

Authorized Manager G. Paul Jones to attend a three-day manager's seminar at Monterey in October.

Announced they are in favor of a statewide research on mosquitoes and insecticides provided it is done at Davis and Riverside, and at no additional cost to taxpayers.

Authorized the manager to sell to highest bidders one ditch pump, a 10 horsepower motor, an outboard motor, and a 16-foot rowboat. All items except the motor need repairs.

During 1943 the only pennies minted in the United States were zinc-coated steel. This was to conserve copper for war defense purposes.

Electric Contractors, Workers In Stalemate

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Electrical contractors and their employees remained stalemated today in the 11-day dispute over a new wage contract for electricians in 17 Northern California counties.

Most of the electricians in the area, members of Local 340 of the Electrical Workers Union, have stayed off the job since their old contract expired July 1 although a strike has not been sanctioned.

Again yesterday, employers called on the union to halt the dispute by calling back the workers and assuring them that no reprisal will be taken by contractors.

In a telegram to union business manager M. J. Campbell, the manager of the employers' Sacramento Valley chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Assn. charged that refusal to work during contract talks is in violation of union-management agreements.

"The employers are willing to resume negotiations when the men have returned to work and when Local 340 has recognized the solemnity of its agreements," Joseph T. Krivanek said.

Krivanek said that although employers had agreed to resume negotiations yesterday, they found they could not do so "in good faith" because so many workmen were off the job.

Bartender Fined For Drunkenness

Sausalito bartender James Richard Hassall, 32, who became enbroiled in an argument with his girl friend under the Alto overpass Wednesday morning, must pay a $15 fine for drunkenness.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court put Hassall on six months' probation and ordered him not to drink to excess. Hassall said the girl friend threw his car keys out the window, and an argument followed. Hassall lives at Caldeonia and B streets in Sausalito.

Lassie Sentenced To Two Weeks For Abating Nuisance Her Way

THE MAN from the Humane Society was nice enough about it. He checked in again today to see if Lassie was being confined properly in accordance with her two weeks sentence for nipping. She has one more week to serve.

Every Monday morning he starts out with a fistful of warrants to serve on hapless quadrupeds who got into trouble over the weekend. The law says that a bite in the hand, or the leg, or anywhere else is worth two weeks in solitary, vaccinated for rabies or not.

Most of the injured parties are children, or people with the same lack of judgment, visiting other people with dogs who resented their overfamiliarity.

I DOUBT IF Lassie understands the reason for her incarceration. Her canine mind is not capable of associating it with the aggravated nip she bestowed upon the obstinate youngster who refused to heed our repeated warnings or his mother's mildly reproving "Mustn't touch the doggie, sweetheart." He stuck his impudent little face in the jaws of temptation and came out second best.

Maybe he's learned a lesson the hard way — maybe he hasn't. But he was on our property, albeit not of our choosing, and he was nipped. Fortunately it wasn't serious, but his mother's concern should have preceded the incident. She took him to the doctor and the doctor had to report it.

It's a typical example. Lassie claimed recourse in her only means of abating a nuisance and now she's in quarantine. It could have been averted.

There are two kinds of dogs — yours and the other fellow's.

YOUR DOG is a loving animal, trusting, loyal and protective. He enjoys your company and wants to be a part of everything you do. The touch of your hand on his head is sheer ecstasy.

The other fellow's dog is something else. He doesn't know you and until he does you should afford him the same consideration you would toward a strange human. He may be friendly or anti-social. You should not take liberties — neither should you fear him.

HERE ARE a few simple rules of conduct for children and adults alike in his presence.

He may be distrustful of sudden moves or loud noises. This is one reason more youngsters are bitten than grown people. Move calmly and naturally. Speak quietly.

Children should not ride bicycles, scooters or wagons into strange yards. Some animals dislike all types of vehicles, including automobiles and particularly motorcycles.

NEVER ROUGH up an unknown dog, even though it appears to be gentle. You do not have to prove you have a way with animals. If you are so gifted he will be the first to recognize the fact and will let you know when you are accepted.

If a dog wants to smell you, let him. It's his way of sizing you up and a few sniffs may make you his friend for life. If he decides otherwise, nothing you can do is going to change his mind.

Old dogs, like some old people, are crochety. All they are interested in is social security — a quiet place to lie down and affection from their owners. If they ignore you, let them alone.

A DOG LIKES the sound of the human voice, provided its tone is gentle and understanding. Even a surly animal will wag his tail if you include him in your conversation. Mention his name repeatedly. It's a word he comprehends even with a limited vocabulary.

Wait a while before you pet him, unless he asks for it. If he backs away from you go home and pet your own dog.

He still loves you.

FOR MOTHER ON HER BIRTHDAY

Oh, I have seen the majesty
Of rolling sea,
Of glorious tree,
And each has held a certain tie.

But I have seen the trees cut down,
And ocean drown,
And grass turn brown,
But all I do is stand and cry.

Yes, I have marveled at a star,
Seen blue stretch far,
Its only scar
White clouds in beauty of smooth sky.

When wind thru trees begins to sing,
Or bird takes wing,
Then tears will sting
These eyes that live to see them die.

PROFILE OF THE WEEK—Redwood souvenirs are big business in Muir Woods Curio Shop, established in 1933 by Viola Montgomery (above) and her late husband, Chauncey, (at right). (Independent-Journal Photo)

LATE MR. MONTGOMERY — Without his white mustache and Van Dyke, he said, he was just another fat man.

From Crash To Curio Shop

By LARRY LOVETT

One of Marin's little publicized but nevertheless highly successful enterprises had its origin in the ill-fortune of a San Francisco couple which had been cleaned out and left virtually bankrupt by the depression of the early 1930's.

For it was in 1933 that Chauncey and Viola Montgomery became proprietors of the Muir Woods Curio Shop, operating it themselves and which today includes a coffee shop and a year round staff of eight employees.

As white-haired Viola Montgomery sits in her tiny Muir Woods office and tells the story of her eventful life, it requires little imagination to picture her early days as she reminisces.

WITH COMPLETE CANDOR, she tells that she is a native of Sterling, Ohio, born in 1884 and that she graduated in 1910 from the University of Wooster Nursing School. She practiced as a registered nurse in Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania and subsequently became superintendent of the Children's Hospital of Akron, Ohio.

"In 1914," she relates, "I had a patient who wanted to travel to California and that was the end of Ohio."

Viola Montgomery thoughtfully fingered a beautifully cut piece of glass on her desk, some 2½ inches across, and cut like a diamond.

"THIS PAPER WEIGHT," she explained, "was taken from the gorgeous tower of Jewels at the 1915 International Exposition in San Francisco on closing night. It was given to me by Chauncey Montgomery whom I had met earlier in the year near the Tower."

The next year, they were married.

Chauncey, a native son from Martinez, was a burlap bag broker with a thriving business. Viola became a homemaker and things went well until the crash.

"PEOPLE WERE jumping off buildings and doing all sorts of crazy things," she recalls. To make ends meet, she returned to nursing and her husband tried all manner of things.

One day, she recalls, they took a drive to Santa Cruz where, even in the depths of the depression, they saw people buying curios hand over fist.

"Monty," as he was known, met his good friend, the late William Kent who suggested that Monty take a try at operating the curio shop at the Tamalpais Tavern, atop the mountain, which Kent operated.

"THE TRAIN UP the mountain had already stopped running," Mrs. Montgomery recalled, "but sightseeing buses made the long tortuous run up the mountain, including over the toll road which existed at that time."

Private cars were also starting to use the road.

On week-ends, both Montgomerys would "man" the shop while during the week they would alternate, with one returning to their home in San Francisco, using the old Golden Gate auto ferry from Sausalito.

"Then we made one of those mistakes that folks get into occasionally," she admitted. A year later, they decided to invest in a sea shell type curio shop in San Francisco on the highway opposite Fleishhacker Zoo. "It was a failure from the start," she recalls, "and we almost starved."

SO BACK to his friend William Kent went "Monty" and that's where the big break came.

He offered the Montgomery's a 99-year lease on 1.33 acres of land in Muir Woods bordering land which the Kents and given to the government.

"On this spot," Mrs. Montgomery explains, "we built our first shop which stood until 1941. But in a couple of years, the government decided they wanted the area which Mr. Kent told them they could have, subject to the 99-year lease."

THE GOVERNMENT, however, made it clear they could not accept such a limitation, so the land was turned over to the government with the Montgomery's having to settle for a two-year lease instead of 99!

"However," Mrs. Montgomery says, "although we must bid on the lease every two years, the national park service has accepted our offer, I guess our record has been pretty good."

Things went along well enough to keep the Montgomery's "on an even keel" but nothing tremendous. "Monty," by nature a friendly and jovial companion in any group, became one of the attractions in his own right.

HE WAS A huge man, weighing 285 pounds and affecting a picturesque white moustache and Van Dyke beard. "He would always say that without them, he was just another fat man," Mrs. Montgomery laughs.

He became active in Mill Valley affairs, joined the Rotary Club and served as president in 1942-43.

In 1941 ,the park service decided that the original shop, built adjacent to the stream which flows through the woods, should be replaced by a larger modern building. So the present structure was built and opened.

"It was just before World War II started," Mrs. Montgomery comments wryly, "and instead of bringing in loads of tourists, gasoline rationing just about stopped all travel except for an occasional sight seeing bus.

SHE AND MONTY carried on as best they could during the war years and just as the black war clouds were thinning, Monty died in 1945, leaving his wife alone to carry on with the shop.

"We had moved to our Mill Valley home when the new shop was built," she relates, "and I still make my home at 110 W. Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley."

She admits that at the end of the day, it's nice to get away from a lot of people.

Starting with 1946, she shop has become a profitable venture, she concedes, and caters to visitors from all over the world.

What's the most popular item?

"POSTCARDS," she guesses but says she has no idea how many or what type are bought.

But redwood items are the big thing. Novelty jewelry is becoming a big item, now, also.

"People are redwood minded when they come here," she explains, "and these items of redwood burl are popular."

Strange as it seems, the redwood items are becoming increasingly difficult to get. "It all comes from California manufacturers," she says, and she now takes a large portion of the output of three Santa Cruz plants and one in Eureka.

"WITH THE DEPLETION of commercial redwood groves and the increase in protected acreage, sources of burl are dwindling," she explains. One long time supplier in Eureka recently went out of business.

But her novelty jewelry comes from a source even closer. But who it is is a trade secret. All she'll say is that it is manufactured in Marin County and she takes the person's entire output.

But Viola Montgomery shows no signs of being concerned about her business. She points with pride to her eight regular girls. "Seven of the eight are grandmothers," she laughs, "and one has been here 15 years and three others more than 10. I think that speaks pretty well for the treatment they get."

SHE RETURNED again to her redwood souvenirs. "Just yesterday," she said, "I received an order by mail which I think is mighty interesting and makes me think our shop is pretty well known. TWA sent me an order for an assortment of redwood burl trays, salad bowls and book ends which I understand will be used as displays in New York."

Mrs. Montgomery is an excellent customer of the Mill Valley post office. She ships large amounts of orders every day from her Muir Woods shop.

But one of her proudest possessions is neither redwood nor is it native to Marin.

PARKED BEHIND the little shop is one of the sleekest modern cars you ever saw. "That," she says proudly, is my baby Rolls."

She explains in detail that here is a 1959 Rolls-Royce, generally recognized as the very epitome of fine motor car design—and cost.

"This is the Silver Cloud model," she explains, demonstrating its various appointments with the air of an extremely proud owner. "You see, I had an older car that was spending a good deal of time in the shop."

She tells of a visit to her shop one day by Fred Thompson of Kentfield, brother of Kathleen Norris, saying that he, too, has the same model car. She admired the car audibly.

"THE NEXT DAY," she says, "this English gentleman called me from San Francisco asking if he could drop by and show me the car. He told me the larger model sold for $20,000 which was a little steep for me so he brought this one."

Very shortly she owned a new Rolls. "It was fun," she chuckles, "to buy. The salesman told me I could have six years to pay for it and when I told him I paid cash for everything he acted as though he was holding a hot brick when I wrote out a check and handed it to him."

Viola Montgomery lives alone in her home most of the time but has occasional visits from her niece, Mrs. Barbara Stewart Britton of Kentfield. Mrs. Britton is her sole "family."

BUT SHE HAS still another regular pleasure. Each year, she sends a check to Mill Valley's Frank Comstock, who was active with "Monty" in the Mill Valley Rotary Club. Comstock is still active after 23 years membership. The check is in Monty's memory and is to be used for boys' work.

A trip to Muir Woods at any time of year is more than pleasant. But to include a visit to the curio shop and a chat with Viola Montgomery is to put the icing on the cake.

By all means, try it.

WINGS OF AMBITION—Flight to Disneyland is in itself an exciting spur to Marin's junior businessmen. For several of the 52 carriers, it was a first flight.

Real Wings To Incentive

How Many 13-Year-Olds Own Stock Or Give Mothers Washing Machines?

One Independent-Journal carrier has bought four shares of PG&E stock with his earnings. Another just tapped his $400 bank account to buy his mother a washer.

They and 50 like them have just returned from the annual junket to Disneyland, high-point of the I-J's year-round incentive campaign.

"It wasn't so hard," commented Pete Del Tredici, the 13-year-old investor. "I sold 30 and took my brother and sister with me."

Member of the talented San Anselmo family, he enlisted help from artist brother Bob to distribute slips announcing his goals. Pete has been delivering papers since he was 8.

NOVATO'S BOB SMITH, also 13, carefully budgets his earnings, saving some and spending some for his electronic and radio equipment. On the I-J Ice Follies junket, he took a girl friend.

Bob had no trouble selling 15 required subscriptions—either magazine, newspaper or both—and one extra. He has been delivering in the Monte Maria subdivision for four of his nine years in the business. His sales technique was simple.

"Most of the people know me and would like to see me go to Disneyland." Pause. "And if they didn't say 'yes' right away, I just stand there on the porch until they did."

BOTH THE BOYS have discovered that these subscription drives have permanent results.

"They found it was pretty easy to sell," said Pete. "They'd say, 'Okay, we'll take it for three months.' And they liked it so much they took it the whole rest of the year."

Every new I-J subscriber on the route means another 28 cents monthly to the carrier. The magazine subscription package adds 5 cents more.

The latter is mutually advantageous. For a modest addition to the standard subscription price, the reader gets a choice of top-quality national magazines.

THE BOYS who make the annual trip are rewarded in one fun-packed day for many small sacrifices in the name of business. Delivering the route means no after-school basketball. It means not going out of town on holidays unless a well-trained substitute will take over.

There are two systems for substitutes. Bob hires his brother Ken or Larry Muir. Pete trades with one of his neighboring carriers, and one will take both routes for a day or two.

CHOICE ROUTES are, of course, "on the flat." They take less time to deliver and there is less chance of the paper's being lost in the terrain.

"My route is one the best in San Anselmo," Pete said. "It's all level and just four streets for 52 papers. I can do it in 10 minutes; it's easy."

Bob is resigned about staying home holidays.

"What's the use of going out and spending money when you can stay home and make it?" he asked.

The Disneyland junket is just one in a series of outings for I-J carriers, all held on Sundays when there are no papers. Only July 19, they go to Santa Cruz; in August comes the big watermelon

PASSPORTS TO ADVENTURE—It was one day last winter that Independent-Journal carriers were given the go-ahead on a newspaper and magazine subscription campaign, with a trip to Disneyland as the top prize. A tableful of solid prizes added further incentive to the drive—sixth in as many years.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

A stereo music system made up from component Hi-Fi Stereo units, and properly placed is truly one of the most enjoyable, most rewarding, and most educational items that any family can posses. Whether your tastes are for the classics, popular, or jazz, music in stereo comes alive and allows you to enjoy the music with all its dimension and beauty. Even though I have been exposed to stereo sound since its practical inception, listening to music porformed on a properly designed component stereo system is still a most relaxing and enjoyable experience.

Many people have come to me and commented that they have heard the stereo unit that Mr. and Mrs. Marin have in their home, and that they couldn't hear any difference or improvement over monaural sound. In every case, when I demonstrated stereo sound with proper components and proper placement of speakers, these same people were actually amazed at the life-like realism and spectacularly clear sound that they heard. The point that I am making is that it is not sufficient to have a console with the label stereo on it. First, you must remember that stereo is in essence two Hi-Fi systems. That means that each of the Hi-Fi channels and speaker systems must have clear, full-range, distortion-free sound. Secondly, and this is extremely important for the stereo effect, the two speaker systems must be properly placed in your room.

We have several stereo combinations that would make your home music system a valued possession. One system includes the new Bell Stereo Amplifier and the new matching Bell Stereo AM-FM Tuner. During our introductory offer you can save $40.00 by purchasing these two Bell units as a pair. Another excellent combination is the Sargent Rayment Stereo Amplifier and its new matched Stereo AM-FM Tuner.

For a truly fine experience in listening, visit our Stereo Hi-Fi store and hear a demonstration of stereo sound. While here you can see our complete systems in beautiful walnut cabinets. If you prefer, we can show you how your home stereo music system can be built up gradually with quality components, from as low as $150.; and for those of you who want and can afford the ultimate achievement of stereo perfection in sound, come in and listen to a demonstration of the Marantz equipment, the world's finest.

When Harmony's The Thing

By JIM HEIDINGER

Barbershop harmony is a form of American music which is again sweeping the country as it did decades ago. In the earlier days, the small town or neighborhood barbershop was a place where friends and neighbors gathered to enjoy a song or two. A typical American harmony developed around these informal singing groups.

Today, this close harmony is heard from coast to coast thanks to the far-flung membership of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. Chapters have sprung up in hundreds of cities, and thousands of members have joined this grand Society.

This type of harmony is produced by four male voices unaccompanied. Rules of time and words are frequently sacrificed to obtain more blending harmony. There is usually at least one harmonizing chord on each melody note. Sometimes, there are as many as five. They are called "Swipes."

The melody is usually sung by the lead, the tenor part, comparable to high alto, is usually above the lead, the bass anchors the chords and the baritone rounds it out.

It all started in Oklahoma in 1938. O. C. Cash, Tulsa tax attorney, was concerned with the shift away from free enterprise and was convinced that something should be done to preserve what he called the last stronghold of individual liberty — the barbershop quartet. So he invited 14 friends to do some quartet singing, proposed SPEBSQSA, signed himself "Permanent Third Assistant Temporary Vice - Chairman" (to give himself a chance for advancement, he explained) and mailed his letters. The response was electric. Not only did his friends join readily, but a little publicity brought requests for membership from far and near. Cash, with an international outlook, at once obtained Oklahoma incorporation papers for his organization as a nonprofit fraternal order.

THE MEMBERSHIP of SPEBSQSA is truly American. It includes not only the "butcher, the baker, the candle-stick-maker," but members from just about every known field of endeavor. The Society's affairs are in the hands of business men and professional men of substantial standing in their communities. The lists include bankers, clergymen, physicians, attorneys, clerks, carpenters, plumbers, or just about any occupation you could name. All have their contributions to make and all receive their reward in release from the pressure of modern life and the joy of serving others through harmony.

Aside from the morale building influence among its members, the society has a definite contribution to make in the way of civil service. Item No. 10 in its Code of Ethics reads: "We shall render all possible altruistic service through the medium of barbershop harmony."

Many thousands of appearances by society quartets have been made for worthy causes, such as Red Cross, Community Chest Drives, Church functions, Veterans' Hospitals, to say nothing of a continuous program of service at various USO centers during the war years.

In the winter of 1953, Ivor Davies and H. Edward McKinney, two San Rafael businessmen who had neighboring offices on Fifth street got tired of just talking about forming a local chapter in Marin County, got busy and held a meeting at the home of McKinney after placing an ad in the Independent-Journal.

They were very surprised to greet about 40 interested men at that first meeting. The first big step was to find an experienced man to direct the group. They were extremely lucky to obtain the services of Dave Stevens, the director of the San Francisco Chapter and the Berkeley Chapter. The first year of organization found the "Marin Saltaires," as they named themselves, winning the Far Western District finals over Choruses from seven states including Hawaii. This was, of course, quite a thrill to everyone concerned.

As was mentioned above, the Marin Chapter of the Society certainly does whatever possible to uphold the responsibilities outlined under Item No. 10 of the Code of Ethics. Chapter quartets have, in the past, rendered countless services to numerous organizations within the county which are seeking entertainment for their various programs.

In addition, the chorus has a package show made up for the purpose of providing approximately 30 minutes of entertainment which includes the 35 man chorus and two quartets. This show goes out for occasions where a group wants a well prepared performance.

EACH YEAR the Saltaires put on a show which is called a "parade." In this show, the Chapter attempts to gather the best quartet talent possible from the area. All who have ever attended these shows have been well satisfied with them, and usually return to see the show the following year.

Catholic High School is the next parade. Some excellent talent is being lined up, and an interesting theme is being prepared. In addition to helping to keep the chapter in existence through ticket sales, these shows provide an opportunity to let others in on the thrills of barbershop harmony. The most important thing about attendance at a parade is the enjoyment which is experienced by the audience and participants. There are thrills undreamed of by the newcomer to this form of music.

One outstanding thing about Barbeshoppers is the fact that they are not selfish about their craft. They welcome men of good character to their chapter meetings, and although excellence is their goal, no man of good character is turned out for reasons of quality of voice.

Many men have been known to join the society just to sit and listen; however, it is usually the case that they don't just sit and listen very long once the singing commences at a meeting.

MARIN CHAPTER meets every Tuesday night at Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield and welcomes any man in the County to come, sit in, and see what happens at the meetings. There is a saying in the society that goes like this:

"Where there is a chord, there is never a discord." Fellowship and singing go hand in hand, and this is certainly in evidence anytime barbeshoppers gather.

One illustrious member who had as his start the Marin Chapter has gone on to the road company of Meredith's Willson's "Music Man." Jim Ingram and the Frisco Four and starring in that production in Chicago.

Jim and his father and two uncles were the first organized quartet in the Marin Chapter, and you will probably remember seeing and hearing them in countless appearances around the county for various organizations as "the Ingrams." Jim along with three fellows from San Francisco are doing a fine job in the show, and if you missed the "Music Man" when it was in San Francisco last November, you missed a great show and Barbershop at its best.

Many prominent men accross the country have been drawn to barbershopping: Bing Crosby; Bentonelli of the Metropolitan Opera; Sam Breadon, baseball magnate; Supreme Court Justice Denver Davidson; former Governor Kerr of Colorado and the late Al Smith of New York political fame have all served on the society's board of directors.

Composer Hoagy Carmichael, Actor Burt Mustin, Lum of Lum & Abner; Art Baker famous radio and TV announcer; the King's Men; Fibber McGee; Gildersleeve; Fred Waring, Sigmund Spaeth the musical detective; composers Geoff O'Hara ("K-K-K-Katy"), Harry Armstrong ("Sweet Adeline") and the former White House-piano player have all helped to swell the ranks of Barbershopping.

The contests held at the regional, district and international levels are held for several reasons. The most obvious reason for contests is to pick the Champion Quartet and the next four placing quartets or the "medalists" at the international level. However, this is not the only reason.

The judging of these contests is broken up into five categories. These are harmony accuracy, voice expression, balance and blend, arrangement, and stage presence. Each of these categories is given an equal number of points in the total number of points. In addition, a time limit, both minimum and maximum is imposed upon each quartet.

By use of these categories, quartets having a weakness in one area can conceivably make up the shortages by strengths in other areas. More important, however, is the critique held after the contest in which each judge comments on each with regards to the category he judged. In this manner, quartets and members are able to find out what the shortage was which caused a quartet to fall behind. This system enables the society to maintain a means of checking on itself to ensure good quality based on the original aims of the organizers of the society.

Certainly not to be overlooked in connection with the Marin Saltaires is a Chapter of Sweet Adelines or female counterparts of the Barbershoppers.

This organization is a separate organization and not actually connected with the Barbershoppers except as they are similar in their aims, and methods. Steve Carrick, president of the local chapter of the Barbershoppers, is the director of the Sweet Adelines which meets at Adaline E. Kent School on Monday nights at 8:00 p.m. They also invite women to come and listen and sing.

Certainly anyone who likes good music will enjoy Barbershopping, and no one enjoys Barbershopping more than one who is participating.

Here's Pixie Place...

...A Paradox Of Parenthood

There was only $80 in the treasury when Pixie Parents, Inc. understook to expand Pixie Place. The playground at the Marin Art and Garden Center was up to then a rather modest layout. Spurred by professional plans, the 150 couples set about to raise funds. Within a few months they raised $3,000, then $3,000 more.

The story of Pixie Place and how it grew is a saga of Marin parenthood which those who lived it hope others will emulate.

Pixie Place has existed for eight years. Initially it began as a small area developed by the Child Study Group of the Marin Branch of the American Association of University Women.

In 1953 the Albert Evers of Ross agreed to construct an all-weather pavillion on the grounds as a memorial to their son Albert J. Evers, Jr. who lost his life in World War II. Many families in the county have become acquainted with Pixie Place during the Marin Art and Garden Fair when their children have spent an hour playing at the playground.

IN 1956 Pixie Parents, the parents of the small children who use the playground, became incorporated. Robert Royston, the noted landscape architect who resides in Mill Valley agreed to prepare the design and plans for a completely new and permanent playground to be constructed on the site of Pixie Place. Since Marin County has no other professionally planned creative play areas, Pixie Place may well serve as a pilot project to stimulate interest in this kind of development for various communities within the county.

Royston has designed the now famous Mitchell Park in Palo Alto, Cruzi park in Alameda which is exclusively a "Tot-Lot" and has been consultant for the Oakland Park Department for many years, in addition to preparing the design for numerous other recreational installations.

Royston's plans were enthusiastically accepted by the members of Pixie Parents, Inc. as well as the board of directors of the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Then came the primary problem — that of financing the construction and equipment. The total cost was estimated to be $20,000 a far cry from the treasury of Pixie Parents which at that time was about $80. In October of last year fund-raising efforts began in earnest.

A THREE-FOLD effort included a series of benefit social affairs handled by Pixie Parents, Inc., appeals for direct contributions of money interested individuals, and the establishment of additional memorials within the playground.

By January the first $3,000 had been raised and the firm of Cagwin and Dorward was engaged as supervising contractors for the project, and they were authorized to proceed with site preparation.

With the generous aid of Dave Dorward, various materials and supplies were obtained at reduced prices from his suppliers. Also, Dorward, with Birge Clark, who is chairman of the husbands' work crew, planned various phases of construction which could be performed by the men of Pixie Parents working on Saturdays.

Following the completion of the initial site preparation March 1, Pixie Parents had accumulated an additional $3,000. At this time it was decided by the membership, with the aid of Mrs. Norma B. Livermore, president of the board of directors of the Marin Art and Garden Center, to obtain a loan of an additional $3,000 to complete the entire construction phase of the play ground. At this point the work crew expanded to include the Pixie Mothers and all available hands to perform as many functions as Dorward could safely trust to amateurs.

The entire installation of fence panels was performed by the men, as well as trenching for the installation of conduit. Frequent moving of play equipment to allow for construction was managed by the mothers.

One week a dozen of the lovely ladies unloaded a double-trailer truck loaded with 43,000 pounds of tanbark to be used as a concussion-free play surface in several of the play areas.

On a Saturday in a pouring rain another dozen men and women wheeled the tanbark to the areas and spread it. This week activity, including painting of the entire new construction, as well as refurbishing of all existing structures and equipment, was a prelude to the May 6 public opening.

WHILE THE MAJOR portion of manual labor is concluded for the time-being, the efforts of Pixie Parents, Inc. to raise money will continue to repay the loan taken to complete the project. And following that time, additional funds will be needed for the purchase of several permanent pieces of play equipment. And it will be vital in future years to insure that adequate financial reserves are available to provide for maintenance and depreciation.

Pixie Parents are most grateful to the many firms whose donations of materials and supplies, ranging from outright gifts to substantial reductions in cost, have enabled the playground to be completed for considerably less money than had been originally estimated. And, of course, the labor contributed by the members substantially reduced the labor cost involved in the finishing of the project. Following is a credit list: architect, Robert Royston of Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes, San Francisco; supervising contractor, Dave Dorward of Cagwin and Dorward, San Anselmo; concrete, McPhail's, San Rafael; concrete block, McNear's Brick Co., San Rafael; asphalt paving, I.J. Ely Co., Larkspur; asphalt materials, Brown-Ely Co., San Rafael, and lumber, Allen Toole, Dick Harris, Goodman Building Supply, Mill Valley; Larkspur Lumber Co., Larkspur; paint, Gil Hohmann, president, Land H Paint Co., San Francisco; Arcadia sliding door, Joseph P. Eichler and Arcadia Co., Palo Alto; electrical contractor, North Bay Electric Co., San Francisco, and always ready helping hand, Vin Davidson, supervisor of gardens, Marin Art and Garden Center.

PIXIE PLACE is intended to be a memorial playground which is in keeping with the philosophy of the entire Art and Garden Center. Thus it was of special importance that one entire play area and the equipment in it is a memorial to Dr. William J. Kerr Jr., San Rafael pediatrician who died last year. This area, financed by Dr. Kerr's family and friends, consists of a large free-form river of sand into which a high slide mounted on a hill deposits its young traveler.

At the top of the slide is a teepee into which the children go before emerging as they descend the slide. At the foot of the hill near the slide is a system of concrete tunnels, each weighing a ton and a half, placed so that a youthful explorer can hide from mother's watchful eye and surprise her by peering out at the opposite end. A tall upright portion allows climbing for a periscope effect.

In still another portion of this area there will be two pre-formed concrete playhouses with creative cutouts on the sides suggesting a variety of play experiences for children.

ANOTHER memorial is one of the arbors under which mothers may sit while the children are at play. This arbor is erected in memory of Camille Laurent Diesman, a Pixie Parent member who died last year, and whose special interest was in the garden areas of Pixie Place.

It is hoped that other memorials may be established in Pixie Place, an area of elegant natural beauty filled with the gay laughter of children at play.

Membership in Pixie Parents is open to parents of preschool-age children. The annual fee includes $4 and 10 hours of service to the playground.

Inquiries may be addressed to Pixie Parents, Inc., Box 437, Ross or by calling Mrs. Howard Onstatt. Children six years of age and under are eligible, and must be accompanied at all times by an adult. The playground is available for use every day.

BIRTHDAY party areas may be rented for birthday parties by members and nonmembers. Birthday reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Willard Ivarson.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Albert White Is Conducting At Hollywood Bowl Series

Albert White is making his second annual appearance as guest conductor in the Summer Concert Series of the Hollywood Bowl of California, world's largest natural amphitheater. So popular was his appearance there last year, directing the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra in an original "Gay Nineties Nite," that he was invited to make two appearances this year, July 10th and 11th, in a similar type of program.

White is violist with the Marin Arts Quartet and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, director of radio station KCBS' "Masters of Melody" program and personnel manager of the Cosmopolitan Opera Company of San Francisco. Active on all levels of musical endeavor, from jazz band to chamber music, he displays a profound and authentic knowledge of his field and has had a prominent part in Bay Area musical circles for the past two decades.

A resident of Corte Madera, White made his official debut into the Marin musical scene two years ago as a charter member of the new chamber music ensemble, the Marin Arts Quartet.

Musical Directory Of Marin Published By Arts Quartet

The Marin Arts Quartet of Mill Valley has distinguished itself by publishing Marin's first all-county musical directory. The 16-page glossy paper booklet, which marks the quartet's second successful season, is being given away free. Marin Art and Garden Fair goers were first to receive it.

The handsome book is illustrated with photographs and whimsical sketches by Lucienne Bloch Dimitroff of Mill Valley. The lead article in the magazine, written by quartet director Charles Meacham, describes the delights as well as the intricacies of chamber music. Did you know, for instance, that Johann Sebastian Bach immortalized the penny whistle.

WHILE THEY LAST, copies may be obtained by writing Marin Arts Quartet, Box 95, Mill Valley.

Oh, yes, season tickets are available at the same address. Price for the three concerts of 1959-60 are $10 for two; $6 for single and $2.50 for student.

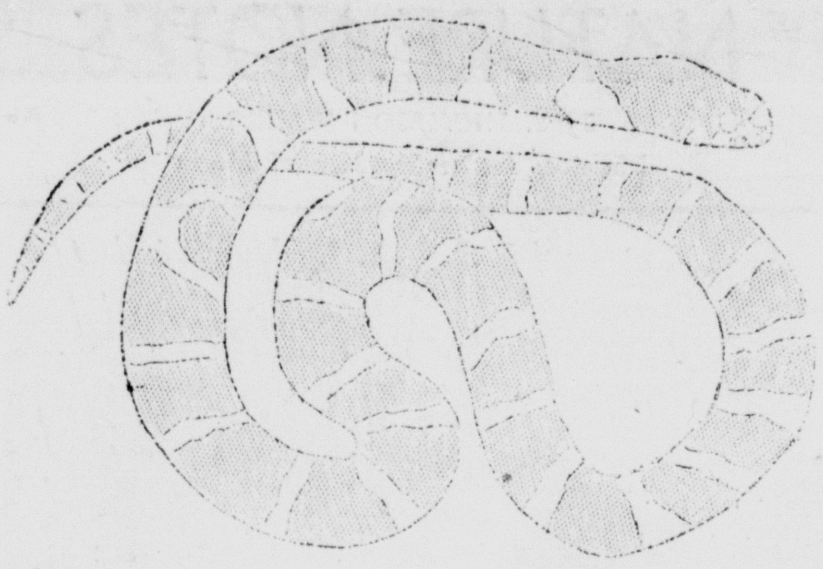
Orientals In Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — The big demand for Oriental performers on Broadway is making it hard to cast shows for the road.

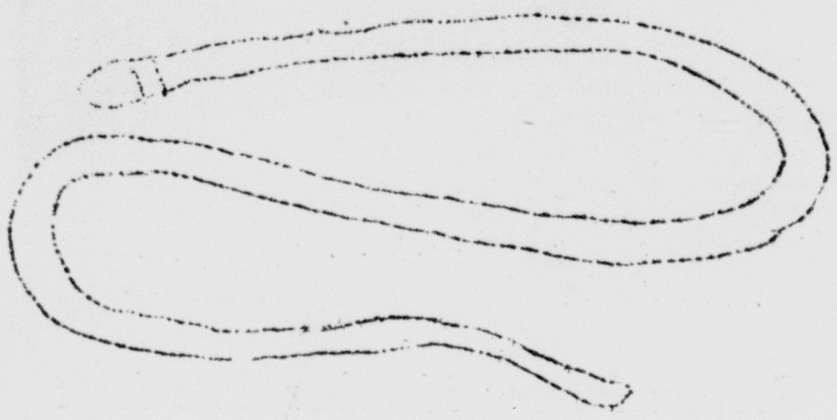
A projected national company of "Flower Drum Song" has been shelved because of the shortage of required talent types. During the past season a half dozen shows have required more than 60 Far East portrayals.

Shakespeare Music

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP) — Music inspired by Shakespeare's poetry is getting a showcase of its own this summer at this festival center.



THE KING SNAKE is black (or brown) with white (or yellow) cross bands. It may attain a length of 32 inches and a diameter of ¾ inch. It is a smooth scaled, oviparous, constricting snake which is mild tempered and inoffensive. It feeds chiefly on small rodents, but frequently kills and eats other snakes, both harmless and venomous. However the King Snake is not the "sworn enemy" of the Rattlesnake, although it is immune to its venom. (From "Out-of-Doors in Marin," copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)



RING-NECKED SNAKE, a small oviparous snake, is a greenish or bluish dark gray in color and has a reddish collar and coral abdomen. It is only ¼ inch in diameter and not over 17 inches long. It is secretive in manner, hiding under loose, rotting bark of fallen trees, among loose rocks, or under flat stones. It usually prowls at night, hunting small snakes, salamanders, and earthworms. (From Out-of-Doors" in Marin, copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)

FROM PAD TO PATSY

When comes tomorrow-day (I think he said), and a vocal gives with Man You're Dead, and this daddy-o divides and there is left one square and nothing elsewhere.

SAN ANSELMO — MARY H. RYAN

I GO ABOUT

I go about as if a microscope
Were hidden within the contour of my eyes,
Examining and probing, in the hope
That life will yield perfection in some wise.
But I have never seen a flawless flower,
Sheer music in the soaring of a wing,
Nor a paragon of whatsoever power
Who had not done a mean or paltry thing.
I do not dream of voicing a complaint
Against the matchless beauty of the world,
Although a minor or intangible taint
Within all observanda must be furled;
But, given a passion for the pure and true,
Why do I never find them, as my due?

NOVATO — LORI PETRI

BARREL METHOD

How refreshingly lax was the problem of tax
About eighteen-ninety;
Your cash you could fold and could have and could hold,
Whether frugal or flighty;
No revenue men with suspicion of sin
Who would ask where it went;
No forms and reports with confessions-of-sorts
Over every last cent.

Yet we must do our duty so on with the booty
For that and for this;
It's Federal, County — the City needs bounty,
And none will desist.
The dollar grows smaller, the budget gets taller;
We give 'till we hurt!
It's the "land of the free"—after taxes, i.e.,
—And also your shirt!

'Velvet Knife' Describes Hollywood Scene With Skill

LONG JOHN DUNN OF TAOS, by Max Evans; Western Lore Press, 174 pp., $5.75.

Long John Dunn runs through, with a salty tongue, just about all of the glamor filled jobs of the West — gunman, gambler, stage driver and saloon keeper, in his 94 years of helling around.

This is an "as told to" type biography and as such inevitably loses something in the translation but there is enough gaminess left to make pleasant light reading. Long John calls his shots, from killings to horse borrowing to palming cards.

THE VELVET KNIFE, by Irving Schulman; Doubleday, 336 pp., $3.95.

Reviewed by
WILLIAM HENDRICKS

This is just about one of the best novels of the Hollywood scene that we have read. Schulman drops out his tough kid juvenile delinquent metier (Amboy Dukes and Cry Tough) into one of the fastest paced conversational bits since John O'Hara at his best. Two examples that hit us quick;

After a rough interview with a producer:

"I entered a booth in the men's room, threw up without effort, and felt better."

Following a meeting with a tycoon in Palm Springs:

"And the man's eyes blinked once, like the shutters of a double camera, and we were fixed forever in his memory."

Central character is Phil Hammschlager who is so good he hurts — everyone around him.

Even the ending has a "Lady or the Tiger?" switch.

This is one book in which the jacket blurb is not exaggerated enough in its claims of pleasures within.

THE RISK, by Cecilia Bartholomew; Doubleday, 285 pp., $3.95.

This is an uneven and at times amateurish book that deals with the breakdown of a man in a government job who is labelled a "security risk." While giving an interesting and detailed study of the man, his family and friends and their reaction to the government accusation, the book brings the hero to the point of tragedy without logically providing the stimulus needed to produce the final violent action. Particularly vibrant is the conversation between the suspect and the chief inquisitor. Otherwise, a book you could pass without missing much that isn't in your daily newspaper.

THE SACRED MUSHROOM, by Andrija Puharich; Doubleday, 261 pp., $4.50.

Here is a research book that reads like a thriller. Anyone with a bent for archeology, history or the languages will be fascinated and find The Sacred Mushroom a difficult book to put down.

Written by a leading authority on parapsychology and extrasensory perception it deals with some unique experiments with two Dutch "sensitives." The experiments send one back through the ages to Egypt at the time of the famed Cheops pryamid, uncover the sacred mushroom, an amazing plant that is the object, currently, of intensive scientific investigation.

Through its use the "subject" (if properly attuned) went back to ancient times, wrote heiroglyphics, told of the uses of the sacred mushroom in medicine and to separate "soul" and body.

There's some fascinating stuff here — in the field of telepathy, hypnosis, ESP, "mediums," "sensitives," trances and the like. Also no rash claims are floating about—the book is well documented, sober in tone but vitally alive in context.

APHIDS (Plant Lice) — Soft bodied, greenish, pinkish or reddish in color, not over ⅛" in length. Reduce plant vigor, curl or distort leaves, harden buds, cause malformation of flowers by feeding on plant juices. Controlled by thoroughly spraying plants with nicotine sulphate. Repeat spray as needed.

LEAFHOPPERS — Slender, delicate insects not over ⅛" in length. Pale green to brownish in color. Cause whitening and curling of leaves and kill tender tips by draining plant juices. Controlled by spray of nicotine sulphate.

THRIPS — Slender, hairy insects . . . yellowish to brownish in color. Cause flower petals to become flecked and discolored. Deform flowers or prevent their opening by feeding on tender flower parts. Controlled by nicotine sulphate spray. Blooms that have reached prime should be cut off and disposed of to prevent the spread of Thrips.

STRIPED CUCUMBER BEETLES — Eat holes in blossoms. Pale yellow with three stripes on wing covers. Attack roses, asters, and vegetables. Controlled by dusting with 1% Rotenone Garden Dust.

WIREWORMS — Slender larvae with round, smooth and shiny bodies. Pale yellow to brown in color. Feed on roots of flowers and burrow into bulbs and tubers. In adult stage develop in ½" long click beetles. Controlled by 45% Chlordane Spray or 10% Chlordane Dust.

Garden Free Of Pests? Then You're Lucky Or Near-Sighted

If you think your garden is free of pests, you're either long on luck or short on sight. For even the most vigilant gardener never completely does away with the cussed critters.

Don't despair, however. By one means or another, you CAN get most of the bugs out of gardening. It's a matter of taking minor precautions and acting quickly when a garden pest makes its appearance.

The need for a speedy counterattack is pointed up by the California Association of Nurserymen, which claims that one aphid and its mate can produce unbelievable thousands of progeny in a matter of days when left unmolested. And most other garden pests are just as prolific.

The best control method is to keep a clean garden. Clean up leaves and trash that lie on the surface to eliminate favorite breeding spots. Never pass the chance to hand-pick a harmful insect. This may seem a backward process, but when you consider its breeding potential, you can justify such methods.

Keep plants in the pink of condition at all times. The well fed, robust shrub is less damaged by an invasion of bugs than its straggly companion.

And finally, when pests do show up, waste no time in breaking out the spray gun. Some gardeners spray BEFORE the trouble starts, which keeps the garden clean as a whistle, but also uses a good deal more spray than you often need.

The art of spraying seems to elude some gardeners. If you follow these basic rules, you'll have no trouble.

FIRST, use only the amount recommended. Less may do no good at all. More may do more damage than the bugs.

SECONDLY, never spray with children or pets around. Make sure they keep their distance.

AND THIRD, never spray in a wind. The experienced gardener (or trash burner) knows there is nothing more capricious than a backyard wind. Since you can't outguess it, you might as well give in to it. The bugs won't do that much damage before it stops.

Garden Enemy Number One Isn't Completely Bad—Just In Gardens

The average homeowner probably feels that the pocket gopher, or just plain old "gopher," is his personal enemy; an animal that lives under their lawn or garden for the sole purpose of destroying their carefully tended plants. This attitude is justified in many cases because the gropher can ruin a landscaped area in a very short period of time.

Fortunately, as is the case with all of our wildlife, the gopher performs a highly valuable service in areas that are still largely uninhabited by turning over the soil; by providing openings to catch water so that it can penetrate the soil rather than be lost through rapid runoff; by mixing soil and plant material to increase fertility; and by loosening and aerating the soil.

Many people confuse the works of the mole and gopher. The gopher is a burrowing rodent with sharp rat-like teeth. The name pocket gopher comes from the presence of two external fur-lined cheek pouches that open outside the mouth. The lips of the gopher can close behind the four large incisor teeth so that dirt will not enter the mouth. Gophers are vegetarians and feed on roots, bulbs, and plant stems which they secure by eating off the base and jerking the remainder of the plant down into the burrow.

Moles are insectivores, not rodents, and have canine teeth. The eyes and ears are small and the front feet are broad and well developed for digging. The fur of the pocket gopher is soft and brownish-gray above with white underparts. Mole fur is short, velvety, and purple-black.

Pocket gophers spend most of their lives underground and are vulnerable to the attacks of most predators only when they come to the surface to throw out the loose soil from the burrows. Some animals, such as snakes and weasels, do not have to wait for the gopher to come to the surface and will follow it underground in order to capture it in its own burrows. Bobcats, fox, hawks, owls, and badger all feed on the gophers and provide a natural control that should be encouraged. Destruction of animals such as the badger will only lead to an increase of gophers which will do far more damage than the badger in areas of cultivation.

Like Frosting On A Cake, Border Adds Completeness

Like the trimming on a cake, an edging in the garden adds a sense of completeness. But there's more to it than that. Cake is good to eat without the trimming, while a garden without its share of edging material lacks appeal.

The term edging, however, is not to be mistaken for formality. Nor even for plant material, in all cases. Concrete, wood and rock are also used for edging in the landscape. And of the many plants used, only a finely clipped boxwood is completely formal in appearance.

The most widely used of all edging material are annual flowers. For color, they are unsurpassed. And the variety they offer through different seasons heightens their appeal. Consider then this list of annuals for edging which the California Association of Nurserymen considers tops in summer gardens.

THE FLUFFY, light-blue puffs of ageratum are favorites with all gardeners who have met them. CAN members rate ageratum high and consider it an "undiscovered" gem for gardeners who want a lot of color for very little work.

Also in shades of light blue, but in deep blue-purple too, are the compact forms of lobelia, with their masses of tiny blooms. These are surefire for summer-long color in a part-sun situation. Shearing back when blooms start to dwindle in late summer will bring another growth-bloom cycle.

The defending champion of edging annuals is probably the dwarf marigold. Its brightness is a summer-long phenomenon, to be used along a sunny path or around a border planting of shrubs.

And finally we come to alyssum, the modern descendants of those weedy annuals that used to come up wherever we didn't want it in California gardens. New varieties such as Carpet of Snow, Little Gem (both white) and Royal Carpet (a rich purple) make Alyssum a valuable addition to the list. Try it to define a border or a walk in your own garden and you'll see what we mean.

Plastic Bag Danger

DANGER—Wise mothers keep knives, scissors and matches out of reach of small fry. New danger is the polyethylene garment bag which children love to pull over their heads and look through. Suffocation may result.

THE RIGHT WAY — Dispose of plastic garment bags by tying them in knots and throwing them in the garbage can. Keep them away from young children at all costs, no matter how practical they seem.

Harmless Looking Bags Lethal To 59 Children

A few years ago, it was discarded iceboxes. Hapless youngsters were enchanted with these miniature hideaways and many suffocated when the doors banged shut on them.

Even more enchanting are polyethylene plastic bags, especially the king-sized ones which come over freshly-cleaned garments. They are equally attractive to their mothers, who find a variety of uses for these sheets of waterproof film.

Tragedy has followed in 59 cases. Official statistics show that 38 infants under six months of age suffocated from plastic film, either pulled or fallen across the face.

Next biggest toll — eight deaths—occurred with youngsters over 3 years of age. Plastic bags also claimed the lives of one in the 1-to-2 year bracket and three in the 2-to-3 bracket.

A nationwide campaign is on to avert such tragedies, patterned after similar campaigns for matches, gas and electrical outlets. Joining with the Society of the Plastic Industry, representing 1,000 individual companies, are the General Federation of Women's Clubs, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare; the National Safety Council, American Academy of Pediatrics, American Academy of General Practice and National Institute of Drycleaning.

Pamphlets, placards and public news media have been enlisted in the campaign.

Plastic bags are ideal for protecting garments from mildew and dust. For such, their place is on coat hangers. Smaller bags are ideal for refrigerator storage. In between, they should be stored with the same precautions as with poisons and dangerous instruments.

Their use in bedrooms is particularly dangerous. Standard mattress covers perform the same function, but do not have the lethal quality to clinging to the face with an indrawn breath.

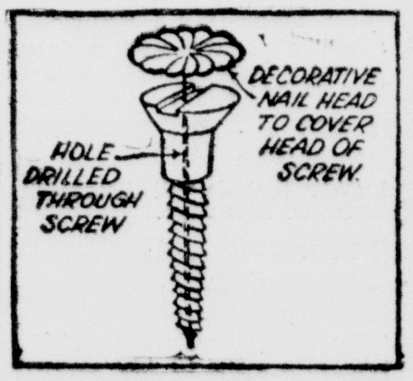
Do-It-Yourself

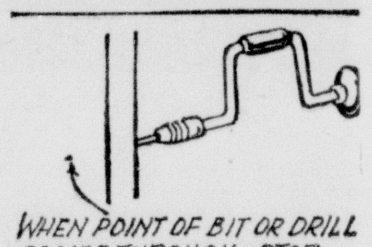
Dahlias Plantable

The dahlia, bless it, is still plantable in June. Figure about 90 days to picking, which puts it in the thick of the fall color schemes. For this season, plant yellows, golds and bronzes. When plants are six to eight inches high, pinch out the main stem to encourage bushiness and added blooms. Continued pinching will bring on more and smaller blooms. Disbudding all but the terminal bloom on each stem encourages blooms of exhibition size.

Smoke Some Petunia?

Well, that's not an impossible statement, for petunias and tobacco are of the same family, and the word petunia comes from the name the South American natives used to designate tobacco. So somehow the botanists got things a bit twisted up in naming the plants and the ornamental one got called petunia (which meant tobacco) and the one people smoke got called by an old Spanish word "tabaco" which referred to the manner in which the leaves were rolled to be smoked.





Geranium Myth

Geraniums have the reputation of being able to go for weeks on end without water. This is true—they will; but, they won't like it! In pots, especially, the geranium will give an inferior performance if water is lacking. Don't be afraid to water potted geraniums every other day, and feed them once a month through summer with a complete commercial fertilizer. You'll be surprised at the difference it makes.

BRIEFING FROM A GENERAL—James Stewart, who is a reserve brigadier general in the Air Force, briefs Maj. Gerald McKay on the intricate details of film production while the latter sits in a plane ready for action, in "Cowboy Five Seven," to be presented for the first time on "Stripe Playhouse" at 9:30 p. m. Friday, over KPIX Channel 5). This is the dramatic story of the Strategic Air Command, produced, directed and narrated by Stewart.

Weekly TV Log

Gunther To Star On Travel Show

NEW YORK (AP)—New York and Hollywood talent scouts are racing around furiously trying to sign up every big show business name for next season's spate of specials. Meanwhile, author John Gunther is due to become a television star largely, he insists, because he has rarely faced a camera.

Gunther, former newspaperman and author of best-selling nonfiction books, will preside over a filmed travel series which starts in September on ABC. He thinks he's in on a new idea in the travelogue field: climbing a mountain with U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas; looking around Cuba with Cesar Romero, grandson of a Cuban liberator; exploring jazz with Benny Goodman.

"IT'S TO BE a dramatic show," says the author of the half dozen "Inside" books. "The idea is to journey to peoples and places and give an exciting report on them. I really think the producers picked me for the commenting because I have never been on television for mor ethan a total of 90 minutes. A new face, you might say."

The projected show, called The High Road, will replace another travel show, Bold Journey, come fall.

American Square is sophisticated contemporary because it captures the essence, the familiar beauty of colonial craftsmanship . . . and yet, is not "quaint". The feeling is there in the carefully reproduced planking with set-in keys, and in the cut out decorative motifs, the horizontal linenfold drawer fronts . . . and in the inviting gleam of the soft new finish, warm as a hearthside. Yet, American Square is at home in today's rooms with today's accessories because the designs are contemporary-keyed, tuned, just so, to today's living.

American Square is for every room in your home. You choose from more than forty pieces (we couldn't show them all) for bedroom, dining room and living room. There are beautifully mated modular pieces to march along a wall or around a corner, luxurious sofas and chairs, smart occasional tables and a complete selection of bedroom and dining pieces plus many dual-purpose designs.
